AMBULANCE JOB NEXT FOR GAGLARDI'S JET?

Highways Minister Gaglardi's $600,000 Lear jet aircraft will become an air-ambulance if the NDP forms the government on September 12.

NDP leader Robert Strachan promised Tuesday night in Quesnel that the controversial aircraft would immediately be assigned to air-ambulance duties. (See also Page 2.)

'POLICY ERROR'

Hellyer Plan Faces New Challenge

SIMONDS

VOKES
. . . downgraded morale

Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, 1951-55 army chief, and Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes, a wartime divisional commander and post-war Central Command and Western Command head, say policy is pointed in the wrong direction by ignoring the possibility of having to mobilize for a major war.

In a joint letter and memorandum made public today, they launched a new drive to rally support against Defence Minister Hellyer's controversial plan for wrapping up the three armed services into one. They are among the first army men of high rank to take up the cudgels against the scheme that has caused an outbreak of early retirements among high navy officers.

Gen. Simonds, 63, commanded the 2nd Canadian Corps and later the 1st Canadian Army in Europe during the Second World War. He retired in 1955 after his term as chief of staff. Gen. Vokes, 62, who retired in 1959, was a divisional commander in Italy and northwest Europe. Both were professional soldiers.

Their joint letter and memorandum outlining "considered military opinion" goes to about 75 prominent Canadians across the country, including a number of officers retired from the armed forces. They urge "grave consideration and protracted debate" by the Commons, and the recipients are asked to take up the issue with members of Parliament.

COULD BE RIDICULOUS

Top-to-bottom unification of the forces, they say, "smells of nothing but change for the sake of change" and could turn out to be "ridiculous."

The two generals gave partial approval of the "integration" now in process as a step towards unification. They applaud as long overdue the integrated National Defence Headquarters under a single chief.

However, they have reservations about the establishment of six "integrated functional commands" among the forces. Misgivings were based on lack of a titular head for each of the three services and lack of assurance that the system will measure up to the strain of a general mobilization.

Both the functional command system and the unifying program, the generals say, stem from a policy that should be corrected before it is too late—a matter that should be "of foremost concern to all Canadians." They suggest that current Canadian policy is too concerned with peacekeeping tasks to have the forces in shape for mobilization in event of a big war.

MUST PREPARE

"The aim of governmental military policy in peacetime," they say, "must be to prepare for the worst eventuality—the outbreak of a major war in which Canada may become involved—no matter how remote this eventuality may seem.

"The employment of our standing military forces on peace-enforcement tasks is a contingency which is secondary to the above aim. . . .

"If senior Canadian professional sailors, soldiers and airmen have grave misgivings about accomplished or proposed changes in the structure of the Canadian armed forces, the government and the people of Canada should think very long and carefully before overriding their misgivings.

"It is very easy for a gov-

And Only The Curtains Had Rods!

It was curtains first thing this morning for a Bank of Montreal branch in Saanich.

Cook and Quadra branch manager Don McNab looked in his bank's window shortly before 9 a.m. and saw his employees lined up against a wall.

"I rushed to a phone and called the police," he said.

"We thought it was the real thing," said a Saanich sergeant.

Railway Unions Warn They Won't Obey Law

—(CP Wirephoto)

HIGHEST PAID civil servant in Canada at $75,000 a year, CNR president Donald Gordon is being made up for appearance Tuesday night in Ottawa on the CBC's television show Newsmagazine.

STRIKE LEGISLATION

Railway Leaders Critical

OTTAWA (CP) — The Pearson government came under fire from both railway president and union leaders Tuesday night over its legislation aimed at stopping the general rail strike.

CNR President Donald Gordon, Canada's highest-paid public servant at $75,000 a year, complained the government was forcing the railways to grant an eight-per-cent wage increase without compensating the companies.

CPR President Ian Sinclair made the same objection in an interview on the CBC television program Newsmagazine.

Two railway union leaders interviewed on the same program criticized the legislation because it provides for compulsory arbitration if negotiations fail and because the interim wage boost is too low.

Health Minister MacEachen said the minority Liberal government will stand by its bill in the face of stiff opposition in the Commons by Conservative and New Democratic parties.

He said no amendments would be introduced by the government during the second-reading stage — approval in principle.

He stressed the words "second reading," suggesting that the government might change certain clauses in the legislation in later stages of debate.

At a press conference later, both railway presidents made it clear that they had asked Mr. Pearson for federal money to cover the increased 1966 wage costs written into the strike bill. These would amount to $18,000,000 for the CPR and $30,000,000 for the CNR.

"The prime minister made no comment on this request," Mr. Gordon said.

Mr. Sinclair said the subsidy provided by the proposed railway legislation, starting at $110,000,000 in 1968 and sliding to zero by 1975, covers only "items of the past."

Both presidents argued there is nothing in the railway bill that would give the carriers any revenue increase in 1966. Thus the federal treasury should properly pay for the wage costs imposed on the railways for this year.

Mr. Sinclair said the sub-railway legislation does not even assure the reailways of added revenues in future years. All it would do is provide an opportunity for them to rationalize their plant and services to meet modern competitive situations.

Mr. Gordon rejected a suggestion that further mediation and negotiation, proposed in the bill, would be useless in face of the railway attitude.

Knowledge of the government's legislative plan would give a "new slant" to further negotiations, he said.

"Our labor friends may also begin to realize the facts of life."

Mr. Sinclair said the railways may make a wage offer conditional upon passage of the new railway legislation which has just been introduced in the Commons and will not be debated until the strike-ending bill has been cleared.

Mr. MacEachen stressed that the eight-per-cent wage boost in the bill would be an interim one only.

The conciliation boards had recommended an increase of 18 per cent over two years and it was "a realistic probability" that the unions would obtain this increase in later negotiations, he said.

Williams Smith, president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, said he was puzzled by the minister's statement. The legislation provided only for an eight-percent increase and guaranteed nothing more.

Both rail presidents complained bitterly to reporters about what they said was "misrepresentation" of the government's strike-ending bill. Mr. Gordon said statements being made by some quarters were "irresponsible, if not deliberately lying." But he decined to identify the people he was referring to.

Mr. Sinclair said suggestion that railway workers will not obey a back-to-work law are "fantastic." It was also fantastic to suggest that the terms of any back-to-work legislation would be referred to a vote of union members before it was acted on.

SOLITARY VIGIL is being maintained by picket Mrs. Anne Royle, wife of a Nanaimo welder, outside labor department office in Vancouver. She wants Labour Relations Board to call a representation vote at Harmac pulp mill so workers can choose between Canadian and international unions. Despite sign, there are 1,000, not 2,000 workers at Harmac. Board is expected to rule shortly on the issue. (CP Wirephoto.)

De Gaulle Meets Reds

PHNOM PENH (Reuters) — French President de Gaulle today had a 35-minute private meeting with the high-ranking diplomatic representative of the North Viet Nam government accredited to Cambodia.

The meeting was the highest contact so far between the French government and North Viet Nam.

"We chatted and I transmitted to Gen. de Gaulle friendly wishes of our president, Ho Chi Minh."

Demand Changes In Legislation

Times News Services

OTTAWA—Leaders of striking railway unions delivered a blunt warning to Prime Minister Pearson today that railway workers are not likely to return to work unless wage terms in the strike-ending legislation now before Parliament are improved.

A letter from them was delivered to Mr. Pearson's office shortly before the Commons sitting opened.

It appealed for amendments "which would make this legislation acceptable and avoid putting the railway workers of Canada in a position in which they are likely to ignore parliamentary action."

There were no specific suggestions what the amendments should contain.

The letter did not say what attitude the leaders themselves would take towards a clause in the bill which requires them to call off the strike immediately upon passage of the legislation.

The letter was drafted after a secret meeting in a downtown hotel attended by 80 strike leaders called to Ottawa from various parts of the country.

WANTS CHANGE

Paul Raymond, representing 25,000 Federated shopcraft union members, said the union leaders walked out on Labor Minister Nicholson today after telling him they feel unanimously it is useless to talk further unless the government is prepared to change its attitude.

He said Mr. Nicholson was advised that the union members find the government's settlement proposals completely unacceptable.

He was asked whether the shop crafts would accept an 18-per-cent increase.

As for the government's recommended settlement of an interim eight-per-cent increase, he said:

"I don't believe our people will go back to work on those conditions."

Mr. Raymond said the government wants to impose a settlement on the railway employees but "they don't have the guts to tell the men to go back to work; they expect us the union leaders, to tell them."

ALL-NIGHT SESSION?

Meanwhile Mr. Pearson recommended the Commons continue in session around the clock until the strike is settled.

Both the Liberals and Conservatives are understood to have agreed to sit all night tonight if necessary to get through the second reading stage of the end-the-strike bill.

After a Conservative caucus today Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said railway workers would refuse to return to work unless the government backs down and amends the bill.

He said the men would refuse to accept the word of anyone in parliament for anything not written in black and white.

Railway unions which carry on the strike after the end-the-strike legislation has been passed by parliament may be

Grits Fighting Tory Efforts To Scrap Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberal government Tuesday night fought back efforts to scrap its controversial bill to end the national rail strike.

In a biting speech in the Commons, Health Minister MacEachen said the opposition was "totally irresponsible" in trying to misrepresent government efforts to end the strike.

If there was any reluctance on the part of the 118,000 strikers to return to work once the bill was passed, it would be due in part to Opposition Leader Diefenbaker's claim they would get only a six-per-cent pay increase.

Mr. MacEachen said it was absolutely unrealistic to suggest the final wage settlement would be anything less than the 18 per cent recommended in conciliation reports.

The former labor minister also denied that the bill does nothing to implement the report by Mr. Justice Samuel Freedman of Winnipeg on automation in the railway industry.

This key objection on the part of union leaders — echoed by Conservative and NDP spokesmen—was a feature of a Diefenbaker amendment, which may be voted upon today, to kill the bill. The amendment said the bill's neglect of fringe benefits makes it inadequate.

BILL UNWORKABLE

Mr. Diefenbaker said it was clear the government bill was unworkable and might be defied by the strikers. It had to be changed to avoid disrespect of Parliament.

Mr. MacEachen stressed throughout his speech that the government bill before the House was aimed at getting the rail workers back on the job, with an interim wage boost, and leaving the final ironing-out of the settlement to negotiations between the parties.

Mr. MacEachen over-rode interjections by Mr. Diefenbaker, Mr. Douglas and NDP deputy leader David Lewis in a hard-hitting speech.

When he repeated time and again that Mr. Diefenbaker ordered railway workers back to work in 1960 empty - handed, Liberal back - benchers applauded and called the Conservatives "the zero gang."

He also needled the NDP about party member Frank Howard's efforts last spring to have compulsory arbitration used to settle the longshoremen's strike.

"This bill is just about as good as any bill produced by the opposition and to describe it otherwise is hypocrisy," Mr.

EXHAUSTED NUNS FAINT UPON REACHING SAFETY

HONG KONG (Reuters)—Two of eight Roman Catholic nuns expelled from China fainted while crossing into Hong Kong today as about 700 Chinese Red Guards shouted and raised clenched fists at them.

One of the nuns who fainted was Sister Winifred Duff, a 76-year-old Canadian who was mother superior of the Peking convent taken over by youthful Red Guards last week.

The Red Guards on the Chinese side shouted as a 58-year-old nun from Cork, Ireland, Mary O'Sullivan, was wheeled across the border on a baggage trolley.

The two nuns were taken to a hospital where a spokesman said they were suffering from general fatigue and would be kept in hospital for several days.

The other six were taken to a convent.

"All of them are healthy," a nun at the convent said, "but they're all very, very tired and they would like to rest."

The nuns who all looked drawn and depressed, said they had been under armed guard during the entire three-day train journey from Peking to Canton and had not slept for eight days.

The eight members of the Franciscan Order of Mary had taught at the Sacred Heart Academy in Peking since before the Communists took over mainland China in 1949. Last Thursday violently anti-Western Red Guards invaded the school, hoisted the red flag over it, plastered the walls with demands that "foreign devils" get out of China and forced some of the nuns to kneel in the gutter while they reviled them.

Purportedly acting on the teen - aged Red Guards' demands, the Communist government closed the school and expelled the nuns.

Peaceful Persuasion

PEKING (Reuters) — Peking's young Red Guards, who have held sway over much of the city for the last 10 days, were today ordered to stick to peaceful persuasion in their anti-bourgeois campaign and to remember that supreme authority lies with the party central committee.

GARDINER, Ore.—Pat Morris returned to work on the night shift Tuesday, wearing coveralls.

Some 315 workers returned to work at the International Paper Co.'s plywood plant, struck a week ago after Miss Morris was suspended because she wore tightly fitting jeans.

The company said Miss Morris, a 35-year-old brunette with measurements of 39-27-39, was sent home because she refused to change her attire.

Local 2195 of the lumber and sawmill workers union, maintaining she should have received a written warning, went on strike.

A spokesman for the union said the union halted the strike on the assumption Miss Morris was told only to go home and change clothes.

The tiny, blonde, 62-year-old dancer gave the famous three-foot-long white ostrich plumes to the Chicago Historical Society Tuesday.

"They're symbolic of an age," said Clement Silvestro, society director. as he accepted them.

Miss Rand stirred up a lot of controversy—and male fairgoers—when she danced wearing them and—and nothing else—at Chicago's 1933-34 Century of Progress World's Fair.

Miss Rand first offered her fans to the society in 1943 but they were turned down then as not having "sufficient historical interest."

Silvestro said the fans, each weighing seven pounds, are valued at about $400.

The incident was reported by Pat Rooney Jr. of Coos Bay and Roger Todd of Bend, Ore., who were fishing for tuna during the weekend when they encountered the 150-foot Russian vessel about 10 miles out to sea.

Rooney and Todd traded the beer, American cigarettes and macaroni for Russian cigarettes and wooden dolls.

They said when the Russians pulled the opener on the top of the first beer can it began to hiss and they apparently thought the can was exploding. After their fears subsided, the Russians thirstily downed the beer, they said.

LONDON — The Beatles came back from their fourth North American tour to a screaming welcome by about 250 fans at London Airport today, but police ordered the removal of a banner saying: "Thank Christ you are home safely."

It was plain to onlookers that the banner was a sort of humorous reference to John Lennon's famous remark that The Beatles are more popular than Jesus. Lennon's statement caused a furore, particularly in the southern United States, and he apologized for it at the start of the three-week tour.

subject to a fine of not more than $150 a day for every day the strike continues.

The penalties are spelled out in the Investigation, Conciliation and Settlement of Industrial Disputes, already on the statute books, a spokesman in Labor Ministe J. R. Nicholson's office said today.

While there are no penalties set out in the bill now before the house, the labor department spokesman explained that its wording brought the Industrial Relations and Disputes Act into effect so far as penalties are concerned.

Plant shutdowns and layoffs involving at least 5,700 men in Ontario and the Maritimes were announced Tuesday, and more are imminent.

However, Prince Edward Island's main ferry link with the mainland was restored with quiet order this morning, ending five days of uncertainty over whether striking workers would resume operation of the CNR vessels which ply between Borden, P.E.I., and Cape Tormentine, N.B.

QUESNEL—NDP leader Robert Strachan, giving his first election speech deep in the heart of Social Credit country, told a 200-strong audience here Tuesday night that the time had come to end the reign of a government whose main skill lay in how to manipulate the masses.

"These people in government with their public relations officers and their drum-beaters show that old skill we know so well — they know how to manipulate the masses.

Speaking in support of Anglican minister the Rev. Hartley Dent, of 100-Mile House, Mr. Strachan urged the people of the Cariboo to "once and for all" throw out the Social Credit government.

"This election was not called by the government in power, but by big business in the east.

"The premier has in so many words told us this himself. He has said that the people in the east needed him to get a new mandate from the people before they would invest more money in this province.

"Anytime big business wants a particular government in office you can be sure they have their gimlet eye on our natural resources.

"You cannot serve big business in eastern Canada or the eastern United States and also serve the people of British Columbia."

Mr. Strachan said that the present government had often accused the NDP of being against the Peace River power development and the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

"We were never against the Peace River power development," he said. "We did oppose and still oppose the Wenner-Gren program for the Peace, we will always oppose the giving away of our natural resources to foreign interests.

"He says we opposed the PGE, but that is a political falsehood.

Give People Honest Accounting

"The PGE, and Mr. Bennett admits this, is costing us money. All we ask is how much money, it is costing us and Mr. Bennett is afraid to tell us."

At least a dozen high-ranking members of the Social Credit party were present to hear Mr. Strachan's angriest attack on the government to date.

They sat quietly through his hour-long address and had no questions to ask in the following question period.

Mr. Strachan's sharpest attack was reserved for minister. of agriculture, Frank Richter.

"There is nothing B.C. needs more than a new minister of agriculture," he said.

"The present minister is completely incompetent," he said, to a burst of applause from the audience.

"Because of the government's jerrymandering of the ridings we have a situation down south in the Okanagan where Mrs. Lois Haggen is challenging this man for his seat in the legislature.

"The forecast is that Mrs. Haggen does not stand a chance against Mr. Richter in his home riding.

"But she is a fighter and I say that like Mary Poppins she will be back in the Legislature not riding on an umbrella but riding on a whirlwind of votes.

"She has cut this man down to size before and she will cut him down to size this time, as the NDP will cut Mr. Bennett down to size when the votes are tallied on Sept. 12.

"The Social Credit government has to realize, and the people of this province have to realize, that the wealth of British Columbia does not belong to Sir William Andrew Cecil Bennett.

"We must end this government which uses all its ruthless power simply to perpetuate themselves in office."

End Trend Towards Welfare State

Speaking on his party's policy, should the Socialists be elected, Mr. Strachan said that he would end the present trend towards the welfare state.

"We do not believe in the welfare state," he said. "It is a sign of failure, but if we want to get rid of the welfare state and the sickening system of handouts, then we must get rid of the government that perpetuates the welfare state.

"We are sick to death of this philosophy propounded by Social Credit and big business that there is a scarcity of consumer goods and good things for the people.

"Why should the people of this province by unable to buy a new suit, a new hi-fi, a new range or a new refrigerator?

"It is simply because the vast wealth of British Columbia is not shared by the ordinary people."

Mr. Strachan said that contrary to popular government opinion, big business in B.C. was rarely required to risk any capital when it came to exploration and discovery.

"The government offers them fantastic benefits if they will just locate here," he said.

"Big business in this country is gutless, it will not move until it has a market sewed up, until its profits are guaranteed.

"Fifty years ago the people who were opening up this province may have taken risks but not today."

On education, Mr. Strachan warned that 34 per cent of the present population of Canada was under the age of 15 years.

"It is not too difficult to see what will happen five years from now when these young people are ready to move on to a higher education whether it be at university or at a vocational school.

"They will have nowhere to go because this government is completely sterile when it comes to planning for the future of the growing generation.

"It can however afford $600,000 for Chief Little Big Mouth to float around the country in a Lear jet."

Today Mr. Strachan leaves Quesnel for a whistle-stop car trip to Mefritt where he is scheduled to speak this evening. En route he will speak at Williams Lake and 100-Mile House.

Churchmen Run Show In Cariboo

QUESNEL — The New Democratic Party is firing high-church guns in the Cariboo in an endeavor to unseat Social Credit incumbent William Speare, deputy speaker of the Legislature.

Mr. Bush was the former minister to the Anglican Church at Grand Prairie, Alta.

He was banished from his parish last November after unsuccessfully seeking a seat in the federal government.

Asked how he was earning a living these days Mr. Bush said: "I am now devoting my life to the party and will continue to do so."

Mr. Bush will return to Alberta following the Sept. 12 election.

Body Discovered On Wallace Island

The body, unidentified at press time, was being taken to Chemainus.

It is believed to be the body of a man and was found washed up on the beach early today.

'Make B.C. Even Greater'

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — People are becoming increasingly disenchanted with politics and are more cynical than ever about political parties, B.C. Liberal leader Ray Perrault told a service club Tuesday night.

Mr. Perrault said the lack of interest was due to the high state of prosperity and lack of issues in the current election campaign.

"This nation, as well as B.C., needs a revival of interest. The cynics everywhere are spreading disillusionment and they are gaining some headway. I think their doctrines are poisonous."

Mr. Perrault said while political parties in B.C. may disagree on policies they are united in their love for the province and he urged the parties to co-operate more in making B.C. "an even greater province than it is."

ernment to impose its will on its senior serving officers by retiring them out-of-hand if they disagree with a policy which, because of their training and experience, they know to be dangerous to the future military welfare of their country.

"Current military obligations in peacetime must never be permitted to obscure the long-range aim by tailoring military organization to fit what is only an incidental requirement," the former commanders add.

NEED IGNORED?

Of outright unification, they say that those who espouse it "have either ignored or completely downgraded the need for a high morale in military men in peace and in war."

Dealing with both integration and unification, the generals say there are many reasons why both might prove to be a dangerous military experiment. Other military powers were not doing it. As Canada had no premium on military know-how, the unorthodoxy was "most astonishing."

However, the generals concede that integration should be given a fair trial since it now is in force. It must be seen whether it would stand up under mobilization tests. But unification was something else.

"What purpose is to be served by throwing our three services into a common pot, with a common uniform and a common rank structure?" they ask. "Nothing can possibly be gained by producing a military hybrid who is a jack of-all-trades and a master of none. . . .

"What the country pays for, and what she got in the past, are good fighting men, not military hermaphrodites."

Man Sent to Jail For Stealing Cigarette Packs

A Victoria man today was sentenced to 30 days in jail for stealing two packs of cigarettes.

Eirven Spill, 34, no fixed address, pleaded guilty to theft from Jimmy Little's, 2017 Quadra, on Aug. 30.

A Victoria police constable told court he found Spill "sitting in some trees and smoking," in Central Park after he was called to the scene by the storeowner.

Spill had had a previous conviction for robbery.

Thief Gets $73.50 From Hotel Cash Box

A cash box at the desk of the Beverley Hotel, 724 Yates, was prey to a thief sometime Tuesday morning.

. . . GRITS FIGHT TO KEEP BILL

MacEachen said to Liberal cheers.

Mr. Diefenbaker had stopped the 1960 strike before it started and ordered the men back to work empty - handed. Now he wanted the Liberal government to fix wage rates for a two-year agreement and legislate a total settlement.

"How can he square this amendment with his own conduct as prime minister?" Mr. MacEachen asked.

As labor leaders listened in the galleries, Mr. Diefenbaker asked what the latest government offer to the unions was.

"I can answer that question at once. No offer has been made."

Labor Minister Nicholson also denied that any other offer had been made to the unions.

Mr. MacEachen denied that the bill makes no allowance for settlement of the key job security issues described in the Freedman report last year after an inquiry on CNR crew run-throughs.

He said the principal Freedman proposal is that the ideal solution is to allow the parties involved in collective bargaining to cope with the problem.

ALL IN LINE

If this failed, an arbitrator could be appointed. All this was in line with the government bill, which provided for collective bargaining followed by arbitration if no progress was made.

Both Creditiste and Social Credit spokesmen promised support for the Liberal strike-ending legislation.

There appeared little chance the bill would be defeated on a vote. However, Social Credit Leader Thompson's suggestion that it could be amended during clause-by-clause study appeared possible.

NDP Leader Douglas said his party would support the Conservative motion.

The NDP tried to move an amendment, ruled out of order, that criticized the bill for imposing compulsory arbitration and proposed an administrator to supervise the railways during collective bargaining.

Free University? Never—Chant

B.C. will never reach "the socialistic ideal" of providing free university educations for all, Works Minister W. N. Chant told a student delegation at an election meeting Tuesday night.

But education, which ranks first with 60 per cent of the provincial budget going to it and other social services, will receive even more assistance in the future, he said.

Mr. Chant and Waldo Skillings, MLA in the last legislature, parried questions across the floor with five University of Victoria students at a Victoria Social Credit election meeting at Tillicum School.

During the question period the students pressed their demands for equalization grants for out-of-town students and increased aid,

"A student's desire for higher education as well as his parents' ability to pay for one are factors in whether he receives one, Mr. Chant told them.

NO CURE-ALL

"A minister doesn't make commitments on future spending," replied Mr. Chant.

Mr. Skillings told the students they were "ill advised to use such pressure tactics" on the government, but added "I think you've convinced me" and promised his support.

"We're not against you, we're for you," Mr. Chant said. "But you're only one segment of the population.

"In budgeting for the expenses of the province, you can't think of just one facet or two facets, but of all the people."

BROUGHT LIFE

He commended them for bringing "life and spirit" to the meeting.

But at one point when students' questions came thick and fast, they were told by Mr. Skillings to "hire a hall of your own, boys."

Earlier in the meeting Mr. Chant stated B.C.'s economy will develop "until not only will it equal Ontario and Quebec, but in dollar value we will exceed Ontario and Quebec in industrial production.

"This is no idle dream."

He slammed what he called the Liberal policy of "Saturday night rich, Monday morning broke.

"We can't manufacture money out of thin air, but we have done away with" the province's previous net debt, he said.

SURPRISES

He named as two highlights on the Social Credit government's record so far, the B.C. Electric takeover and the Peace River power project, and added that in all government matters "I would rather give surprises than promises."

Mr. Skillings said this is "not a gimmick election but one of the most important in the entire history of B.C."

Reason for the election, he said, was the redistribution bill, which "as soon as it became a fact," made the election a necessity so B.C. could be more fairly represented.

Cyclist Suffers Fractured Leg

A Victoria motorcyclist is in good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital following an accident at Bay and Douglas about 8 a.m. today.

Grant Grills, 1773 Fairfield, suffered a fractured leg after his motorcycle went out of control while he was braking for a red light on Douglas.

Witnesses said the man was tossed off the machine onto the road.

The order brings to more than $18,000,000 contracts held by Canadair for components of the giant plane and will provide a maximum of 800 new jobs at the Hontreal plant until 1970, Mr. Kearns said.

Rail Pay Offer Jeopardizes Wage Increase Due Forces

OTTAWA (CP)— The railway strike may have a severe impact on the armed forces.

This has nothing to do with any possible use of troops to move trains, a possibility already dismissed by Prime Minister Pearson with the statement: This is Canada.

It has to do with pay.

The increase is rumored to be 14 per cent. Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, without giving the source of his information, has stated flatly the planned increase is 14 per cent.

The question now being asked by many servicemen is this: How can the government give us 14 per cent when it has offered the railwaymen eight per cent?

HALT EXODUS

Defence Minister Hellyer has said the pay raise for the armed forces must be large enough to halt the exodus of servicemen, mainly skilled technicians, to bigger-paying jobs in civvy street.

The Oct. 1 pay increase won't be across the board on a given percentage, informants said Tuesday. Raises for skilled personnel and for those in responsible positions will be higher than for other servicemen.

However, the average total increase is expected — or was until recently — to be around 14 per cent or some $75,000,000 on the current $530,000,000 annual pay bill for the armed forces.

Servicemen haven't had a general raise for two years. Many officials said they assume that if the percentage increase is small, the exodus from the armed forces will accelerate, at least among short-service personnel who do not have a lot of money tied up in pensions.

LACK RECRUITS

Dismissed Rear-Admiral William Landymore has said that the navy expects to get only half the number of recruits it needs in the next year and that by next summer six or seven destroyers will have to be beached for lack of men to sail them.

Politically, the government might have a difficult time justifying a 14-per-cent increase for the armed forces after offering the railwaymen eight per cent, sources said, especially when many persons regarded the railways as more essential than the forces.

Officials said rising costs have put the defence department in a tight economic squeeze.

TIGHT SQUEEZE

Servicemen had to be paid more to keep them in the forces. This in turn reduced the funds for new weapons, whose costs were also going up.

Some authorities predicted that unless the government increases the defence budget — $1,572,000,000 this year — the defence department will have to retrench by eliminating some of its tasks and reducing is weapons programs.

They said there is no indication that the government — or Mr. Hellyer — wants a big increase in the defence budget.

Hellyer Dodges Censorship Query

HELLYER

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Hellyer declined to say directly in the Commons Tuesday whether the briefing given the Commons defence committee June 23 by dismissed Rear-Admiral William Landymore was censored beforehand.

Mr. Hellyer said initially in reply to Harold Winch (NDP—Vancouver East) that he doesn't believe in censorship and that no restriction had been placed on questions by committee members or Admiral Landymore's replies.

Mr. Winch then asked whether Admiral Landymore's presentation preceding the question-and-answer period had been censored beforehand.

Mr. Hellyer said he would be glad to give the answer when the committee next met.

"Answer yes or no now whether anything was cut out," Mr. Winch shouted.

Mr. Hellyer said the admiral had deleted two or three references to friendly countries.

Marcel Lambert (PC—Edmonton West), vice-chairman of the defence committee, asked whether references to personnel matters and morale had been deleted. He twice referred to the admiral as "admirable" Landymore by slips of the tongue.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker quoted Admiral Landymore as saying that a section on personnel had been censored and rewritten. Was this correct?

"Insofar as me giving instructions, it is not," Mr. Hellyer said.

Air Canada Seats Empty

TORONTO (CP) — Air Canada's flights have up to 500 empty seats daily despite the rail strike because passengers who make reservations are not showing up at the airports, the company said in a statement Tuesday.

Seats are available to most Air Canada destinations, the statement said.

The reservations desks are handling about 1,200 calls an hour, 14,000 calls daily.

Scholarships Given Five City Students

Winners of six president's scholarships for high school graduates entering the University of Victoria have been announced by Uvic president Dr. Malcolm G. Taylor.

Five of the winners are graduates of Greater Victoria schools. All six had averages of over 90 per cent and ranked within the province's top 40 students.

$500 EACH

The scholarships, worth $500 each, go each year to the six students entering Uvic with the highest standings in final exams.

Winners are:

William Sparks, 17, of 651 Falkland Rd., who ranked second in B.C. with a 95.5 per cent average, to win the Governor General's bronze medal. He plans to specialize in economics and political science.

Dawn Speed, 17, of 711 Pemberton Rd., who will major in mathematics.

Gillian Wallace, 18, of 1345 Fairfield Rd., who will major in social sciences and mathematics.

Carolyn Zapf, 16, of 3833 Cumberland Rd., who will specialize in English or political science.

Brian Harvey, 17, of 210 Denison Rd., who will major in marine biology.

The out-of-town winner is Carolee Mae Orme, 16, of Kelowna, who will enrol in the arts and science faculty and will major in history.

Cong Terror Squads Launch Vote Sabotage

SAIGON (AP)—The Communists have launched a full scale campaign to sabotage South Viet Nam's election Sept. 11 with a three-phase program rising from threats to terrorism, informed sources said today.

More than 100 incidents throughout the country have been reported to authorities within the last few weeks. It is estimated that a far larger number were unreported.

Tuesday night Saigon policemen shot and killed a suspected Viet Cong agent tearing down election posters. This incident dramatized scores of similar acts that have passed relatively unnoticed in war-torn South Viet Nam.

In Kien Hoa province south of Saigon a Viet Cong group seized 15 relatives of local officials and is holding them hostage.

There have been half-a-dozen reports of buses being stopped on rural roads and the passengers harangued by Viet Cong terror squads.

SEIZE CARDS

In a dozen provinces the Viet Cong have seized identity cards to keep voters from the polls.

In the southern delta area Communist propaganda squads have been going nightly into an untold number of villages and threatening reprisals if the peasants vote.

Dozens of candidates — there are 542 of them—have received direct and indirect threats.

Ironically, the Communist campaign is considered an indication that the elections are stirring more interest than is evident on the surface.

Government officials have been somewhat disappointed at the relatively small crowds turning out for election rallies, and the candidates have aroused only lukewarm enthusiasm.

Rhodesian Talks Not Broken Off

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Wilson said Tuesday he has no intention of handing over the Rhodesia question to the United Nations.

He also made clear for the first time that exploratory talks between British and Rhodesian officials which suddenly were suspended in Salisbury last week have not been broken off but only adjourned.

Wilson made these statements to Edward Heath, Opposition Conservative leader, in a 45-minute meeting Tuesday, Heath told reporters.

Good Judgment Essential

BOTH MR. DOUGLAS AND MR. Diefenbaker are making much of their opposition to the government's legislation designed to get Canada's freight cars moving again. They are seeking much less publicity — none, in fact — for their proposals as to how the great impasse might be settled. A situation like this, in which the government is damned if it does and damned if it doesn't is made for opposition politicians, and Mr. Douglas and Mr. Diefenbaker are making political hay while the storm clouds gather.

Mr. Diefenbaker has rightly said that if the railway strike legislation passes, despite Conservative and NDP efforts, then all parties should unite in urging the railway workers to obey the law and return to work. That is to his credit. But it would be still more to his credit if he would recognize that the current crisis is not merely an opportunity for partisan politicking, but a national emergency which requires the best efforts of all elected representatives in Canada's parliament. There is little reputation to be won by throwing rocks at a man who is busy struggling with a tiger, even though you may score a hit or two.

At the present time, the unions indicate that they will not accept the proposed interim settlement of an 8 per cent wage increase and an immediate return to work while further negotiations take place. They claim that the government offer falls far below the earlier conciliation recommendation of 18 per cent. But the interim increase seems relatively unimportant to the layman observer since any final settlement is going to be retroactive in any case, and the government's proposal may be considered merely as a temporary stopgap.

The proposed legislation preserves the workers' right to strike — it is based mainly on an appeal to the individual to recognize his relationship to the nation and not hold the Canadian economy to ransom. There is a line beyond which the country cannot go in meeting demands from any section of the population. That line may be difficult to distinguish, but the responsibility of the government, as of Parliament, is to the nation as a whole, and its decisions must be made with that in mind.

Those decisions must be logical and just, but they must be in the national interest. And the national interest today lies in control of an inflationary spiral which seriously threatens to accelerate and destroy the savings, pensions and fixed incomes of millions of Canadians.

The government today must hold the line on the principle of containing inflation. No government, regardless of its political name, can permit the country's economy to be destroyed by a union policy or by the breakdown of its transportation links. Union leaders should not push their demands past a point which no government could be expected to accept. That would be suicide.

Inequality Before the Law

THE poor, the young and the friendless, comprising more than one-third of the population, cannot be served by the existing machinery of justice in Canada, says Mr. J. T. Weir, president of the Canadian Bar Association.

This is an indictment of a system which patently needs amendment, if justice is to be dispensed with all possible equality to all Canadians.

Mr. Weir has suggested certain remedies — and Mr. Maxwell Cohen, dean of McGill's law faculty, has proposed provision of free legal aid to all who need it in the country. But there would remain significant inequalities even with the assistance the two distinguished legal figures advocate.

How equal are individuals before the court, for instance, when a rich man can be freed on bail but a poor man, unable to raise it, has to remain in jail? How equal is the penalty when the convicted rich man can pay a fine, which may be negligible to him, while a poor convicted man without means serves time?

Quite obviously, while such procedures continue, the freedom of the individual under the law carries a price tag.

Mr. Weir says that "the law of procedure and judicial administration . . . cries out to heaven for change." Perhaps the cry will be heard there, but there is a less distant jury that might be addressed —the law makers who can eliminate inequalities.

And So Back to School

WITHIN A WEEK YOUNG people of Greater Victoria will be returning to school, some enthusiastic about acquiring an education, some anxious only to fill in time until they can be released from what they consider drudgery.

To the latter, registrations for the Institute of Adult Studies and for evening courses and non-vocational study should carry a message.

The message is that over 1,000 people are giving their time, energy and money to acquire knowledge and skills which they missed during their periods of formal education.

Among them are many who now recognize the opportunities they wilfully ignored while in regular school — and others who had not the opportunity to proceed high enough in grades to achieve the kind of living they now want.

The message is more important than heretofore because the world of the future will demand more highly educated and better trained people than ever before.

Churchman and Divorce

A UNITED CHURCH CLERGYman in Victoria has used the same argument — and suggested the same grounds for divorce—as the Church of England special committee appointed by the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Rev. Albert E. King has endorsed the idea that divorce should be granted on the basis of a complete marriage breakdown. He would, like the Church of England committee, have all avenues of reconciliation explored before permitting dissolution of the marriage and he would call for a three-year period between application and the granting of a final decree.

With his proposal he also condemns the Canadian law which with minor exceptions limits grounds for divorce to adultery.

"Many people have told me how they lied and perjured themselves to provide false evidence of adultery," he explained, adding, "It means that our present divorce laws are an invitation to delinqency."

This is not news to those who have given even cursory study to the problem of divorce in Canada. But it comes with some significance from a United Church pastor, endorsing a Church of England position and following a statement by a well-informed Roman Catholic in Canadian public life who, opposed on religious grounds to divorce, recognizes the impropriety of forcing his concepts on others who do not share his faith.

In legal, lay and religious circles the demand for amendment of the law gains volume. How long must Canada wait until the government recognizes the will of so large a section of its people on this subject?

Biased Judge

May I reply to the letter of W. Kersey in Monday's Times.

I find it hard to believe that there are people in this area, who can get so indignant at speeches made by candidates during an election campaign, and yet, during a legislative session, you never once see a letter from them, decrying the vulgar bad manners, the attempts by an overwhelming majority to shout down an opponent, and the studied discourtesy of a cabinet minister leaving the chamber while a debate was in progress.

It is said, "There are none so blind, as those who will not see," and it must be true, or, Mr. Kersey would realize his letter was arrogant in presuming to judge others when he himself appears to be so biased.—George Lamb, 3547 Happy Valley Rd.

Social Credit Unlimited

The Social Credit Premier says he is very pleased with the B.C. hospital scheme. Not so the unfortunate subscribers who have to wait for urgent surgery two or three weeks and for elective surgery over three months!

Our finance minister is never tired of illustrating to us how he has reduced provincial debt to nil. Yet on page 6 of the July issue of the "B.C. Government News" is set forth "Contingent Liabilities" of B.C. Crown Corporations, that is their debt, totalling the utterly fantastic figure of $1,433,456,072, which I do not think includes the $50,000,000 just borrowed from the U.S.A.

The NDP say the B.C. Government will be in serious financial difficulty in spring. They could be right. Mr. Bennett declares this immense goverment debt to be self-liquidating. If that is a fact why the provincial guarantee, unqualified, for every last cent of it? Evidently we are not the only sceptics. British Columbia's word is not sufficient; somebody wants our bond, binding on every last taxpayer in this great province.

Mr. Bennett may have done wonders for the province, but at what a cost! As a Social Credit Minister of Highways the Reverend Phillip Gaglardi foolishly stated recently that all we want is a Western Bank and everything in the garden would be lovely. Lots of (Social) credit for everyone and low, low interest rates. What about New York, London, Berlin, etc., etc.? Haven't they tumbled to Social Credit? Let our highways minister stick to his self-liquidating jet planes, they will liquidate our hard earned taxes all right.—John Kenny.

To Mr. Jodoin Inflation Is a 'Bogey'

Western

MR. CLAUDE JODOIN, president of the Canadian Labour Congress has backed the striking railway men with a statement dismissing inflation as a "bogey threat." As a prophet Mr. Jodoin seems to be a very determined ostrich. Last February, waiting on the government, he advised the ministers that he found "A remarkable degree of price stability," and no evidence "to support the view that Canada has entered, or is on the point of entering an inflationary period requiring broad restraints in monetary, fiscal, wage and other policies."

Price Tags Give Facts

Economists are often wrong and Mr. Jodoin can doubtless claim that he was in good company. But a great deal has occurred since last February and inflation cannot be ignored today merely because the CLC insisted six months ago that it could not happen here. There is nothing hob-goblinish about the price tag that every housewife can see in the stores.

Mr. Jodoin got himself into this by repeating what has lately become a popular union theme. He said in his Friday message; "Experience has inevitably been that in time of recession workers are told that they cannot expect higher wages because they cannot be afforded. When times are good, they are told that wage increases would be untimely because they might cause inflation."

This sounds hard indeed and it indicates why inflation for Mr. Jodoin has to be a "bogey threat." But the argument is more the CLC myth than a description of ecomomic fact. It does not fit the dispute to which Mr. Jodoin had reference.

Whatever workers were "told," the fact is that railway employees "on average" have had three rounds of wage increases in the period since 1960, which includes both good and bad years. (It's necessary to use the qualifying term, "on average," because not all rail contracts are for two year periods.) According to a CPR source, these have ranged from 12 per cent to 15 per cent; whatever the figure, they have undoubtedly been substantial.

Argument Varied

Mr. Jodoin does not appear to have too much faith in the argument himself because he promptly varies it. The advance of wages and salaries in the period 1961-65 compares unfavorably, he complains, with the overall increase in corporation profits after taxes. So it is not in reality a case of always jam tomorrow but never jam today; it is simply a case of not enough jam.

There may very well be groups of employees with legitimate complaints but this is an across-the-board strike which Mr. Jodoin is supporting with arguments of sweeping generalizations. They are much too sweeping to be meaningful. The comparison of wages and profits for example ignores the fact that in our economic system profits are the motive power. They have to finance the expansion of which Mr. Jodoin is a stirring advocate. We seem now to be at the peak of the longest period of continued expansion on record.

Use of Profits

In his statement of the rail strike Mr. Jodoin directed particular attention to the position of the CPR. At the beginning of this year, the CPR planned a capital investment appropriation for plant and equipment of $97.7 million. It was criticized for doing too little and in fact with the pressure of grain traffic — in particular the demand for more diesels — the company has to modify its plans. The prospect is that investment will now go well over $100 million. Either this comes out of profits or else it must be borrowed, in which latter case profits must still provide the means of meeting increased fixed charges.

Mr. Jodoin seems to have paid insufficient attention to the CPR because he attributes to it a profit last year reaching $73 million after taxes. The figures are public. They show net rail earnings, after taxes, of $40,239,707. This slightly underestimates the case because the railway also had other income from various enterprises (some involved in the strike and some not) of $17,580,000 and on the other hand fixed charges of $16,344,375 thus the actual figure was about $41,476,000 of which $21,316,909 was paid out to shareholders.

Even if Mr. Jodoin's reading is at fault, $41 million would seem to most people a very healthy figure. But it looks distinctly less in the light of wage demands on the company estimated by the CPR at $102,608,000.

What About CNR?

If the position of the CPR is worth examining, as Mr. Jodoin says, what about the CNR? The strike is against both companies and the wage demand on the state railway is much higher than that on the private road. What was the CNR's position last year?

This also is on the public record. There was a loss of $33.4 million. The loss comes out of the treasury; in other words out of our pockets.

Mr. Jodoin is not only aware of this; he makes a point of it. His statement begins with the militant assertion; "Canadian railway workers can no longer be expected to personally subsidize a major section of Canada's railway system." He means by this that according to his calculations they are underpaid. He goes on; "It is also true of course that these people are required through taxation to make a further contrubution to the national subsidies to which the prime minister has referred on a number of occasions."

It is true that since none of us can contract out of the general body of taxpayers. So what is Mr. Jodoin's point? Is the threat of higher taxation to meet higher deficits merely another of his bogeys? Certainly the earning power of the railways will be substantially increased through the legislation based on the MacPherson report but the prospect of an improvement over the years is no answer to a demand for huge increases payable now.

This is not to say that the unions are solely to blame for the current dispute. The CNR has ignored the MacPherson report in charting its policies. Both companies have shown a disinterest in the negotiations, based essentially on the limitations imposed on them by government policy but bound to irritate the unions.

But whatever the union case it will not be improved by advocacy which denies reality and pleads abusurdities. If Mr. Jodoin, in present conditions, cannot free himself from the fixation that inflation is a bogey he is in grave danger of losing his public audience.

Invitation to Civil War

PRESIDENT Sukarno's Independence Day address on August 17 seems to have polarized forces for and against him and pushed Indonesia to the brink of civil war.

The most recent evidence of national tension was a series of riots in Bandung, capital of West Java and a leading centre for anti-Communist intellectuals. For two days pro-Sukarno forces, many of them imported from Central Java, a stronghold of Sukarno support, rampaged through the city and engaged in a series of street fights with Sukarno's opponents. At least one student was killed and a score injured.

Indonesian observers fear that Sukarno may have succeeded in wrecking the uneasy peace which he had established with General Suharto, Indonesia's de facto ruler and chairman of the Cabinet presidium. Suharto has attempted at every turn to "save face" for Sukarno while the President has, with extreme reluctance, endorsed sweeping changes in Indonesia's policy. He has even said that he approved of Indonesia's agreement with Malaysia, the target of his policy of military and political "confrontation" for nearly three years.

Unsettling Element

The unsettling element in the President's address, delivered 21 years after he declared Indonesia's independence from the Netherlands, was that it indicated to anti-Communist students that he may attempt to revive his old policies if given the ghost of a chance. The tip-off was his insistence on the old formula of "Nasakom" — standing for nationalism, religion and communism, the three main ingredients in Indonesian life before the unsuccessful Communist coup last year.

"We don't have to call it 'Nasakom' — we can call it Nasasos," the President suggested (i.e. nationalism, religion and socialism). "These three factors are still essential." The students interpreted his speech as a clever gambit for supporting the Communist Party, banned in March against his wishes.

Fearing that the President may obtain enough support to remain in office for years to come, the leaders of the Action Command of Indonesian Students have opened a fresh campaign to have him removed. They posted signs in Bandung declaring, "We Hate You, Sukarno" and "Sukarno — Communist Traitor," and they even began tearing down photographs of the President in shops and homes.

Eyes on Election

Their aim is to make certain he has little popular support by the time elections are held for members of the People's Consultative Congress, the country's highest governing body, which could in turn elect a new president.

The principal opposition to the students is the Indonesian Nationalist Party (PNI) which Sukarno himself founded in 1927. Split between its fervently pro-Sukarno left-wing and its moderate leadership, the PNI has attempted to compromise by stating that it supports Sukarno "as long as he remains our President." The Action Command of Indonesian Students, as well as other "action commands" of intellectuals and businessmen, accuse the PNI of compromising with its left-wing for the sake of party unity.

The PNI draws most of its support from Central and parts of Eastern Java, where PNI students wearing black uniforms and red berets are constantly patrolling the roads and holding rallies for the President. They shout "Hidup Bung Karno" ("Long Live Brother Karno") and frequently fight with anti-Communist, anti-Sukarno students. The military authorities have ordered students not to associate in groups of more than five, but there are frequent stories of knifings and killings in the rice paddies and sugar cane.

Powerful Force

The PNI dominates Central Java numerically and would dominate it politically but for the intervention of the Central Government, which has removed a number of left-wing civil and military officers in the region. Even so, the PNI is easily Central Java's single most powerful political force and anti-Communists say it has tried to gain even more power by recruiting ex-Communists who escaped the great Communist purge last autumn.

The anti-Communist students have received their most powerful backing from the religious parties, which regard Communism with sheer horror and the hint of Communist influence in the PNI as equally dangerous.

Often at odds with each other, the Muslims, Catholics and other Christians are united in an anti-Communist fury. This unity is specially unusual among the Muslims, who are deeply divided between the Muslim Scholars party, the nation's largest political organization, and the Masjumi, outlawed by Sukarno six years ago for opposing his concept of "guided democracy." In East Java, the Muslim Scholars have gained influence, if not control, over the provincial government even though the PNI holds a majority in parts of the province.

President Sukarno has said that he would welcome elections — "tomorrow if it were possible". His confidence stems from the fact that he still has an almost God-like fascination for millions of Central and Eastern Javanese. Sukarno is confident that they would elect enough members of Congress to keep him safely in office.

Army Uncertain

He might not stand much chance if the armed forces were solidly against him under General Suharto. The fact is, however, that the military police force, the marines and Air Force paracommandos are believed to favour him, as well as vast numbers of enlisted men in all branches of the armed forces. Suharto can reshuffle commanders to suit his taste, but he can not alter the views of thousands of troops quite so easily.

It is because the anti-Communist students sense all these problems that they are determined to put Sukarno down before he can recover from the political beatings he has taken this year. And it is because they are determined to keep Sukarno in power that pro-Sukarno mobs storm through cities like Bandung, knifing and wounding students. The question now is whether Indonesia will succeed in maintaining the uneasy peace—or plunge into civil war.

From the Times of August 31, 1906:

The coming visit of His Excellency the Governor-General to British Columbia will occupy the better part of a month. Coming straight to Victoria he will rest here several days then go to Ladysmith, where he is to inspect the coal mines. He will then fish a few days on the Cowichan, proceeding after that to a forestry conference in Vancouver. The bulk of the itinerary will be taken up with a week-long trip on the Lieutenant-Governor's yacht up the coast of this Island.

'We Have to Go Through This Social Commotion'

By VICTOR ZORZA

LONDON—An explanation of the violence that is sweeping the streets of Chinese cities will be found not in the "anti-imperialist" parrot cries of the young toughs who are beating up "old reactionaries," but in the measured, considered pronouncements of the Peking newspapers.

The articles and speeches they publish every day explain that what is now going on is neither more nor less than a new revolution—"the great proletarian cultural revolution."

Violence, as students of the Communist sages know, is the midwife of revolution, and among Chinese Communists the cult of violence has been especially pronounced. "Power," as a famous saying of Mao Tse-Tung's has it, "grows out of the barrel of a gun."

Stays Active

But the Chinese revolution, it may be objected, ended in victory in 1949, when the new regime was officially born—should not the midwife have been sent packing there and then? Not if you believe, as Mao does, in the "permanent revolution."

The formula of permanent revolution assumes that the class enemy remains permanently active, that he will always manage to corrupt even the highest party leaders, and that the "party" must therefore always purge itself—and them. It is a formula that has always appealed in various guises to revolutionary leaders, from the French revolution, to the Russian, and now on to the Chinese, since it provides the justification for the retention of personal power by themselves, and for the removal of associates who challenge that power and the policies that go with it.

In Paris, it was the guillotine. In Moscow, the firing squad. In China, so far at least, it is dismissal, as in the case of Peng Chen, the sixth-ranking Politburo member and mayor of Peking, or demotion, as in the case of President Liu Shao-chi. But now, as then, mobs spewing slogans and venom are called out to abuse and denounce the fallen leaders, or the deviations they are supposed to represent.

'Clean Up Mud'

The ruffians in the streets may attack traders or people wearing Western-style clothes, but the Peking newspapers paint in the ideological background: "We have to clean up thoroughly all the mud, filth and rubble at the site of the old system . . . this is a task for the young, who, since ancient times, have always been in the forefront of revolution; as soon as they seize hold of the truth, they despise what is old, and declare war on it."

The old and established authorities always oppose them, "but, as a rule, victory always goes to the young whose names were not on the celebrity list."

The street embodies, it would seem "the genius and wisdom of the revolutionary young people, nurtured by the thought of Mao Tse-Tung." They are a natural, elemental force: "In an earth-shaking uproar, the young revolutionary shock forces have shouted—make revolution and stage rebellion! The thunder rolls, and the lightning flashes. The storm of the cultural revolution is advancing with the force of an avalance. It is surging in antry waves, carrying everything before it, and smashing all that runs counter to it."

Peking's Red Guards issue "a declaration of war on the old world." They pledge themselves to "destroy mercilessly every hotbed of revisionism." The "People's Daily" urges them on: "As for those stubborn, incorrigible diehards, they must not be spared from destruction, which is a good thing." No foreign correspondent or diplomatist in Peking has, as yet, witnessed a lynching—which, also, is a good thing. The Red Guards are not to be interfered with, because, says the "People's Daily," "their actions are legitimate revolutionary actions."

Whoever seeks to stop them will be acting "in direct opposition to Chairman Mao's teaching and the decision of the party central committee." As in every revolution, the general good outweighs any damage that might mistakenly be done to the individual.

'Some Defects'

"In the course of the struggle, it is possible that the revolutionary students might suffer some defects." This will not be allowed to interfere with the march of history: "We must realize that their general orientation is a correct one, and warmly support them . . ." Any bystanders "who might not understand what is going on," including the police, are firmly enjoined to "refrain from participating in school debates," as these antics are described.

The cult of violence and the cult of youth go together. The aged chairman Mao and some of his comrades, their lives spent in the service of the revolution, find in the evening of their day that all their great ideals, their brave dreams, their tender thoughts for the poor and the oppressed whom they had set out to succor, are as far from reality as ever they were. Since their plans were well-laid, their intentions were good, someone else must be to blame. These blameworthy people are also to be found among the old comrades, those comrades, in particular, who were high enough in the party's councils to oppose and to criticize some of the less realistic schemes to bring on the millenium.

They may have been at one with Mao in the past, but every man has his breaking point. But if the revolutionary dream is not to be given up, the torch must be handed to the young people, and they must be seen to follow in the footsteps of the dreamers who, many years ago, set out to harness violence to the carriage of history.

Smash Them

It was, as the Peking papers do not cease reminding their readers, inevitable. "We have to go through this social commotion in order to smash completely the remnants of the old world."

There is work to do. "We must . . . take up the gigantic revolutionary broom, sweeping so vigorously that the whole world turns upside down."

The opposition, as always, will oppose, but no matter: "They will of course come out to tell lies and slander, to vilify and to attack. But the humming of a couple of flies cannot check the advance of the rolling wheel of the great proletarian cultural revolution." No . . . ?

Two Please, Two Of Everything

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — We live today in a two-of-everything world.

It is getting so a man can't hold his head up proudly any more unless he has a two-car garage and dwells in a house that has at least two telephones, two television sets and two or more bathrooms.

Many of the bathrooms even have two wash basins — for Mr. and Mrs.

To be a real standout you have to have two places to live, one in the country and one in the city, and take two vacations a year, one in the winter and one in the summer.

Some lucky fellows even manage to wangle two wives, one at home and one at the office. And now and then you meet a junior executive who carries two briefcases.

It has become a two-of-everything economy. One of anything no longer seems enough, not even when it comes in a large economy-size package. Whatever it is, you buy two large economy-size packages of it.

But this philosophy of double plenty breaks down completely when a man goes to work. There he gets only one of everything — except perhaps in the matter of paper clips.

This, I suspect, is the hidden cause of much of the paranoia, frustration and schizophrenia one encounters in modern business life.

What profiteth a man to dwell in a house with two bathrooms, two cars and two television sets if he has to work in an office where he is allowed only one desk and one swivel chair?

Subconsciously, he can't help feeling that he is a failure. To have only one of anything today is a sign of lack of success. Deep in his mind lies the conviction that if he were really getting ahead at the office he would have two of everything there, too — two desks, two swivel chairs, and even two secretaries.

New Tone to the Old Phrase 'Home Was Never Like This'

By ART STOTT

Stott

My friend, who came from Holland with his wife in the late postwar years, received his Canadian citizenship a couple of years ago. His wife was more reluctant. Now, returning from a visit home to Amsterdam, she wants her Canadian citizenship as soon as she can get it.

"Maybe," says my friend, "I should persuade her to try to acquire Eskimo citizenship," and he repeats again his belief that in the equality of Canadian citizens, the Eskimo seems to be more equal. This is a reference to a nasty little traffic trick he feels was played on him. He was fined for passing on the inside at the well-known Tillicum-Admirals intersection where no signs—at least at the time of his experience—warned people on the sidewalk side of the street that the road narrowed to one lane across the intersection.

Shortly after the court case, which persuades him that he is a criminal, he read about an Eskimo who had been charged with killing his morthe-in-law. He was released on the grounds that according to the band's culture, it was necessary to remove her because her actions threatened the survival of the group.

"I shoulda been an Eskimo," my friend says.

Neither he nor his wife think Canada is perfect, or its institutions infallible. They'd like to see several things changed.

But—and the qualification seems significant to me—they want to offer their criticism as Canadians, not as aliens in Canada. There's a difference, and it's an important one.

"For years," says my friend, "My wife wanted to go back to visit Amsterdam. All the time she compared things here to what she remembered in the homeland. So this year she went.

"She didn't like it in Holland. And when she was coming back by ship, they held a sort of patriotic little ceremony on board, recognizing a Canadian traditional occasion. They even sang 'O Canada' and my wife tells me that as she was singing the tears came into her eyes. I guess she feels that this is her home now. She's still critical of things here, but she wants to be critical as a Canadian. She feels it's a good country, only it could be better."

The lady's experience is not unusual. The transformation of the immigrant to the settler and citizen of the country—in this case Canada—is as normal as blueberry pie. And the process is frequently expedited by a visit to the homeland. How many English people have you known who suffered an ambivalence, caught between the way they did things "at 'ome" and how they do things here—until they had gone back on a visit, perhaps with the intention of staying, and returned to become less ambivalent Canadians?

To my friend and his wife this is a personal matter. To Canada it's something more. We, in this country, have been giving thought to the two-people theory of our nation—or, as some phrase it, the two-nation theory of our people.

Our concern has been about the balance and equitable treatment of those whose origins were French and whose language still is French, and those, speaking English, who trace their antecedents to Britain.

On numerous occasions this staling debate has been interrupted by pragmatists who point out that a vast number of Canadians are of neither French nor British extraction. My friends are from Holland. They are part of about a quarter of our population, on the basis of the 1961 census, who came from lands other than the two directly involved in the bicultural-bilingual debate.

We are told that Canada prefers the mosaic system of population to the melting-pot theory of the United States. That means that our concept of nationhood makes provision for the maintenance of certain distinctions among Canadians, hopefully the preservation of what is good in each ethnic group.

What is good, perhaps, is the inclination to continue to criticize Canada, but as Canadians. And that could be of national value as an antidote to complacency, a sort of national ailment. It could also weave bright threads in the tapestry of our nationhood multi-colored rather than two-toned.

INDIA CAN BUILD N-BOMB

By PETER JOB

NEW DELHI — Although India is still committed to a policy of using atoms for peace, experts estimate it has the technical knowledge to build a nuclear bomb in less than a year.

But it is doubtful whether India could set off a nuclear blast that soon without violating a treaty with Canada, and because of this the experts estimate that it would take her at least six or seven years to produce an A-bomb.

Under the treaty with Canada, India's only known stock of fissionable material — plutonium being produced from a big reactor being built with Canadian aid — is earmarked for peaceful use.

While nuclear science has made rapid strides in India within the last two years, particularly in the atoms-for-peace sphere, concern is voiced here about the general lack of progress towards a world-wide nuclear non-proliferation treaty.

China's nuclear tests have led many members of India's Parliament and ruling Congress party to press for the manufacture of an Indian bomb.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, like her father, the late Jawaharlal Nehru, is known to be staunchly opposed to such a venture. The reason is at least partly the huge cost of a nuclear deterrent and delivery system.

Vikram Sarabhai, head of the country's Atomic Energy Commission, said recently that India would have to reckon on spending some $50,000,000,000 a year to build a nuclear defence system.

GANDHI
. . . opposed to bomb

One of them, Apsara, is a small pool reactor with a capacity of one megawatt fuelled with British enriched uranium, with safeguards on its use. The second, Zerlina, is a tiny experimental reactor run on Indian natural uranium.

●

The third, Cirus, is a 40-megawatt reactor running on Indian natural uranium. It was built in collaboration with Canada and became critical in 1963.

The spent fuel rods of this reactor are being processed to extract the plutonium formed in the rods as fission takes place.

Since 1963, India is estimated to have produced rougly 55 pounds of plutonium or enough for a crude and bulky atomic device of huge power.

The agreement with Canada governing the use of Cirus provides, however, that the reactor and byproducts obtained from it should be devoted to peaceful purposes.

There are no plans for an Indian gaseous diffusion plant to produce the highly-fissionable uranium-235 used for making thermonuclear weapons.

The cost of these plants, such as the French are now building at Pierrelatte, is estimated at nearly $1,000,000,000 and would be prohibitive for India.

Thus India cannot, at this stage, hope to match the Chinese, who have used U-235 for their nuclear devices.

India's immediate projects include a 380-megawatt atomic power plant at Tarapur, on the west coast. It will be fuelled with American U-235 — tied to peaceful uses — and is expected to be ready in 1968.

●

It is expected to go into operation by 1969, fuelled with natural uranium, and produce a large quantity of plutonium, though this will once again be tied to peaceful uses.

A third project is for a power plant in Madras, to be entirely Indian-built.

This will be the first reactor to produce plutonium which India could use to make an atom bomb without breaking any bilateral agreement — though she would still have to consider the Moscow test-ban treaty to which she is a signatory.

The national railway strike assumes its true perspective only when you take into account the unique situation of W. J. "Bill" Smith, president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, the largest of the unions involved.

Smith has headed his union since 1955, and while his leadership has never been openly challenged, there have been recent rumblings from the younger rank and file that at 63, Smith is no longer militant enough.

His position characterizes the fact that the battle of the generations has been joined in the union movement, and that the young men are challenging the authority of their elders.

Idealistic Breed

Smith belongs to the old, idealistic breed which first established a national union movement in this country. He's the kind of man who still gets tears in his eyes when he hears "Solidarity Forever" and believes that "when unions become like big businesses and forget they're social movements, it's a question whether they should continue at all."

The young members of his, and the other railway unions, couldn't care less about the class struggle. What they want is cash. Money to get their son into universities (and out of the railways), money to enroll themselves more fully in today's affluent society.

They feel frustrated by the collective bargaining process, which they look on as an old-fashioned ritualistic waste of time. The best way they know to express their dissatisfaction is to reject the strike settlement which their leaders will propose, and this is the essence of the terrible dilemma facing Smith as he seeks a settlement.

Won't Take Less

In the current negotiations, he is concerned not only with a more generous deal for his members, but with preserving his own position of power. It was Smith who last summer negotiated the 30 per cent settlement for the Seaway workers, and few union observers believe he'll be willing to take significantly less from the railways.

Unlike past CBRT contracts, which needed the approval only of the union negotiators, this offer will have to be submitted for approval by the rank and file.

Smith is well aware that if he recommends a settlement which his members don't accept, his leadership will be seriously threatened. The choice between defying Parliament and backing a solution which he knows in advance his brotherhood will reject, is thus a particularly difficult one.

It is made even more difficult by the fact that Smith has demonstrated in recent years a highly developed sense of public responsibility.

J. C. Weldon, a McGill University economist who specializes in labor relations, describes Smith and his brotherhood as "models of what a union and its leadership should be in a period when there is corruption in some factions of organized labor."

GORDON
. . . praised Smith

Donald Gordon, the president of the CNR, who has often lost his temper with him at the bargaining table, once praised Smith's "integrity in holding true to his undertakings." To which Smith replied, "I don't give a damn whether management likes me, but I like to feel that I command their respect."

Smith is a physically unimpressive grasshopper of a man, who possesses few of the extrovert characteristics of most union leaders. He left school in Oakville, Ont., without completing Grade 6.

At 13 he became a five-dollar-a-week messenger boy at the old Union Bank in Toronto and two years later joined the Grand Trunk Railway as an engine wiper. At 19, married with one child, he was laid off for 18 months. "For the first time," he recalls, "I had the feeling of belonging to a class of society — the working class — and as such, I felt that we had to organize because we were being exploited."

Organizer

He stayed with the railway until 1942 when he was hired as a full-time organizer for the Maritime region by the CBRT's president, A. R. Mosher. His first major assignment was to enlist the drivers of the three bus lines which brought most of the workers to the Halifax dockyards. He signed up the men, but when management refused to negotiate, pulled them off their jobs, effectively tying up much of the city's essential warwork. The British Admiralty complained to the Canadian government, and Prime Minister Mackenzie King ordered Mosher to get the drivers back into the buses. Mosher agreed but couldn't reach Smith to relay the message.

"I didn't want to be in a position of disobeying, so I disappeared," Smith recalls. He hid in his room at the Nova Scotian Hotel without answering Mosher's calls. Two days later, when the bus company owners capitulated, he phoned Mosher.

"Get those men back!" Mosher shouted.

"They're back," Smith calmly replied.

"What did you get?"

"All we wanted."

"Good boy."

Successful Raids

That kind of devotion to cause has served Smith well in trying to maintain the membership of a union in a declining and increasingly automated industry. His attempts to diversify (11,000 of his 33,000 members are now non-railway workers) have included successful raids on ships manned by the tough Seafarers International Union on the West Coast.

But now Smith is facing a labor situation — and a world — that is somehow alien to his kind of man. In negotiating a solution to the railways strike, the government must not only please the men out on the picket lines, but also provide an honorable way out for Bill Smith and his breed.

Aussie Pilots Bailing Out

MELBOURNE — Australian airlines are worried because many of their senior pilots are quitting to work overseas, mainly in Canada.

Canadian Pacific Airlines has had a successful recruiting drive in Australia, so successful, in fact, that Australia's international airline Qantas has had to cancel services because of a shortage of pilots.

More than 150 Australian pilots answered a CPA advertisement in Australian newspapers. Arnold Andrew, manager of CPA's flight crew administration division who flew to Australia to interview the applicants, said all the pilots were dissatisfied with future prospects in Australia.

The bitter English philosopher is famed, among other things, for one terrifying phrase: ". . . and the life of man, solitary, poor, nasty, brutish and short." Hobbes died saying, pathetically: "I shall be glad then to find a hole to creep out of the world at."

Wage Increases Climbing Above Production Hikes

By DENNIS ORCHARD

It now may have reached the point where workers and executives are contributing less, dollar for dollar, to productivity than they did at the start of the current boom in 1961.

While DBS does not compile its own index of unit-labor costs, a compilation of available DBS data tells the story.

1. A rapid growth in productivity during 1962 and 1963, lowering the index from 100 to 95.6 by February, 1964.

2. From early 1964, a boom in labor income which has increased markedly the ratio of wages and salaries to output; the index rose to 98.2 in the first six months of 1965, to 99 in the second half of 1965, and hit 99.9 in the first three months of this year.

GROWS FASTER

Economists here believe the acceleration will be even greater as new contracts won in the last four or five months show up in fresh labor-income figures.

It is a hard rule of economics that labor costs will be inflationary if they rise faster than productivity. In this kind of an index, minute increases represent acute pressures because wage bills make up 70 or 75 per cent of all production costs.

Causes and effects of the inflationary pressures will be certain fodder for more sharp debate among politicians this fall.

It seems equally certain that parliamentary debate will treat the subject in a much different vein than the Economic Council of Canada, which reports soon on a major study of wages, prices and employment.

FIRST SUCH ATTEMPT

It will be the first thorough attempt at the job, assessing such delicate subjects as the relationship of full employment to inflation, and the prospects of reducing the effect on Canada of U.S. economic conditions.

These are only two of the areas that do not admit easily of political candor.

The council also will survey anti-inflationary measures employed by European countries.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Prices Soaring On All Fronts

Prices rose from the start and the trend was followed on all other exchanges.

IN VANCOUVER prices improved before noon as the local market reflected the New York recovery.

Pine Point Mines led the upward trend, jumping more than $6 to $57. A company spokesman, however, said there is no news to account for the sudden gain.

He said that planning for mining and milling the Pyramid ore body in the Northwest Territories is going ahead.

Other mining stocks to climb included Brenda, up 35 cents to $7.60; Dynasty, which put on 30 cents to $8.50, and Western Mines, which gained 20 cents to $4.80.

Industrials were generally better with Cominco putting on $1 to $36.12.

IN NEW YORK volume for the day was estimated at 9,100,000 shares compared with 11,210,000 Thursday.

Prices rose from the start. Profit taking interrupted the rise late in the morning. After this was digested the market made even greater strides.

Glamor stocks were favored as usual, but buying spread throughout the list of key stocks also. Blue chips rose from fractions to 1 or 2 points. Eastman Kodak added 2, Du Pont 3.

IBM rose 5, Becton and Dickinson 4, Emery Air Freight 4, Pan American World Airways, Coca-Cola, Delta Airlinees, Ling-Temco-Vought and Jersey Standard about 3.

Among Canadian issues traded, International Nickel rose ⅞, McIntyre Porcupine ½ and Alcan and Distillers Seagrams ⅜ apiece. Dome Mines fell ½.

IN TORONTO the industrial index, an indicator of how key stocks move, climbed 1.12 to 146.44. Chrysler gained 2½ to 42 in pacing the list higher. International Minerals added 2 to 59, General Motors 1¾ at 78¼ and Du Pont 1 at 40.

Banks made solid gains with Montreal up 1½ to 55½, Toronto-Dominion 1¼ to 57¼ and Nova Scotia and Royal 1 each to 64½ and 69.

Denison jumped 1¼ to 55 in base metals and Scurry Rainbow 1⅛ to 21⅞ in western oils.

IN MONTREAL Royal Bank and Denison were one point ahead at 69 and 54½ respectively. Rio Algom gained ⅞ to 22¾ and Alcan ½ to 30¼. Other half-point winners were Cominco, at 35¾, Molson A, at 16, Shell, at 19¾ and Trans-Canada Pipe Line, at 27½.

Dominion Foundries and Steel of Canada were each ¼ better at 21¼ and 22 in the senior steels section.

Consolidated was off 1¾ points at 33¾ and Price Bros. ⅛ at 13¼ among the papers.

Coin Demand Drops 34 Men Laid Off

OTTAWA—(CP)—The Royal Canadian Mint is laying off employees hired 18 months ago when there was a heavy demand for coins.

The reduction of 34 employees, mostly mint craftsmen, will return staff strength to about 350 and production to 1½ shifts a day from 2½ shifts.

"We're going back to normal as any other business would," said the master of the mint, N. A. Parker.

A similar drop in demand for coinage is taking place in the United States, he said.

Geoffrey Ferguson, chief administrative officer, said it is not entirely clear why chartered banks now are asking for fewer coins.

"Perhaps we overproduced in 1964 and 1965."

The mint turns out all coins for use in Canada. Production in 1964 totalled 655,000,000 pieces and in 1965, 500,000,000 pieces.

Mr. Ferguson said a rough estimate of production this year would be between 300,000,000 and 400,000,000 coins.

"All of a sudden in 1966—for no reason at all unless we've glutted the market—there doesn't seem to be the demand."

The mint receives orders for coins from the Bank of Canada, which in turn fills the requirements of the chartered banks.

The central bank's regular weekly report indicates that as of Aug. 17 there was $278,000,000 worth of coins in circulation in Canada, $30,000,000 more than at the same time a year ago.

THREE-YEAR PACT

Steelmen Get 70-Cent Boost

HAMILTON (CP)—Workers at the Steel Co. of Canada, Ltd., have ratified a new three-year contract giving them a 70-cent-an-hour increase in wages and benefits.

Ratification, announced early today by the United Steelworkers of America, headed off a strike by the 11,000 Stelco workers that would have started at 7 a.m. Saturday.

The settlement includes a wage increase of 31 cents an hour, three cents more than the pay raise offered in a contract rejected by union members nine days ago.

In the final year of the new contract, beginning Aug. 1, 1968, Stelco wages will range from a base of $2.51 an hour to a high of $4.60, union officials said. They described the contract as the best in Canadian industry.

The agreement rejected Aug. 22 would have given the Stelco workers an estimated 66.7 cents an hour, including a 28-cent wage increase that would have brought the average wage to one cent above the current rate for steelworkers in the United States. The U.S. workers open new negotiations next year.

TOTAL VARIES

The ratified agreement provides for a minimum 13 cents an hour in the first year, eight in the second and 10 in the third year.

Total increase, with the addition of job classification increments, will range from 31 cents to a high of 58.3 cents an hour a union spokesman said.

Stelco's Hamilton operation was closed for five days by a violent wildcat walkout prior to the first agreement Aug. 17. The wildcat strikers were protesting the slowness of the earlier negotiations.

After the wildcat ended, the company dismissed 51 men for what it called "violence and sabotage" on the picket lines.

Under the ratified settlement, the 51 men who were fired will be given a full review of their case by Stelco no later than Sept. 30 with final judicial arbitration.

Bayshore Plans Major Expansion

VANCOUVER — A five-year program, costing between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000, to expand the waterfront Bayshore Inn over a two-block area, was announced Tuesday by Mayor William Rathie and the project's developers, Marwest Hotel Co. Ltd.

The expansion would cover 11 acres and come within two blocks of Stanley Park. It would include a 150-room addition to the 330-room Bayshore building, enlarged swimming pool facilities and a public waterfront walk.

A second phase would include a 500-room hotel to be known as the Bayshore West, topped by a dance and entertainment centre.

Marwest bought 11 acres from Harbor Park Developments Ltd., which previously had plans for a $55,000,000 tower apartment development in the area.

Export Credits Seeks Increase

OTTAWA (CP) — The government gave notice Tuesday that it plans to ask Parliament to authorize a $100,000,000 increase in the liability of the Exports Credits Insurance Corp.

The corporation now is authorized to assume liabilities of $400,000,000 on export credits. The proposed change would permit the corporation to guarantee up to $500,000,000 in credit extended on exports.

Tight Money Hits Shipments

VANCOUVER (CP)—Sea shipments of lumber from British Columbia totalled 162,400,000 board feet in July compared with 277,300,000 in July, 1965, it was reported.

The Pacific Lumber Inspection Bureau said the major reason for the drop was a slump in exports to the Atlantic coast, reflecting the impact of tight money on U.S. home building.

Overhanging Worries Still There

NEW YORK—(CP)—The New York stock market has broken its string of steep losses but brokers caution that the overhanging worries are still there.

The New York Stock Exchange, which influences most major exchanges in Canada and the United States, Tuesday powered its way to a substantial gain in heavy trading. Volume rose to 11,210,000 shares from 10,890,000 Monday.

It was the first advance since last Wednesday and only the second in 11 sessions.

Wall Street saw some hope for a market that has been in a slide for seven months. But analysts were careful to avoid optimism.

". . .Circumstances which led to the market's decline from its high have not altered in any significant manner," said Marty Gordon, analyst for the brokerage firm Bache and Co.

CONFUSION REMAINS

Robert Johnson, research director for another brokerage house, Paine, Webber, Jackson and Curtis, commented that the market's action "achieved little in the way of reducing investors' confusion."

The circumstances and confusion to which they referred included tight money, higher interest rates, Viet Nam, the possibility of wage and price controls and the weakness of the British pound.

Gold Reserves Again Tumble

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. gold stocks dropped $116,000,000 in July, the biggest one-month tumble in more than a year.

Reporting this today, the Federal Reserve Board said France again was the biggest purchaser of U.S. gold. She converted about $98,000,000 of her dollar holdings during the month, the largest monthly conversion since the first quarter of 1965.

This more than offset a $50,000,000 purchase from Canada, the third of this size since the beginning of the year.

At the end of July, U.S. gold stocks stood at $13,413,000,000, some $556,000,000 lower than the end-of-July figure of last year. The supply has dropped by $393,000,000 so far this year compared with a $1,500,000,000 drop during the first seven months of 1965.

Big TV Splash In Color Looms

By DOUG WHATLEY

TORONTO (CP) — Color comes to regular television programming in Canada Thursday night but about 99 per cent of viewers will be watching black-and-white sets.

Less than one per cent of the almost 5,000,000 Canadian homes with TV sets now can receive color, says a spokesman for the Electronic Industries Association of Canada, representing most of the country's television manufacturers.

Suggested retail prices for color sets, ranging in size from 19-inch portables to 25-inch consoles, is $600 to $2,300. Color TV-Stereo units may sell for even more.

Although competition is intense as 11 firms vie to establish themselves in the blossoming market — by stepping up manufacturing and launching vigorous sales campaigns—there are no consumer bargains yet. And none are expected for about two years.

Canadian manufacturers, however, may be spurred to lower their prices by expected increased competition from abroad, chiefly the United States and Japan.

At least one large U.S. electronics manufacturer already has announced plans to resume selling TV receivers in Canada for the first time since 1960, including a line of color models starting at $500.

JAPAN WANTS IN

An importing firm which markets Japanese communications equipment in Canada says it may bring in 12- to 19-inch color sets within a year.

The Electronic Industries Association estimates that by the beginning of 1967 there will be about 85,000 sets in operation, increasing to about 200,000 by the end of the year. It says this will rise to more than 1,000,000 by 1970.

The publicly - owned CBC says it plans 30 hours or more a week of prime - time color programming on the English network, and about 15 on the French.

Privately - owned CTV announced 70 per cent of its total 62 hours of network shows each week will be in color.

The cost?

The federal governmen set a maximum of $15,000,000 for the first stage of CBC conversion to color in June, 1965.

CTV president Gordon Keeble says: "I'd hate to think how much it has cost us."

HAVE BIG PLANS

Many of Canada's 74 individual television stations also have big plans for color. Almost all will be able to carry color transmissions from the networks, although not as many have facilities to originate color programs.

Why are the Canadian networks presenting so much color so early with so few viewers able to benefit?

One television writer has said the answer involves pursuit of "prestige, especially with advertisers."

"Not only are they now interested in the upper-income color set owners, but also in the network which moves quickest to win the allegiance of the color viewer."

The president of a large Canadian advertising firm says American surveys have shown color advertising, though more difficult and costly to produce, is at least 35 per cent more effective then black and white.

One agency told a group of advertising executives the man who buys a color TV tends to be a bigger spender than his black and white cousin, especially on convenience products, modern inventions and status symbols.

Farmers Eye $1 Billion Wheat Year

REGINA (CP) — Agriculture officials predict this year's income for Saskatchewan wheat farmers will pass $1,000,000,000 for the second time in history.

Only once before have Saskatchewan farmers earned more during one crop year—in 1963 when a record 493,000,000 bushels of wheat were produced on 17,910,000 acres of seeded land.

Officials predict a crop this year of 506,000,000 bushels from 19,700,000 acres of seeded land, an average yeld of 25.7 bushels an acre.

Earnings to Saskatchewan farmers would be about $1,057,050,000, $16,000,000 less than the record earnings in 1963.

Officials say the crop could average 28 bushels an acre for a total of 547,000,000 bushels—54,000,000 bushels more than the 1963 record.

First official records of wheat were kept in 1901. That year farmers produced 12,377,000 bushels of 487,000 seeded acres, an average of 25.4 bushels an acre—an average not surpassed until 51 years later.

In 1952 grain production totalled 499,000,000 bushels on 16,600,000 acres, an average of 27 bushels an acre.

In 1963, just two years after farmers harvested the lowest an-acre crop in history—the record production was established with an average of 27.5 bushels an acre.

Wheat, Milk Aid

SAN'A, Yemen (AP) — Canada is to supply Yemen with 10,000 tons of wheat and 450 tons of powdered milk to aid drought victims in northern Yemen, the foreign ministry has announced. Crops have been badly hit this year by the cumulative effect of three years of severe drought.

Union Lashes Commission Appointment

An even more protracted construction industry dispute was predicted today by the Provincial Council of Carpenters.

The comment came after Labor Minister Leslie Peterson announced the appointment of Vancouver lawyer W. E. Philpott as an industrial inquiry commissioner. He has power only to make recommendations.

"We must state again that the appointment of an industrial inquiry commissioner at this time is only going to make the dispute more complicated and prolonged," said Arnold Smith, president of the Provincial Council of Carpenters.

R. K. Gervin, chairman of the Construction Industry Joint Negotiating Committee, said contractors applaud the appointment.

"Without this appointment the stalemate could have continued on indefinitely because the Provincial Council of Carpenters has refused to meet with us."

He also said the disupte "has dragged on to a point where severe hardship is being experienced throughout the province."

'BOWED TO PRESSURES'

[illegible]. Smith accused the labor minister of having "bowed to the pressures from big contractors."

The pinister's action "can only be interpreted to endorse the adamant refusal of the Amalgamated Construction Association in any way to negotiate a new agreement or to discuss the agreement negotiated with 160 independent contractors.

"More carpenters are working under the new agreement than those locked out. How can a commissioner mediate a signed agreement?"

Mr. Smith also said the union has agreed to return to work on locked out jobs on the basis of the conditions of the last standard agreement.

IMPASSE REACHED

The labor minister, in announcing the appointment of Mr. Philpott, said: "It is apparent that an impasse has been reached in this dispute and that neither side is willing to compromise."

Mr. Peterson was later heckled at an election meeting and finally shouted:

"Keep your mouths closed and your ears open. Do you want to hear the facts?

"There are schools and hospitals not being built because you fail to settle your dispute by negotiation."

He said the appointment was made to "prevent an impasse lasting forever."

KEY ISSUES

Contractors instituted a lockout against carpenters 27 days ago after the union struck several projects. The companies said a strike against one would result in a lockout by all.

Key issues which haven't been resolved with the 322-member Construction Industry Joint Negotiating Committee are union hall hiring and length of the work week.

Meanwhile, Saanich School Board—extending from Royal Oak to the tip of the peninsula—announced late-opening dates for three secondary schools. Only the barest instruction will be offered until additions and renovations are completed.

OPENINGS DELAYED

The three schools are Claremont (Sept. 19), Mount Newton (Sept. 12), and Royal Oak (also Sept. 12). Normal opening date for the new term is Sept. 6.

The Greater Victoria School District said all its schools will open Sept. 6 but there may be inconveniences at some schools as work proceeds. Regular classes will be held.

Sugar Refinery Closed

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — The Canada-wide rail strike will force a shutdown of Atlantic Sugar Refineries' plant in this city's south end, it was learned Tuesday.

A company spokesman said some 350 to 400 men are expected to be out of work as a result of the shutdown which he called "a work stoppage necessitated by the inability to move sugar."

Stewart Sutherland, personnel manager for Atlantic Sugar Refineries plant here, said the plant will begin shutting down Friday and the last production run-through will end Thursday. The shutdown was expected to be completed during the weekend.

All production, packaging and warehousing workers would be affected but the small office staff and maintenance personnel would remain on the job. Employees were informed of the impending shutdown late Tuesday.

Mr. Sutherland said the company's warehouses, with a capacity of 16,000,000 pounds of sugar, will be full by the weekend. "Unless sugar is moved we have no alternative but to curtail production."

Alternate means of transporting processed sugar from the plant were being sought.

$3 Million Loss CNR Reports

MONTREAL (CP) — The CNR Tuesday reported a net operating loss for July of $3,172,000, which compares with a loss of $210,000 for the corresponding month of 1965.

Railway operating revenues for last July totalled $72,136,000 and expenses, taxes and rents $75,308,000.

The July loss reduces the CNR's net income for the first seven months of 1966 to $12,346,000. This compares with a loss of $166,000 for the first seven months of 1965.

$11,000 in Prizes At Saanichton Fair

DONEY
. . . eye on the weather

Saanichton fair moves into its 98th anniversary when it opens its gates on Saturday.

Barring bad weather, fair board president Bert Doney expects the fair in its three-day run this year to draw record crowds from the capital region and up-Island.

And the board has planned a mixed bag of events for the visitors.

For competitors in the various events — horticultural, handicrafts, livestock, a horse show — they are offering more than $11,000 in prize money.

COACH ARRIVAL

A major and lively attraction Sunday at 4 p.m., will be the arrival of the Barkerville to Victoria Centennial Stage Coach, escorted by members of the Western Horseman's Club.

It will be on display Monday until it leaves in the afternoon at about 4:30 p.m.

Another attraction will be the horse show, to include for a third time a cutting horse competition.

The show under the direction of the Victoria Western Horseman's Club, will be chaired by Roy Bishop.

President W. Grimshaw said entries this year are the heaviest in years.

"More than 200 horses have been entered," he said. "Riders will be coming from up-Island centres and the mainland."

The cutting horse competition will be staged Saturday evening and on Sunday morning and afternoon. The event so far has attracted 10 riders from the mainland, Washington and Oregon.

Judge will be Dr. John Gilray, Cloverdale, and Steven Bishop, Chimacum, Washington.

Mrs. Ray Ellard, Edmonton, Alberta, will be judge for the other riding events.

JUNIOR EVENTS

The fegular horse show will start with the junior events at 10 Saturday. The senior western classes will be held Sunday.

The breeding and halter classes will be held on Monday, followed by the English events.

There will also be a steer riding contest for young people under 14 years. It will preceed the cutting horse competition Saturday evening.

For people interested in farming, the fair will have one of the largest and finest exhibitions of cattle—over 300 head.

But the fair would not be complete without the many 4-H Club activities which take place during the three days.

15 CLUBS

In all there will be 15 clubs competing in various events. These will include dairy, beef, sheep, goats, home arts, garden and tractor groups.

Demonstration and educational display competitions will be held Saturday.

And on Saturday evening four 4-H square dance teams will dance to the crowds.

On Monday the 4-H dairy and beef achievement and showmanship competitions will take place.

As in other years, the Saanich 4-H Home Arts will hold their tea and pie sale in the 4-H building, while the Saanich Jersey Cattle Club will operate the milk booth.

GOOD CAUSE

There will also be plenty of side attractions. For example the Capital City Pigeon Club will have its mobile unit containing 300 birds.

On Saturday and Sunday afternoon the pigeons will be released and visitors will have an opportunity of seeing 300 birds in the air at one time.

For those who like a wee bit of Scottish culture, there will be the highland events to watch. They will start at 10 a.m., Monday.

A tug-of-war is also planned. The event is open to any club. Winning team will receive a $30 cash prize and runner-up $20.

Pensions Protected

OTTAWA (CP) — a statement by CPR President Ian Sinclair that railway strikers who refuse to obey back-to-work legislation by Parliament will lose their pension rights was challenged in the Commons Tuesday.

Stanley Knowles (NDP — Winnipeg North Centre) asked Labor Minister Nicholson to draw to Mr. Sinclair's attention sections of federal labor law dealing with pension protection.

"I will be pleased to," Mr. Nicholson replied.

Country Music Show In Metchosin Hall

Victoria's country music show, the Wagon Wheel Round-Up, will be held Saturday at 8 p.m. at Metchosin Community Hall.

Featured on the two-hour program will be the Potts family, the Country Aces, and Ron Kenney of the Troubadours. Also appearing will be the West Coast Ramblers with vocalist Slim Jameson.

Four Die in Crash

Our Candidates Say . . .

DORCAS H. BLAIR

HAROLD T. ALLAN

Eighty-five per cent of young people do not go to university. Where do these young people get the vocational and technical training vitally needed to fill the jobs of today? Not in Greater Victoria! Our provincial government has failed to build the long-promised Vocational School.

In 1963, the Greater Victoria School Board presented the provincial government with a plan for building an "Adult Education Centre" to serve the varying educational needs of the people of Victoria. This plan was backed by local business, industry and trade unions.

The provincial government said, "Don't you worry. Leave it to us. We will build a vocational school." That was in 1963. Where is this school today? In March 1966 the land had not been obtained nor had any sketch plans been prepared.

NOTHING HAS BEEN DONE!

The school board has had to "go it alone" — two years delayed — and establish the Institute of Adult Studies. This is only a stop-gap effort. We must have a comprehensive vocational-academic program available to everyone.

Since 1960, B.C. could have had money from the federal government to do this job. Other provinces have taken full advantage of the federal grants. B.C. now lags behind.

Female Fatherland Image Now Long-Limbed Look

By HUBERT J. ERB

BERLIN (AP) — Brunhilde—that Wagnerian prototype of big, bosomy German womannhood—has shaped up.

Not that all German women ever conformed to the big Wagnerian or plump country Gretchen types. But since the Second World War, changes in grooming habits, better clothes and a greater emphasis on staying in shape have brought out a lot more of what probably had been there all along.

Chief characteristics of today's West German girl may be described as a naturalness not impaired by too much makeup, a straight carriage that enhances a general long-limbed look, and good figures shown to advantage by a fluid-drive motion allowed by not-too-firm foundation garments.

That the German girl is widely appreciated is indicated by the favor of North American soldiers, who have married them by the thousands, and by the world's leading fashion houses who have found in them a new and rich supply of modelling talent.

To get first-hand impressions from German women of the new generation, an expedition was organized along West Berlin's chic Kurfuerstendamm, as good a girl-watching vantage point as there is in Germany, perhaps Europe.

Fashion designer Gloria Prachaly is five feet, 10 inches and weighs 138 pounds, neatly packaged. She has black hair, dark brown eyes, was born in 1940 in the Rhineland.

"Germans love to eat, and I am no exception," she said. "But the trick is fast days — days when you eat little or nothing at all. That and sports keep you fit."

Ingeborg Laggies, blonde, brown-eyed, five feet, six inches and 120 pounds, spends her working day teaching sixth-graders.

"Yes," she admitted, "it even helps being attractive in a grade school. The children notice it and I am told by parents that the children even brag about their teacher's appearance at home."

Berlin-born, five feet, five inches, 118 pounds, green-eyed and with short blonde hair, Carin said a sign of the times is nail polish.

"Until war's end, nail polish was not in wide use. Now everyone uses it on fingernails and toes, and hair is shaved off the legs. It is little things like this that have made a great difference among German women."

One thing German women will not go for, Carin added, is wearing hair curlers on the street or even around the house — "the men would not stand for it."

Napalm Use Protested

GENEVA (AP) — The international committee of the Red Cross said Tusday it has relayed to the United States a North Vietnamese protest against the use of fire-spewing napalm, riot control gases and chemical crop killers in the Viet Nam war.

The all-Swiss body also said it has urged South Viet Nam to stop mistreating Viet Cong prisoners.

At the same time, it noted that both Communist North Viet Nam and the guerrillas had repeatedly refused to co-operate with Red Cross inquiries on allied prisoners.

'NO CONTROLS ON THE AGENDA'

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Sharp said Tuesday the federal government will not propose any wage and price controls to the provinces at a finance ministers' confernece Sept. 14.

He said there was some confusion about a reply in the Commons Monday by Prime Minister Pearson who had said co-operative federal-provincial action on controls would be discussed with the province.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Mr. Pearson had told the Commons this matter would be on the agenda of a meeting Sept. 14. but the provinces were reported to be surprised by the statement and not to have received invitations to such a meeting.

Mr. Sharp said Mr. Pearson was giving a general reply to a reference to inflation by Mr. Diefenbaker.

He had sent letters Monday to the provinces inviting them to a conference and proposing that one item for discussion be the "current economic situation" and its relationship to federal-provincial fiscal arrangements.

"I do not propose to place before the meeting any proposals for the application of any wage and price controls," Mr. Sharp said.

HONG KONG (Reuters)—China will give North Viet Nam economic and technical assistance under an agreement signed in Peking, it was learned Tuesday.

Lawyer Says Murder Defendant Stupid

FRANKFURT (AP) — Former sergeant Josef Erber was "too stupid" to be guilty of the murder of more than 125,000 men, women and children at the Auschwitz concentration camp, his defence lawyer, Fritz Sauer, claimed Tuesday.

Erbert, he said, had been indoctrinated through Nazi propaganda into following Hitler's orders and at most could be found guilty of aiding and abetting in murders.

Sauer submitted that Erber be sentenced only to a limited prison term for his help in some murders and not to life imprisonment demanded by State Prosecutor Gerhard Wiese.

Sauer contended that Erber had never assumed a personal role to destroy Jewish industry, but had on orders and without thinking, aided in murders. He could be neither a murderer nor a willing accomplice

The prosecution alleged that Erber had had eight women gassed so he could steal their jewelry, had participated in the murder of at least 5,000 prisoners, had beaten prisoners with a stick as they were forced to gas chambers and had shot prisoners in the back of the head as they lay face-down on the ground.

KEEP B.C. MOVING AHEAD!

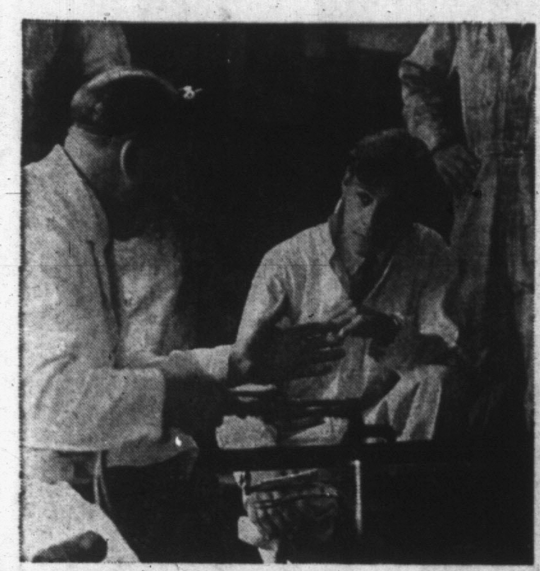
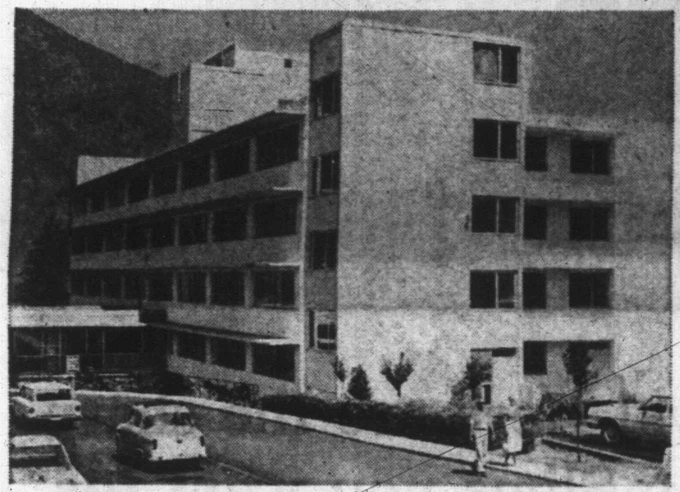
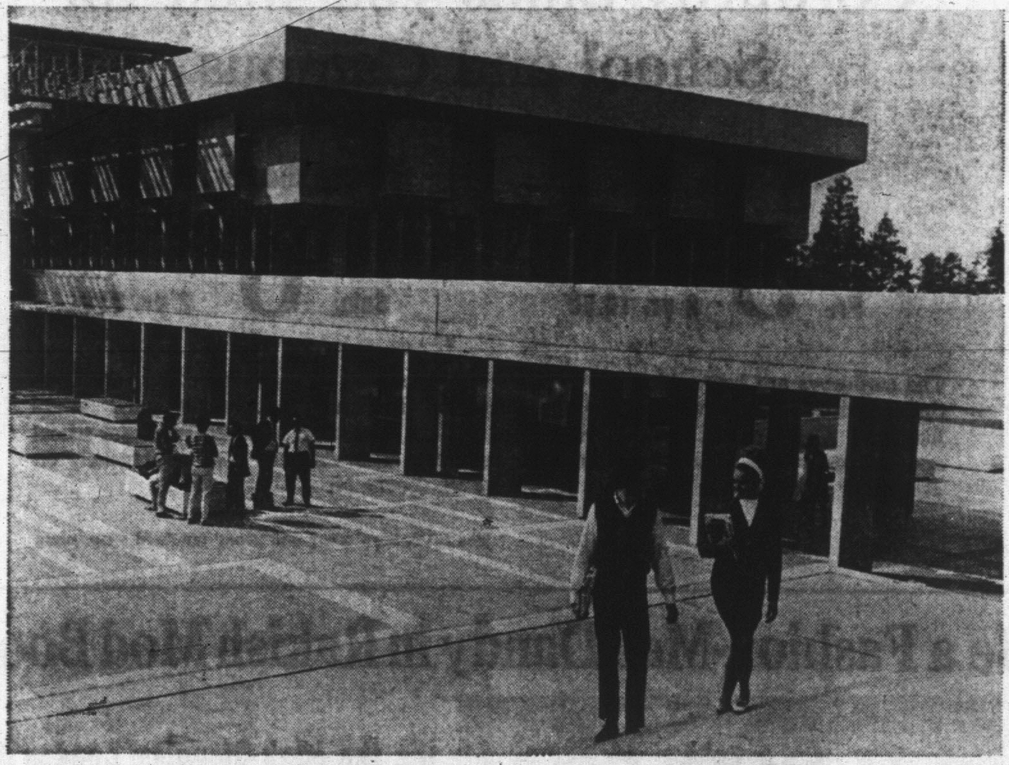
with more and better programs for people







Under Social Credit administration, per-capita spending on health and welfare services is already 35% higher in British Columbia than in any other Canadian province. During the next seven years your Social Credit Government will increase social assistance rates even more – and further increases will be made to the blind, retarded and infirm.

Your Social Credit Government already pays the highest old age pension bonuses in Canada. During the dynamic years ahead, these bonuses will be steadily increased to further improve the living standards of our senior citizens.

Under your Social Credit Government's massive hospital construction program more than 650 new hospital beds are now being provided. Further projects involving 1,878 more beds are in the advanced planning stage. In addition, your Government will co-operate fully with local authorities to provide new facilities for the chronically ill.

Your Social Credit Government already has spent more on education than any previous administration in the Province's history. This expansion of facilities will be continued at all levels – elementary and secondary schools, universities, technical institutes, vocational schools and employment retraining facilities.

The Social Credit Government pioneered the "money-for-marks" plan which pays part of the tuition fees of many university students. This widely acclaimed plan – still the only one of its kind in all of Canada – will be extended to include thousands more students, and the percentage contribution of fees paid by the Government will be increased even further.

Arthur Mayse

The other day I got up from a study of the financial news and hurried off to Victoria's business section, half-expecting to find heavy investors casting themselves from their office windows.

However, down at 1060 Douglas, where the firm of James Richardson & Sons has its local office and board room, matters seemed to be proceeding about as usual.

The ticker tape in its illuminated wall panel was clicking off highest bid and lowest offer. On their ledge below the big green boards, two girls in sage - colored coveralls were chalking quotations in lengthening columns. At his desk on the office side, sales representative David M. Ferne was noting a telephoned order from a client.

New York, it appeared was the villain; the market derives its tone from the major centres, and when Wall Street or Toronto's Bay take a knock, Victoria is rubbing its elbow seconds later.

His phone rang again, and Mr. Ferne set about the stock broker's task of bringing buyer and seller together. This with the aid of Telex, an electronic box which transmits queries and returns prices faster than scat.

Then, in a brief lull, he dispensed advice which some of us pie-in-the-sky dreamers really ought to heed.

"It's a funny thing," said Mr. Ferne, who traded retail merchandising 11 years ago for work he finds fascinating, "but the same person who will look closely into his other purchases will plunge in and buy stocks without the slightest investigation. You should always investigate before investing, and we'd prefer that people ask more questions than they do."

At this point, recalling a hole in a mountain into which we recently dropped some chikamin without evoking so much as an echo, I suggested that maybe people with only a limited stake to plunk are timid about asking advice.

Mr. Ferne briskly substituted lazy for timid, then went on to list the three types who patronize the market.

The investor is the kingpin, and he's not lazy; whether he aims for income or capital gain, he investigates. Also, he dislikes risks ..... no unproved El Dorado is going to suck him in!

Next comes the speculator, a necessary and worthy, but more impatient fellow. He wants to make it quicker, and will expose his roll to calculated hazard in order to achieve this end.

★

There are some who consider the speculator a leach on the economy, but Mr. Ferne does not share their view. The young, striving companies need him and very often his speculation becomes an investment.

We come now to the low man on the market totem.

He — and it shames me to admit it — is the gambler. His theatre is the penny market, and while he may make a rare killing, the chances are strong against him.

There was, for instance, the man who came in off the street, jaws bristling and shoes laced with string. His garb was ragbag, his gait a discouraged shamble, and who would ever expect him to sink a five-figure sum in blue-chip investments? Yet he did, to round out a $100,000 portfolio.

Business was brisking up, although banks were still on the loose side. I took myself off, determined to return one day as a speculator or maybe even an investor with string shoelaces.

Meanwhile, there's another hole in another mountain, and I have it from a friend of a friend that any day now, the boys will be shovelling the high-grade aside to get at the solid silver!

Many Watch As Boat Burns; Man Rescued

Hundreds of ferry passengers watched on Tuesday night as a Vancouver man was rescued from his cabin cruiser moments before it burned down to the water.

The ferries Queen of Victoria and Queen of Saanich raced to the southeast tip of Salt Spring Island shortly after 9 p.m. following an emergency call from air-sea rescue.

They were in time to see Kenneth James Brown, of 2515 East Georgia, being plucked from his burning boat by the power cruiser Escapade.

It is not yet known if the pleasure craft will be salvageable.

Medical Plan Workers Fail In Union Bid

A bid by office workers for recognition of their union at the B.C. Medical Plan on Government Street has been rejected by the Labour Relations Board.

The Office and Technical Employees Union, Local 15, applied to the board last May to be certified as bargaining agent for office and clerical workers at the government medical plan's headquarters.

After hearing argument from both sides, the Labour Relations Board rejected the application.

The board stated the Labour Relations Act does not apply to employees of the B.C. Medical Plan "and therefore the application does not come within the provisions of that act and cannot be acted upon."

APPOINTED under the Columbo plan to assist the Punjab Agricultural University, Dr. Donald K. Edwards, 35, zoologist at the Federal Forest Research Laboratory, leaves next month for India. He will organize the laboratory teaching facilities in physiology at the university. His wife and three children, presently living at 129 Beach Drive, will accompany him. The scientist is engaged in insect research at the forest science building off Burnside Road.

Walkout Threat On Ferries 'Deadly Serious'

By ROGER STONEBANKS
Times Labor Reporter

The provincial government's ferry fleet is facing another crisis with its employees.

Masters, mates and engineers plan to resign en masse next week unless the government recognizes their union—the Canadian Merchant Service Guild—and allows collective bargaining.

Because the 250 men are civil servants, they don't have collective bargaining rights. They come under the Civil Service Act, not the Labour Relations Act.

The officers — through the guild — have made their position clear: bargaining rights or a mass resignation effective Thursday Sept. 8.

There has been co comment from the government.

The ferry service, conceived amid strikes and defiance eight years ago, appears back where it started.

And once again, Vancouver Islanders face the possibility that ferry service with the mainland will end, as it did for several days during July, 1958.

To recapitulate briefly, on May 16, 1958, 350 members of the Seafarers International Union struck Canadian Pacific's 10 ships linking Victoria and Nanaimo with Vancouver.

On May 18, the Canadian Merchant Service Guild and the National Association of Marine Engineers voted to strike Black Ball and later set a strike deadline of June 25.

Crews Refused to Return

Black Ball continued operating, and the CPR ships stayed struck.

And on Friday, July 18, the walkout occurred.

The government ordered the men back, but they refused. The following week a Supreme Court injunction was issued ordering them back to work, and they complied.

About the same time, the federal government passed legislation ordering the CPR seamen back to work. The CPR ships moved again, and both ferry tieups ended.

But the day before officers and engineers defied the government and walked off Black Ball, B.C. Ferries was officially conceived.

Don't Want Right to Strike

Premier Bennett announced on Thursday, July 17, 1958, that a government ferry fleet would be built and service started between Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen within 12 months.

He said the action was taken as a result of the strike-walkout at CPR and Black Ball.

"The government of B.C. is determined that in the future ferry connections between Vancouver Island and the mainland shall not be subject to the whim of union policy nor to the indifference of federal agencies," said the premier eight years ago.

Now, ferry officers have informed the Canadian Merchant Service Guild they will resign unless the government gives them the right to bargain collectively.

A legislative amendment in March, 1965, formally brought all ferry workers under the Civil Service Act. The move was supported by 33 Social Credit and Liberal MLAs and opposed by 12 New Democrats and one Socred.

Eight Days Left to Deadline

Dead serious, say spokesmen for the Canadian Merchant Service Guild, to which nearly all the officers belong.

Since the plan was publicly disclosed for the first time in the Victoria Daily Times one week ago, "no comment" has been the only comment from Premier Bennett.

If the resignations occur, and ferry service stops, Vancouver Island's principal transportation link with the mainland will be gone.

The only ferries left will be Black Ball to Port Angeles, CPR to Seattle and Washington State Ferries to Anacortes. The CPR's Nanaimo-Vancouver run ended last Friday with the railway strike.

To take just one example: Eighty per cent of imported food comes by truck. Wholesalers report supplies on hand would last about one month.

Grits Backed By Tories Says Perrault

By AB KENT

A groundswell of Conservative support for Liberal candidates in next month's election is being felt in a number of ridings, Liberal Leader Ray Perrault said today.

"I think there is a substantial chance of Conservative support," he said.

And in Greater Victoria ridings a number of avowed Conservatives have declared themselves in favor of Liberal candidates, although they may disagree with some Liberal platform planks.

NO DEALS

Mr. Perrault said the Liberal organization "certainly hasn't negotiated any deals with the Conservative party."

But because the Liberals offer a "progressive platform — the only non-socialist platform in the province, uncommitted to massive take-overs" — Conservatives feel closer to them, he said.

A broad sampling of public opinion in the most recent survey available shows Liberals as the second choice of New Democrats, Conservatives and Socreds, Mr. Perrault said.

He noted there seems to be a feeling in some ridings that the best candidate in the running will have all-party support.

Alan Macfarlane, Liberal incumbent in Oak Bay, has had assurances of Conservative support, as have Liberal candidates James Campbell in Saanich and the Islands, and David Elrix in Esquimalt, he said.

Saanich the Islands Socred candidate John Tisdalle has finished his first campaign tour of the Gulf Islands by boat, which taxied him from meeting to meeting.

He has been showing a film on Peace River power development, which he said has drawn "large and friendly" crowds.

David Elrix will have support at a meeting in Colwood Community Hall Friday from B.C. Liberal leader Ray Perrault, who will make a further Vancouver Island appearance at Nanaimo next Wednesday.

Mr. Elrix speaks tonight at Langford Buffalo hall, Thursday at Sooke Community hall, Tuesday at Strawberry Vale Community hall and Wednesday at Fraser Street hall in Esquimalt.

Six Candidates Appear Friday At UVic Rally

Six local candidates from Victoria and Oak Bay will appear at a rally Friday at 8 p.m. in the University of Victoria's student union building.

Attending are Liberals John Porteous, Victoria, and Alan Macfarlane, Oak Bay; NDP candidates Dorcas Blair and Harold T. Allan of Victoria, and Mira Yarwood, Oak Bay; and Socred Dr. Charles Ennals of Oak Bay.

Students hope to quiz candidates on their stand on education issues at the meeting. Slated to question them are several Uvic students and a nursing student.

Third year science student Brian White will chair the meeting.

Weather Outlook Turns Grey

Weatherman Allan McQuarrie said a batch of cloud is desending on Victoria from northern Vancouver Island which will likely remain until Friday.

The grey matter will "not likely, but possibly" produce a little rain overnight, said Mr. McQuarrie.

Despite the cloud there were smiles on the weather hill today when they toted up the monthly figures which showed there has been more than average sunshine and half the normal amount of rain.

Need for Ice 'Urgent' Says Sports Committee

This was the opinion given to the municipal parks and recreation committee Tuesday night by the Saanich Sports Centre Committee.

The group said there is an "urgent need" for ice facilities in Saanich—regulation ice sheet with accommodation for 1,800 seats, changing rooms and concessions, plus six sheets of curling.

The centre should also include a recreational room for senior citizens, with Silver Threads downtown bursting at the seams; accommodation for conventions and banquets; and a community meeting place for residents of all ages.

CENTRAL SPOT

The group favored these facilities in one building and centrally located, at Royal Oak or Swan Lake.

It said transportation to one centre or to separate facilities is going to be a problem for some "but we cannot see the majority of the population being inconvenienced if one centre is decided upon."

Children, said the brief, are mainly transported to facilities "and it is not likely to change."

CHEAPER

The group also felt one centre will be cheaper to operate and maintain than several.

"There is no doubt in our minds that one centre serving the majority has the best chance of being accepted by the taxpayer especially if the project is built over a five-year period.

"We feel very pessimistic about two single sheets with limited facilities meeting taxpayers' approval.

"The centre we have in mind bears no resemblance to the arena downtown and there is just no comparison. It could be compared, however, to the Esquimalt Centre in regard to facilities and size. Facilities for senior citizens, absent in Esquimalt, would come later in our proposal."

HEARS BRIEFS

The parks and recreation committee is hearing briefs from interested groups on proposed new recreational facilities in Saanich.

At the same time, council is holding private meetings to consider the subject.

GOOD SAMARITAN GETS NOD

"It was hovering between life and death. I didn't think it was going to be with us long so I didn't buy a licence." said Mr. Nowle.

"I don't like to discourage a Good Samaritan," said Magistrate William Ostler. "Suspended sentence."

Town Crier For Landau

A horse-drawn landau will be driven through Victoria streets daily, starting Friday and during the following week of centennial celebrations.

The landau, besides carrying entertainer Bill Hosie and several Victoria beauties in centennial costume, will serve as public address system to broadcast news of centennial events.

The landau will jog through the streets weekdays at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Greater Victoria Centennial Society is still looking for a contest idea for winter months and has offered a $25 prize for the best suggestion.

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY PROJECT

Lions Offer $25,000 Prize For Essay on Peace Formula

Local youngsters are being offered a chance at a $25,000 prize to help with career or education through a Lions Club-sponsored essay contest.

The essay topic is Peace, and one of the contest goals is to find a plan for world peace, "because we feel peace is attainable," said a Lions Club spokesman.

The contest is being sponsored by Lions Clubs all over the world to mark the golden anniversary — 50 years — of Lions International in 1967.

Local clubs which will sponsor the contest are Victoria, Esquimalt, Saanich, South Van Isle and Victoria Chinatown Lions Club.

More than 20,000 Lions Clubs in 130 countries are taking part in the project, described as "one of the most worthwhile" the organization has undertaken.

Besides the $25,000 first prize, eight semi-final awards will be given, and winners of these will receive an all-expense-paid trip to Chicago in July, 1967 for the Lions International 50th Anniversary convention.

"This essay should deal with peace; its meaning, its objective, how to obtain it and how it should be applied," said Lions International president Edward M. Lindsey in announcing the contest.

The contest is "an opportunity to express your thoughts" in writing a peace formula, he said.

14 TO 22

The peace essay contest is open to any girl or boy who will be 14 but less than 22 years old on January 15, 1967. Only one entry per person will be allowed.

Each essay, not to be more than 5,000 words, will be judged on four points: 75 per cent for content, a clearly defined and significant idea; 10 per cent for each of organization and style; and five per cent for mechanics—grammar, spelling and punctuation.

All essays submitted must be typed and doublespaced, and when quotations are used, references must be given in footnotes. No artwork is allowed with the essays.

Suggested information sources for the essay contest are libraries, magzines and newspapers, books related to the subject and discussions with informed persons.

Three judges will be chosen to judge entries submitted to each Lions Club.

Q. How can I join the Victoria Horticultural Society?—D. A. B.

Q. How does the Dominion Bureau of Statistics measure the Consumer Price Index?—G. B.

A. The Bureau has a weighting system, a list of priorities established by a study of how people actually spend their money. The average family spends one tenth of one percent of income on vitamin pills. It also spends three tenths of one percent on automobile tires. Therefore, says a DBS pamphlet, an increase in the price of tires has three times the importance of a non-increase in the cost of vitamin pills.

Why Shouldn't Arthur Take Lessons? After All, Golfing Veteran Is Only 97

By DOUG PEDEN

Like most enthusiastic golfers who have trouble breaking 100, Arthur Thompson feels he can still iron out a few of the wrinkles that have crept into his swing and whittle a few strokes off his handicap.

This hope of better scores to come, his visits to the practice fairway at Uplands Golf Club and the lessons he occasionally receives from professional Johnny Wren would seem to place Thompson squarely in the category of "average golfer."

Don't you believe it.

People around the bunkers and greens at Uplands will tell you there is nothing "average" about the tall, courteous man in plus fours.

And if you think the always-smiling man who celebrated his 97th birthday on June 30 merely plods along for a few holes now and then, forget it.

Summer or winter, Arthur likes to walk the fairways. In fact, he'll sometimes ask, "Who's for two more?" at the end of a round, wanting to replay the first two holes and make it a 20-hole excursion.

Whether it's baking bread, playing golf or rowing a boat, Arthur Thompson likes to get on with the job. He never was a man to dawdle and as a result he plays golf more quickly than many men one third his age.

Eagerness Doesn't Help Scoring

It may be this eagerness for action that has prevented Thompson from matching his score with his age this summer for the first time in many years.

"Arthur could improve his score by several strokes if he would take more time," says Wren. "He is so impatient to get on with his game that he is sometimes walking almost before he hits the ball.

"However, Arthur enjoys his golf, and that's what counts. He's a marvellous golfer for his age and he's a wonderful gentleman."

Nobody at Uplands needs to be reminded that the nongenarian, who walks as straight as an army drill-sergeant, is a gentleman. At "stag night" competitions on summer Thursdays, Thompson's courtesy, good humor and enthusiasm make him a favorite playing partner of duffer and low-handicapper alike.

He's also admired by the ladies, who appreciate his ready smile, pleasant words and the kind of consideration they don't always get from other male members.

June Lovitt, one of the club's better distaff swingers, will tell you about last summer when she shared the practice fairway with Thompson while preparing for a match.

When Mrs. Lovitt was ready to leave, Arthur insisted that he pick up her practice balls and eventually prevailed over her arguments. Sure enough, when she had finished her match, the bag of balls was waiting for her at the pro shop.

Fine Performer in Several Sports

Thompson's humor comes easily. Like the time this summer while I was playing with him in a stag-night foursome.

Hitting to the green on the 280-yard 15th hole, a setting sun made the flag difficult to see and we told Arthur to aim for a cluster of golf carts and bags behind the green. He hit a crisp iron shot on the green but about 30 feet to the right of the cup.

"That," he quipped, "wasn't for the bags. That was for the birds."

Last summer, on being complimented on a newspaper picture, in which he appeared with pro hockey star Gordie Howe, he commented: "Thank you. But you know Victoria has always been famous for its antiques."

Although once an outstanding performer in several sports, Thompson never became an expert in golf, which he started playing in 1903. In fact, he scored almost as well in his 80s as he did a few decades earlier.

"I never was much of a golfer," he said. "I never broke 80 on a championship course. I had lots of chances but always managed to spoil them."

Born at Montreal in 1869, Thompson went to work with the Bank of Montreal at 14 and remained with that institution until retiring in 1932. He immediately headed for Victoria, which he had visited 13 years earlier.

"It was September," he recalled. "The weather was marvellous and the city was beautiful. There was never any doubt after that where I would go when I retired."

Moderation and Plenty of Exercise

He joined Uplands Golf Club in 1932 and three years later purchased a waterfront home at Ten Mile Point. Widowed for the second time six years ago, Thompson still lives in the same house, does his own hosuekeeping, bakes his own bread, cooks his meals and occasionally invites neighbors to dinner, "when I get a good roast."

Arthur, who stopped smoking in 1927 after having his tonsils removed, prepares himself a hearty breakfast each morning, eats little during the day and normally has a big meal in the evening. Before dinner, there is usually a bottle of ale.

"My two big vices are champagne and ale," he said, "and I can seldom afford champagne."

Despite his liking for ale, he limits himself to one bottle and this disciplined moderation may be one of the reasons for continued, robust health.

"Dad has been a very moderate person all his life," says his daughter, Jessie. "Our family has a wonderful heredity of health, but I think if there are any secrets for his longevity they would be his moderation and his desire for exercise.

"He has always taken a tremendous amount of exercise. Also he doesn't let anything bother him and he isn't interested in yesterday. He lives for today and tomorrow."

Arthur Prefers Manpower to Motors

Arthur still has a huge appetite for exercise, like the time last summer when he went salmon fishing.

As befits a man who was once a crack oarsman as well as a fine tennis, lacrosse and hockey player. He prefers manpower to motors. On this day, he rowed his boat for three hours, caught a nine-pound coho salmon on trout tackle and returned, just before noon.

after cleaning the fish, Thompson was invited to share a bottle of ale by his neighbor, H. D. Armstrong, but declined.

"Thank you, but I have to hurry," said Arthur. "I have a golf game this afternoon."

During one of last winter's worst snowstorms, while most people were trying to keep out of the weather, Wren was surprised to see someone approaching the Uplands pro shop.

"It looked like a big snowman," recalls Wren, "but it was Arthur. He had walked three miles from home for exercise."

He has become a legend at Uplands and he is an impressive example of the benefits of moderation, exercise and living for tomorrow.

Tough Defensive Unit Carries Ottawa's Ball

RUSS JACKSON
. . . throws for two

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders started the Eastern Football Conference season with high hopes based mainly on an explosive offence. They are undefeated and in first place, but a defence that has alowed only 17 points in four games is the main reason.

The pass defence — a weak point last season—made five interceptions Tuesday night and played the key role in a 24-0 victory over the winless Toronto Argonauts.

The Argos, deep in Ottawa territory five times, tried to score on passes three times but all three throws by rookie quarterback Wally Gabler were picked off in the end zone.

The Argos also tried two field goals, but one was blocked and the other was finally ruled wide after players on both teams thought the kick was good.

The Riders' offence didn't really get going until the fourth quarter, and even then it was the defence that provided the spark, intercepting four passes to set up the two tochdowns that put the game out of reach.

Ottawa quarterback Russ Jackson had an off night passing with only 10 completions for 141 yards on 22 attempts. But two went for touchdowns and he turned in a strong running game, leading his club in rushing with 58 yards in six carries.

Jackson hit flanker Whit Tucker with a six-yard scoring pass in the second quarter, then halfback Bo Scott caught a six-yard touchdown pass in the fourth period. Fullback Jim Dillard got the other Ottawa touchdown on a one-yard plunge.

Tackle Moe Racine accounted for the other six points with a 47-yard field goal, two converts and a single when his field goal attempt from 27 yards out was wide.

"The interceptions killed us," Toronto coach Bob Shaw said after the game, but he gave no indication he intends to bench his rookie quarterback and pick up veteran Eagle Day who was released last Saturday by Calgary Stampeders of the Western Conference because "they weren't all his fault."

Despite the score, the statistics were fairly close. Gabler completed 12 of 28 passes to give Toronto a 153-141 edge in passing yardage.

College Dandies Collide Tonight

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Canadian Football League has turned to Western Canadian schools for 65 prospects since it started a college draft in 1958.

Unfortunately, the ratio of success hovers around 10 per cent.

But two western college recruits who did make good will be on hand tonight when Montreal Alouettes tackle Winnipeg Blue Bombers in CFL interlocking action.

Peter Kempf, a 1958 choice from the University of British Columbia, is the Alouettes' adept field - goal kicking flanker.

Ken Nielsen, a 1956 choice from the University of Alberta in Edmonton, is the Bombers' tight end threat.

Both made major contibutions to their clubs' triumphs in preceding games.

Kempf, off - season trade acquisition from British Columbia Lions, collected all the points when Montreal trimmed Hamilton Tiger-Cats 16-8 to pull the Alouettes' season showing to 2-2.

Nielsen, who donned a Bomber uniform after brief visits with Hamilton and Edmonton Eskimos, grabbed two touchdown passes in Winnipeg's 19-9 verdict over Calgary Stampeders.

The game will be televised on the CTV network.

LEAFS GET PERMISSION . . . . . . TO DEAL FOR McNEILL

Punch Is Making Eyes at Billy

McNeill, the Western Hockey League's most valuable player for the past two seasons while serving with Vancouver Canucks, wants to retire as a puckchaser. He's so serious about it, the blond centre has informed Canucks not to count on his services for the season 1966 and 7.

Enter Punch Imlach, the leader of the Leafs.

It has been learned that Imlach, after asking, has been given permission to "talk" to McNeill.

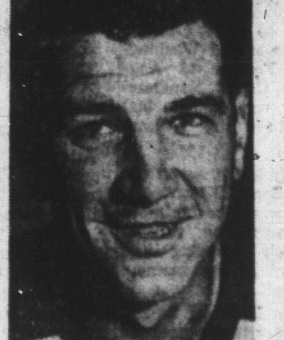
If that's the case, Houle must be worried.

"Any overture for McNeill would have to worry me," said Houle Tuesday. "If Imlach gets McNeill, Coley Hall (Canucks' managing director) will want something in return.

"What worries me is how many players Hall will want . . .



FRED HUCUL

". . . And who?"

Houle emphasized the "who."

Apart from one or two changes, Victoria is expected to field almost the same unit that rambled to win the President's Cup last spring. The changes being made almost surely will strengthen the Leafs, and Houle isn't anxious to have gaping holes shot into his plans now.

* * *

OTHERWISE: Victoria's exhibition schedule has been reduced from six to five games, thanks to Coley Hall . . . Leafs agreed to a Sept. 30 date with the Canucks in Vancouver, but Hall requested a change . . . Houle couldn't spot any other suitable date and said "no thanks" to Mr. Hall . . . The dark cloud that was draped on Fred Hucul's back last spring seems to have disappeared . . . The Victoria veteran, highest-scoring defenceman in WHL history, was bothered by a bad back to such an extent that he planned to undergo an operation in the summer . . . The back has responded so well to treatment, however, that the surgery date has been cancelled . . . Permanently, Freddie hopes . . .

RECORD POOL PAYOFF

LONDON (AP)—A 52-year-old laborer has won £331,196 ($993,598)—claimed to be a world record — on a soccer pool, it was announced today.

Making public the win, the pool operators (Littlewoods) said it was the largest sum ever won by an individual anywhere on a soccer pool.

He won the £331,196 by risking 3s 9d (57 cents).

Last week, when he played the pools for the first time, Harrison won 10 shillings.

This encouraged him to try to do better.

The pool operators, of which there are several, pay out weekly to those who predict eight draws from a single list of scheduled soccer games.

The operators said the previous biggest single win was £316,000 by Geoffrey Liddiard 18 months ago.

Harrison correctly predicted eight draws from the more than 20 games on which the pools was based.

Bauer Ready To Give Arm For Pitcher

(By UP International)

EARL WILSON

The feeling of euphoria is really not so new to Blue Moon, otherwise known as John Odom. The Kansas City righthander broke into the major leagues in spectacular fashion in 1964 with a two-hit shutout of the Orioles for his initial triumph.

But Odom, who will celebrate his 20th birthday early next month, did himself one better Tuesday when he stopped the New York Yankees 4-1 on just one hit—Roger Maris' first inning double—for his third win against threee defeats.

Meanwhile, Bauer's concern is centred around the top of the American League standings. The former Marine sergeant is counting pitchers hopping over the bullpen fence while trying to ward off thoughts of a possible collapse.

Bauer witnessed the monotonous sight again Tuesday night as second place Detroit defeated the front running Birds 5-4 to further reduce their advantage to 10½ games. It was Baltimore's fourth straight setback and eighth in their last 11 contests.

The Orioles rapped out 10 hits and got homers from both Robinsons but the over-worked pitching staff yielded round-trippers to Jim Northup, Al Kaline and Norm Cash, the last coming in the ninth inning and making the difference.

For the 29th time in the last 30 games, the Baltimore starter failed to go the distance. Since July 23, the only pitcher to finish for Bauer has been Dave McNally, and even then, only twice.

Bauer has looked as far as the National League for help but prospective deals with the New York Mets for either Bob Shaw or Bob Friend and with the Cubs for veteran lefty Curt Simmons have apparently fallen through.

Eddie Watt (9-5) was the most recent victim, lasting only 4⅓ innings and giving up eight hits. Earl Wilson, the Detroit starter, fared far better—winning his seventh straight decision for an over-all 16-9 mark.

In other AL play, Minnesota beat Washington 3-1, Cleveland stopped Chicago 6-2, and Boston edged California 7-6.

Mets Put Whammy on Sandy

Until Tuesday night ace left-hander Sandy Koufax had lost only one game to New York Mets.

That was last season when pitcher Tug McGraw beat the Los Angeles Dodgers in a pitching duel with Koufax.

Things looked a lot different after the first inning of a Koufax-McGraw return match Tuesday night. The Dodgers held a 2-0 edge in their National League encounter and Koufax appeared well on his way to revenge.

But Bob Friend took over for McGraw in the second inning and held Los Angeles to four hits over the remainder of the game, while the Mets exploded with a five-run rally off Koufax in the third inning and went on to a 10-4 victory.

Elsewhere, San Francisco Giants blasted Philadelphia Phillies 7-1, Pittsburgh Pirates defeated Houston Astros 8-2, Cincinnati Reds beat St. Louis Cardinals 6-4, and Chicago Cubs edged Atlanta Braves 5-3.

The loss dropped the Dodgers two games off the pace. Jerry Grote doubled in a pair during the Mets third - inning outburst.

Jim Hart blasted a three-run homer in the eighth inning that broke up the San Francisco-Philadelphia contest and powered the Giants to victory.

Willie Stargell's bases-loaded single drove in two runs in a five-run fourth inning for Pittsburgh as the Pirates kept pace with the Giants. Roberto Clemente drove in his 96th run of the season, a personal high. The defeat snapped Houston's winning streak at six games.

The Mets got to Koufax for five runs in the third inning. Koufax, now 22-8, walked three men in the second inning and forced in a run. Jerry Grote doubled in a pair for the Mets in the third.

Cincinnati extended its win streak to seven games as Pete Rose hit two home runs and Deron Johnson hit his third in two days and 20th of the season.

Ernie Banks provided the Cub muscle with a three-run homer in the third inning. Hank Aaron spoiled Ken Holtzman's shutout with a three-run homer in the seventh. It was his 36th of the season and pushed his RBI total to 102, marking the eighth season Aaron has driven in 100 or more runs.

SUMMER HOCKEY SCHOOL POPULAR

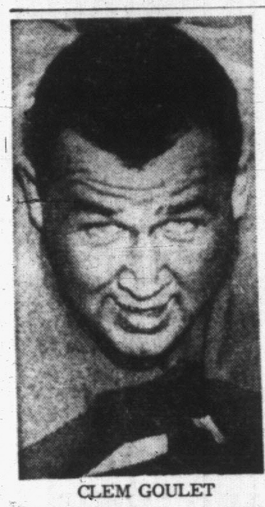
Annual mid-summer hockey school at Esquimalt Sports Centre attracted record registration of 170 players for this years' three-week clinic. Supervised by eight-man coaching staff headed by Victoria Maple Leafs' Andy Hebenton, school ends this week. Youngsters from 7 to 18 years include players from as far away as Oakland and Berkeley, Calif.; Portland, Winnipeg, Calgary and Fort St. John. Helping Hebenton with coaching are Terry Tobacco, John White, Don Reid, Art Burton, Dave Halme, Ernie Jackson and John McQuillan. (Times photos by Irving Strickland.)



CLEM GOULET

JUST ASK PAT

Clem Bashes 'Pretty Good'

By HAL MALONE

"That Clem Goulet hits them pretty good," Pat Frumento said.

"Which one's Goulet?' he was asked.

"The one with his right forearm taped," Frumento said. Smiling, "makes a great weapon."

Just then Goulet came up out of a four-point stance and an offensive lineman caught the elbow. Fortunately the Victoria Steelers had not settled into "hitting" scrimmage or Goulet's buddy would have had a mouthful of sore teeth.

Plays tackle and guard. Is mean, say team manager John Keresman. Mean in grid lingo does not refer to Keller's parlor manners but to his hostile outlook on the field, notably against the enemy.

Goulet and Keller are two of 28 perspiring aspirants to make the Steelers, Victoria's first semi-professional football team, in the Pacific Football League.

People Invited to Watch Them Work

Ohler, former high school ace with Vancouver College and a backup quarterback until last year for the B.C. Lions' Joe Kapp, is running the Steelers' show, assisted by former Calgary Stampeder great Paul Rowe.

Each night, except Saturday, Ohler and his staff have been putting between 20 and 30 hopefuls through drills at Colville Street grounds.

Frumento, title-less, but one of the key figures in getting the franchise here, expects no miracles.

"I get high and low watching them," he said Tuesday. "I guess it's that way when you start. The important thing is that we have started. We have 23 boys out here tonight five others are working lateshifts.

"We're delighted with the coaching staff and the attitude of the boys. We're not set by any means. Earl Lunsford (formerly Calgary Stampeder's No. 1 fullback) has promised us a look at some top Calgary juniors.

"What I'd like to see, really, is some people at our workouts. Tell em, will ya, we go every night except Saturday at 6:30 and Sunday afternoons at 2. And we hit in drills."

Programs have not yet been printed (season ticket sales — five home games for $10—are available at the Dominion and Douglas Hotels, Century and Red Lions Inns) but if you want to know the name of any player, just ask the tall guy on the sidelines.

His name is Pat Frumento. He knows everything about this team from arch-supports to wash-towels. He should. He helped put it together.

TIPS ROLL IN

Grand Jury Checks Into Race Fixes

NEW YORK (AP)—A grand jury investigation into possible harness racing fixing at three tracks opened today fuelled by hundreds of tips from angry bettors.

Brooklyn District Attorney Aaron Koota said his office had been flooded with letters and telephone calls, many offering "promising leads."

Fifty-six witnesses were subpoenaed to appear before the jurors today, including 21 drivers, several track officials and six reputed Cosa Nostra figures.

The probe centres on possible race fixing at Roosevelt, Yonkers and Monticello raceways, all out of Koota's jurisdiction. There were reports that district attorneys who do have jurisdiction over the tracks were irritated by Koota's investigation.

Koota met with all three Tuesday and justified his investigation by saying that Brooklyn underworld figures were involved.

Torrid Five Under Gives Nagle Lead

SOUTHPORT, Eng. (CP) — Kel Nagle of Australia shot a five-under-par 68 to take the early lead in the first round of the $200,000 world championship golf tournament today as many in the field of top pros skyrocketed to scores in the high 70s and some in the 80s.

Nagle, former British Open champion and loser to South Africa's Gary Player in the 1965 U.S. Open playoff, finished with an eagle three on the 17th and a birdie four on the 18th.

A pair of British Ryder Cup players, Peter Butler and Neil Coles, were among the handful to break par with about half the huge field of more than 150 in.

Butler shot a 70 and Coles had a 71, along with Trevor Wilkes of South Africa.

Ramon Sota of Spain managed a 72, and American Bob Rosburgh and South Africa's Cobie Legrange had 73s, par for the Royal Birkdale course.

LEAD LOOKED BETTER

Nagle's sensational five-under-par round equalled the professional record for the course. As the day wore on his lead looked better and better. He was followed by Butler and Bob Charles of New Zealand also with a 70.

Early Canadians were above that. Jack Bissegger of Val Morin, Que., had a 36-36-72. George Knudson of Toronto had troubles and shot 40-38-78.

Cowboy, Beaver Take Tag Tussle

They teamed up to defeat Fuzzy Cupid and Sky Low Low in a midget tag-team match that featured a professional wrestling card.

Bion, Meyers Lead the Way

Two-goal efforts by Paul Bion and Larry Meyers sparked Ingrahams to a 9-4 victory over Red Lions in Tuesday's Summer Hockey League activity at the Sports Centre.

In another game, Wally Evanchu also scored a pair to spark Tudors to a 5-4 victory over Suburbans.

Ingraham — Dick Gibbons, Ray Beech, John Messey, Dan Buie, John Robson.
Lions — Tom Mullins, 2, Wayne Mowat, Pat Green.

Tudor — Brian Whitten, Mike O'Connor, Steve Meriman.
Suburban — Terry Foreman, Doug Anderson, John Kennett, Dave Williams.

Minor Boosters Meet

A general meeting of the Vancouver Island Junior and Juvenile Soccer Association will be held Sept. 8 at the Hillside Little League clubhouse, starting at 8 p.m. All teams are urged to send representatives.

JUNIOR TEAM ADOPTED BY COAST LEAGUE CLUB

Victoria's new entry in the Pacific Coast Junior Soccer League has been officially "adopted" by Victoria O'Keefes (nee United) of the Pacific Coast League.

Manager Doug Day and coach Art Rostron of the Juniors both were added to the O'Keefe directorate Tuesday night. The Juniors will, however, secure their own sponsor.

The Juniors, scheduled to play out of Carnarvon Park, will make their debut Thursday, at 6:45 p.m., when they meet Red Lions, Victoria District League First Division side, in an exhibition at Lansdowne Junior High. At the same time, but on another corner of the Lansdowne field, O'Keefes will play Luckies.

Movers Earn Tie With Late Surge

By TONY COSIER

Greaves Movers exploded in the bottom half of the final inning Tuesday night at Hampton Park to avoid defeat in the opening game of the Senior Amateur Baseball League final.

Workers came alive just in time to chase across two runs against the pitching of veteran Art Worth and salvage a 2-2 tie with Transport Workers.

Three straight singles after Steve Dunc had worked Worth for a base on balls with on out in the seventh inning enabled the Movers to erase a 2-0 deficit.

Jerry Lister followed Dunc with a slashing single. Don Bell, pinch-hitting for starting pitcher George Hemming, bounced a hard single to score Dunc and Bob Moysey lined another single to chase Lister home with the equalizing run.

LOADED BASES

Worth walked Bob Bowles to load the bases and Transports were forced to do some scrambling of their own in order to preserve the tie.

Les Brice topped a slow ground ball to Transports' second sacker Gord Strongman, who fired a low throw to home plate. Catcher Mike McAvoy scooped the toss out of the dirt and stepped on the plate to force Bell.

Worth then fanned tough Bob Lumley to end the contest.

Lumley had clubbed a long drive to centre in the fourth for what looked like a sure triple and a possible home run, but missed touching second base and retraced his steps to settle for a double.

McAvoy scored both runs for Transports. McAvoy singled sharply to open the third and moved up on a single by George Fuller before scoring on strongmans' line single.

MacKay Sparkles Again As B.C. Bombs Ontario

WINNIPEG (CP)—Norm Patterson, of Quebec, and Ike MacKay, of British Columbia, both centre forwards, each scored three goals to guide their teams to victory in the Canadian soccer championship tournament Tuesday night.

Patterson's counters, giving him five in two games, came in a 5-1 decision over Saskatchewan in Group B. MacKay's goals were in a 6-0 romp over Ontario in Group A.

B.C., 4-1 victors over Manitoba Sunday, now leads Group A with four points. Quebec occupies top spot in Group B with three points.

Group leaders after a double round-robin meet in the tournament final Saturday. Group runners-up play the same day to decide third and fourth place.

OPENS B.C. SCORING

Neil Ellett, at 22 the oldest member of the B.C. team, opened scoring in the 12th minute when his free kick from 20 yards out caught the top corner of the Ontario net.

Right wing Harold Hansen made it 2-0 when he headed in a high ball in the 20th minute. Less than 17 minutes later left winger Wergio Zanatta set up MacKay with a sailing pass for the third B.C. goal.

MacKay, who scored one goal in B.C.'s first-game victory, has been a sparkling performer for the squad that has been picked to win-it-all here.

Such has been his play that he almost certainly will be one of the 32 players invited to try out for the Pan-American Games team.

PRETTY EFFORT

He scored his last two goals at 72 and 83 minutes. The last one was the best of the match. Picking up the ball at midfield, MacKay sprinted around four Ontario defenders, then drew goalie Art Kushner aside before walking the ball into the net.

Gilbey's disclose little tricks to improve your mixed gin drinks

Use these little tricks to improve your mixed gin drinks. But if it's taste that's troubling you—forget the tricks and change to Gilbey's London Dry. Its perfect balance gives you a fresh, clean-tasting drink.

Tricks with ice

If you need lots of ice for a party, start a few hours before the event. Make a batch of ice and then tip it out into a plastic bag. You can then keep the bag of ice in the bottom half of your refrigerator—the bag helps keep the ice well chilled. Make as many bags as you need.

Tricks with twists

To make a 'twist' of lemon begin with fresh lemon. See that the skin is clear and unblemished. With a razor-sharp knife pare off a strip of peel 3/8" wide. Take the strip of peel between your thumb and forefinger. Twist it so that a couple of drops go into your drink.

This advertisement is not published or displayed by the Liquor Control Board or the Government of British Columbia.

DID SEX TESTS SCARE 'EM? OR WAS IT MODESTY?

Some Start Guessing When Misses Missed

By MIKE HUGHES

BUDAPEST (UPI) — In the age of the Beatles, the difficulty of deciding whether a stroller be a boy with long hair of a girl with short hair has made people suspicious of the sexes.

This suspicion has even spread to track and field. Preceding all major championships, women athletes now must submit to physical examinations to verify their sex.

Be it modesty, embarrassment or fear of exposure in this cold climate, a handful of women have failed to appear for the eighth annual European track and field championship which started today. Their absence has caused furrowed brows among other competitors.

The four non-arrivals are discus and shotput star Tamara Press, her sister, dash champion, Irena, broadjumper Ttatyana Shchelkanova — all Russians — and high jumper Ilona Balas of Romania.

The Press sisters aren't present because they claim their mother is sick. Miss Shchelkanova has reportedly pulled a leg muscle while Miss Balas' absence has not been explained.

Russian coach Gabriel Korobkov refused to discuss the subject but did say the girls involved felt it would have been a psychological blow to submit to such an examination, which was first instituted at the British Commonwealth games at Kingston, Jamaica, earlier this month.

"I for one am glad the girls have to submit to an examination," said Dutch women's coach Fanny Blankers-Koenn, winner of four gold medals at the 1948 Olympics. "There have been too many sly remarks in the past about certain girls' sex and the exam will end all further controversy.

"There can be no question that in the past there was some suspicion about the sex of certain athletes," she added. "It was always unfair when a real girl was beaten by one who posed as a female. As for our team, they have nothing to hide. What the others do is their business."

British women's coach Marea Hartman, who had wondered how the Russians would react to the exam, said she heard Miss Balas intended to fly here after the physical and then compete.

"If she tries that," Miss Hartman warned, "We'll be the first to protest."

Miss Balas, the world record holder in the high jump and reigning Olympic and European champion, was favored to win a gold medal for her country. Tamara, Olympic champion in her specialty, and Irena, world record holder in the pentathlon, were expected to win at least three events. Miss Shchelkanova figured to set a world mark in the long jump.

Under the present system, physicians report their findings to the International Amateur Athletic Federation. If there is any doubt as to sex, the entrant is pulled out of the championship.

But all the girls who have undergone tests so far have taken it like a woman.

O.C. CRICKET

Rain Wipes Out Exciting Threat

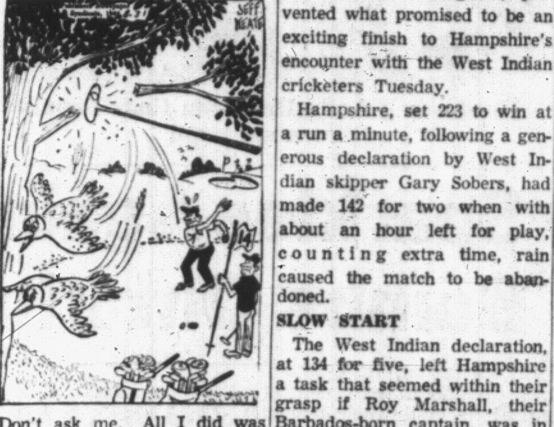
TIME OUT By JEFF KEATE



Don't ask me. All I did was rustle my feathers!"

SOUTHAMPTON, England (Reuters)—Rain, which dogged the match throughout, prevented what promised to be an exciting finish to Hampshire's encounter with the West Indian cricketers Tuesday.

Hampshire, set 223 to win at a run a minute, following a generous declaration by West Indian skipper Gary Sobers, had made 142 for two when with about an hour left for play, counting extra time, rain caused the match to be abandoned.

SLOW START

The West Indian declaration, at 134 for five, left Hampshire a task that seemed within their grasp if Roy Marshall, their Barbados-born captain, was in form. After a slow start Marshall raced away and when he left, having made 54 in 70 minutes, Hampshire was up with the clock.

Henry Horton, who numbered a six among his early hits, reached his 50 in 90 minutes and was undefeated with 54 at the end.

Lively hitting by Sobers (23), Basil Butcher (35) and Wes Hall (34 not out) was a feature of the West Indian innings before the declaration.

Other results:

At Hove, match drawn. Middlesex 308 for 4 declared and secondly 163 for 9 declared; Sussex 309 for 8 declared and secondly 117 for 4.

At Bristol, Northamptonshire beat Gloucestershire by an innings and 23 runs. Northamptonshire 326 for 8 declared; Gloucestershire 131 and secondly 172.

At The Oval, match abandoned as draw—rain. Yorkshire 143 and secondly 108 for 5; Surrey 150.

At Colwyn Bay, Glamorgan beat Derbyshire by 63 runs. Glamorgan 183 and secondly 219 for 5 declared; Derbyshire 118 and secondly 221.

Tennis Meet, Lacrosse On Weekend

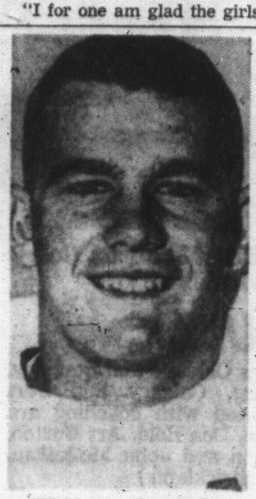
A minor boxla jamboree will be held at Memorial Arena starting at 10 a.m. Three mainland teams will vie with eight from Greater Victoria for three major trophies and a host of other awards, including Centennial medallions.

At Beacon Hill Park, a Centennial tennis tourney will be held starting at 10 a.m.

The tourney is open to graduates of the summer parks instructional program conducted by Gordon Hartley.

Ten trophies will be awarded.



TEXAS TERROR

Down around University of Texas they are saying sophomore quarterback Bill Bradley (above) will make alumni forget all about "good old days." Bradley, a 5-11 180-pounder, can run like sprinter, pass 60 yards, punt 75 and is capable place kicker and punt returner.

World Federation Blocks Unlimited Body-Checking

POERTSCHACH, Austria (Reuters)—A proposal to allow body-checking in the whole rink was rejected Tuesday at the start of the International Ice Hockey Federation congress.

The motion was submitted by Sweden and West Germany. The federation decided to maintain the present rule allowing body-checking only in defence zones.

The congress announced the following groups for the forthcoming world championships 1967 in Vienna:

Group A: Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, Canada, Sweden, United States, East Germany, Finland and West Germany.

Group C: Japan, Denmark, France, Britain, Bulgaria.

Top-Rated Benfica Fails to Impress

TORONTO (CP)—Benfica of Portugal, with seven players who represented their country in the recent World Cup, nipped Toronto Italia, Falcons of the Eastern Canada Professional Soccer League 1-0 in a dull exhibition soccer game before 9,869 fans Tuesday night.

Jose Torres, Benfica's international centre forward, scored the only goal after 34 minutes, pushing a pass from Antonio Simoes past Italia goalie Nigel Fims from six yards out.

Simoes was Portugal's most prominent player, darting in and out of Italia's stubborn defence and making numerous scoring chances which his teammates failed to convert.

Eusebio had eight shots on the Italia net. The first, from 18 yards out, was 10 yards wide. Two others were stopped by Fims, and a third rocket-like blast from 10 yards was kicked off the goal line by right half Ken Bracewell.

GIVEAWAY KILLS SALE

Amateurs Cluttering Masters Golf Classic?

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — The Augusta National Golf Club announced Tuesday it was cutting down the number of amateurs invited to the Masters tournament.

The club said the 23 U.S. amateurs in the 1966 Masters "more than our tournament format can accommodate."

Under the new rules, the club said, amateurs invited will include eight from the U.S. Amateur tournament, the winner of the British Amateur, and members of the U.S. World Amateur and Walker Cup teams.

U.S. and British amateur champions will be invited only to the next two Masters tournaments instead of the next 10 as under the old rules.

Gluey Hughey Setting Pace For Scorers

Hugh Campbell caught his seventh and eighth touchdown passes of the season in Saskatchewan's 39-29 win over British Columbia Lions Sunday to retain a firm grip on first place in the Western Football Conference scoring race.

The 48 points by the Roughriders flanker are good for a lead of 12 over Jim Thomas of Edmonton Eskimos and Jack Abendschan of Saskatchewan, who kicked 10 points Sunday. Thomas collected two touchdowns in Eskimos' 26-5 win over Calgary Stampeders Saturday night.

Exacto Pays Lusty $557 At Ex Park

VANCOUVER (CP) — The fourth race Exacto at Exhibition Park Tuesday paid a whopping $557.50 to fans who linked Laro's Boy and Sienna Fire.

The winner led from the starting gate until the six furlongs mark, when fourth-place finisher Some Royal Flush bid for the lead.

Laro's Boy went ahead again at the home stretch turn to win the mile and 70-yard race in 1:46 1/5, ahead of Sienna Fire and Gingua.

Canadian Cagers 'Likeable' Fourth

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI)—Canada, the only participating country which failed to win a medal at the second Pan-American Maccabean Games, has been awarded a trophy as the most "simpatico" (likeable) delegation.

Canada's only entrant was the eight-man basketball team which finished fourth.

Perreault Heads List For Canuck Ski Team

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—Jean Perreault of Sherbrooke, a 21-year-old water skier, heads the list of members selected for the 1967 Canadian National Water Ski Association team which will represent Canada in the 10th World Ski Tournament here next year.

Perreault, member of two of Canada's previous teams, will be accompanied by Andy Murdison Jr., of Niagara Falls, Ont., George Athans of Kelowna, B.C., Jean Rodrigue of Quebec City, Brian Muirhead of Winnipeg, Cam McArthur of Hespeler, Ont., Dave Lean of Belleville, Ont., and coach Clint Ward of Hudson Heights, Que.

The women's team is Toronto's Janice Griffith, Vailla Hoggan of Brandon, Man., Jackie Lacomte of Drummondville, Que., and Bonnie Murdison, Andy Jr's sister, of Niagara Falls.

Perreault won the men's overall championship during the 1966 Canadian national water ski championships. Athans, 14, won the junior title. Miss Hoggan won the women's overall title.

NOTHING COMES BETWEEN BUS DRIVER AND CLOCK

Up to the Minute . . . Hour After Hour

By GORDON RITCHIE

And the clock is Bill Lewis' boss.

He drives a bus for B.C. Hydro.

For the past 20 years he has spent eight hours a day five days a week taking Victorians where they want to go.

His is a very punctual business.

Half-a-minute late for work and he's grounded for the day. Once on the job his movements are planned to the minute.

He starts work at 6:30 in the morning when he signs onto the Carey-Cedar Hill run. If he's late his route is taken over by a stand-by driver — a "sleeper" they call it.

NEVER LATE

In 20 years Bill Lewis has never been late. In 20 years nothing has come between him and his clock.

Once signed on he starts out on his 10-mile trip.

The first trip is always the best. "The early morning and late night trips are like that," he says. "You've got time to chat. Some guys get to know their passengers personally."

But not Bill Lewis.

As we head out Douglas Street he talks a little about the bus driver's dilemma: how do you fit slow imperfect people into a schedule which calls for speed and precision?

A schedule which doesn't allow for a minute's wait as a very feeble old lady struggles over to the bus. Another minute as she painfully clambers up the steps fumbling for her fare. And another minute as she slowly works her way back to a seat.

Something has to give.

"Either your service slows to a crawl like it did back in Nelson where I drove for a year or you ride roughshod over your passengers.

"Nelson was too slow," he says. "Vancouver is too efficiency-conscious. And Victoria is just about right."

Just at that moment a furious woman snaps: "You were meant to get here five minutes ago," as she storms aboard the bus.

His dander up he reels off the schedule to her. You can't please everybody.

When he simmers down he expands on his theme.

"When you're working eight hours a day you've got to get along with people in this job or you're going to get ulcers."

As he pulls away from a stop and old woman hobbles toward the bus waving frantically. He brings the bus to a halt a few feet from the curb.

ILLEGAL STOP

"I can get pinched for this," he comments.

The elderly lady is helped aboard by a bouncy middle-aged woman who showers an assortment of nickels and dimes into the change plate.

"I remember when you got six ticket for 35 cents," he comments as he gives her four for 75.

"Some of the school-kids try to forge bus tickets," he adds. "Or they slit the tickets in half, roll them up and try to pass them off as whole tickets.

"We always spot them though," he claims.

It's pretty hard to put one over on the bus company. The heavy metal fare boxes are half-century-old relics from the days of the streetcars — 50 years of proven effectiveness.

'KNEW THE TRICKS'

"The guy who designed them must have been the greatest crook of them all, "he chuckles admiringly. "He sure knew all the tricks."

But the company seems worried more about the drivers than about the passengers.

Through one of the windows of the fare box you can see a little yellow ball skewered on a short spike. If a driver turned the box upside-down to shake out the cash, heaven forbid, the tell-tale ball would tumble off.

But Bill Lewis is not insulted by all these precautions against his presumed dishonesty. He seems amused.

You have to have a sense of humor in his job. The ill-tempered passengers the rude drivers and the unbending tyranny of the clock would sorely try the patience of a Job who didn't laugh.

"But about 90 per cent of my passengers are pretty good," he finds.

"I wouldn't leave this city for the world," he says. "I think it's an ideal city.

"It's a little big for my liking. You don't seem to know anybody any more. If you met a person on the street before if you didn't know him you knew what he did.

"It's not like that any more.

Thant Set to Compromise?

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) U Thant returns to the United Nations tonight from a week-long visit to Latin America and within hours will announce whether he will serve a second term as secretary-general.

The majority view here was that despite the appeals of virtually all members he will offer his resignation.

Thant is reported to have indicated this privately to the big four powers—the United States, Russia, Britain and France. An announcement on his decision is scheduled for noon Thursday.

While there was virtually unanimous agreement that Thant will offer his resignation, effective Nov. 3 when his current five-year term expires, diplomatic opinion was divided on whether he could be persuaded to carry on.

Some sources said the secretary-general's failure to obtain United States backing for his Viet Nam peace efforts, and the small support by other powers for his peace initiatives elsewhere have so saddened and frustrated him that they do not expect him to agree to be drafted for a second term.

These diplomats say he has decided to resign primarily to dramatize his contention that the UN has come to a crossroads and that unless the membership rallies behind the organization it will deteriorate into a sterile debating society.

Western delegates generally consider this an unduly pessimistic viewpoint. They said they expect that, having made his point by offering his resignation, Thant ultimately would agree to stay on for two or three years. But these sources also said the members, especially the great powers, might have to make some solid commitments first.

The Soviet Union's attitude remained in doubt, although several informants said the Soviet delegation appears to be at least as anxious as the United States, if not more so, to have Thant continue at the UN helm.

RANGOON, Burma (Reuters) —U Thant has told close relatives here that he has decided not to continue as United Nations secretary-general when his term expires next November.

U Khant, brother of the UN chief, said that he and other relatives as well as friends and monks had recently written Thant urging him to carry on in his job for at least two years if he did not want to serve the full five-year term.

No News Good News for Murder

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Newfoundland's chief electoral officer, R. G. Trickett, said today he still has not received the results of Monday's nominations proceedings in the south coast riding of Fortune Bay for the Sept. 8 provincial election.

However, he takes the lack of a report as an indication that Liberal Education Minister H. R. Valance Earle has been elected by acclamation. He said that if any other candidate had been nominated the Fortune Bay returning officer would have had to get the information to St. John's by some means for the printing of ballot papers.

Communications to the Fortune Bay district have been out since last week due to strikes by telephone and telegraph workers.

Mr. Earle's acclamation would mean three Liberals have been elected to the 42-seat legislature unopposed. The others are Leslie R. Curtis, president of the executive council, in Twillingate and Abel C. Wornell in Hermitage.

Saanich Moves on Park Expropriation Plan

Saanich council moved Monday night to expropriate the McRae Estate to guarantee its future as a recreation area.

Authorization to proceed with expropriation is contained in a bylaw introduced and given initial readings.

The estate covers more than 100 acres including the Cedar Hill Golf Course which would continue in use under Saanich ownership.

Earlier, council gave approval to proceed with expropriation of 20 acres of privately-owned land near the Tillicum Outdoor Theatre for recreational use.

Ratepayers approved both purchases in the capital projects budget last December. Total cost of the two land acquisitions is in the neighbourhood of $1 million.

In a related development, a petition with 300 names was presented protesting the proposed extension of Tattersall Drive through part of the Cedar Hill Golf Course.

But council was told the new road is needed to provide an east-west link and that the golf course may have to be redesigned to ensure the road doesn't interfere with amenities.

REZONING

Council also considered six rezoning applications.

Public hearings will be held next month into plans for a commercial printing workshop at the southwest corner of Ralph and Douglas; school and kindergarten use at 305 Cadillac; motor vehicle testing station at McKenzie—Cedar Hill Cross Road—Borden; and lawn tennis courts and parking for the Racquet Club, Ruby and Gordon Head.

Two different applications for the same site were rejected. They were from the Alano Club of Victoria for a meeting hall and from Mrs. Myrtle Aaston for school and kindergarten, both at 3382 Harriet.

The application for school and kindergarten use at 305 Cadillac is also from Mrs. Aaston. Under present zoning she is limited to 15 pupils.

The motor vehicle testing station will serve southern Vancouver Island under legislation introduced at the last session of the legislature requiring the testing of motor vehicles.

Chinese Attacking East Germans

BERLIN (Reuters) — East Germany has sharply protested to China against alleged mishandling of its diplomats and their families during recent Red Guard demonstrations in Peking, it was announced today.

ADN, the East German news agency, said a foreign ministry protest note was handed Tuesday to China's ambassador in East Berlin, Chang Hai-foeng.

The protest said the East German military attache in Peking, Lt.-Col. Walter Kautzsch, his wife and son as well as the military attache to North Viet Viet Nam, a Lt.-Col. Mueller and his wife, were stopped in Peking by demonstrators as they drove in a car with diplomatic licence plates. They were manhandled and mistreated while police looked on, the note claimed.

It added that the diplomats were taken to a Red Guard centre and held for several hours. It said the embassy was refused all information about their safety.

The protest said the latest attack was a contradiction of a statement by the Chinese foreign ministry when the wife of the first secretary of the East German embassy was attacked and severely injured April 29.

The Chinese then said measures would be taken to ensure the safety of East German embassy officials.

The protest said several embassy workers had been molested in their work lately, including the charge d'affaires.

HOME GARDEN

Give Your Azaleas An Outdoor Break

By HILDA BEASTALL

Hilda

The best-looking potted azaleas that are kept from one year to another are usually found in the homes of gardeners who put them out into the garden for the summer.

The ideal summer care for an azalea which was flowered in a pot during winter is to remove the ball of roots from the pot and plant it into an outdoor bed of peaty leafsoil.

A sunny spot just near the rhododendrons or other peaty soil plants is ideal, for it is likely that sufficient moisture will be in the soil in such a spot.

Now at the end of August is a good time to lift the azaleas carefully without damaging the fine roots, and put each plant into a pot just large enough to contain the roots.

WIDE, SHALLOW

The ideal pots are known as azalea pots, and are wide and shallow. Clay pots should be soaked in water overnight before using, if they are new. Plastic pots will require less frequent watering after the contents are thoroughly moistened.

Use a finely screened leafmould and peat moss to fill in around the roots, tapping the pot sharply on a bench to settle the mixture, but do not ram tightly.

Have the mixture at least a half-inch below the rim of the pot to allow space for watering.

SPRAY FOLIAGE

After repotting, stand in a pan of water for two hours to allow the contents to be completely moistened, then spray the foliage with tepid water. This spraying with water should be done frequently during the bud formation period.

Keep the pot in a partly shaded place outdoors for a few days to get the roots started into the new mixture, then into sun to start bud formation.

Never allow the plant to become dry, and you'll see signs of buds by the beginning of October when these plants can be brought back into the house or sunroom to begin flowering by about November.

RESIDENTS ORGANIZE AGAINST FIRE-BUG

MONTREAL (CP)—Residents of two blocks in east-end Montreal formed a vigilance committee Tuesday night to protect their homes as the fire department's arson squad and police combed the city for a man suspected of setting three fires in 48 hours.

Police said residents of adjacent Fabre and Grenier Streets, scene of the fires earlier this week, organized patrols by car and on foot in the neighborhood. At least 50 people were believed to be involved.

Plant Quarantine 'Must Go'

Lower Vancouver Island Nurserymen's Association is pressing the federal government to lift the quarantine on plants with roots and soil attached.

The quarantine banning the sale of plants to the mainland and the United States was imposed last year after an outbreak in Central Saanich of golden nematode, a microscopic worm which attacks roots of potatoes and tomatoes.

G. M. Owen, president, said the association has appealed to Agriculture Minister J. J. Greene to review the question.

He said the only place the pests have been found is on 200 acres in Keating.

Nurserymen feel it's unfair to quarantine the whole of south Vancouver Island because of the 200 acres, he said.

"Every nursery and all farmland on the lower island has been checked — in some cases four times," he said. "Either you've got it or not. It hasn't been found anywhere else but on 200 acres."

Teamster Official

ENTERTAINED AT ANNUAL GARDEN PARTY

BLIND VISIT GOVERNMENT HOUSE

The weatherman must really have a soft spot in his heart for garden parties at Government House this summer.

Running true to form, he provided a beautiful warm sunny day for the party Tuesday afternoon, and even if some of the guests couldn't "see" the beauty through their eyes, they appreciated it none the less.

The event was the annual garden party for the blind of Victoria, sponsored by the Victoria Branch, Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

Two of the guests were admiring the attractive table centrepieces of gladioli — exclaiming over the softness and symmetry of the flower which they "saw" through their sensitive fingers. Others sat back and just enjoyed the music played throughout the afternoon by the Royal Canadian Navy's band of Canadian Forces Base Esquimalt.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor enjoyed himself as much — if not more — than the guests as he and Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett, wife of the provincial premier, extended a warm welcome to the more than 300 blind, their drivers and members of the CNIB Women's Auxiliary who attended.

Guests had a chance to renew old friendships, catch up on back news or just chat as they were served tea and a delicious array of tiny sandwiches at the tables scattered about the flower-ringed lawns.

Even the "uninvited" guests received a vicarious enjoyment from the affair, peeking through the fences surrounding Government House to see a panorama of color, the gay summer outfits of the women rivalling the flower beds in brilliance.

WORN AT MOTHER'S WEDDING

Bride Wears Heirloom Blossoms

A headpiece of French orange blossoms, originally worn by her mother at her wedding, held the floor-length veil worn by Karen Maureen Troop recently when she became the bride of Glen Elmo White.

It complemented her gown of white corded silk, which was highlighted with lace appliques on the elbow-length sleeves and encircling the empire waistline. Her only jewelry was the groom's gift of pearls. Red roses, white feathered carnations and stephanotis were in her cascade bouquet.

Quadra Bible Chapel was decorated in a blue and white theme with arrangements of gladioli and hydrangea when Lloyd MacKay heard marriage vows exchanged between the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Troop, 3043 Admirals Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. White, 1961 Neil Street. Mr. Troop gave his daughter in marriage.

Organist Mrs. June Yates accompanied Miss Doreen Frewing who sang "The Lord's Prayer" before the service and "Bless This House" during the signing of the register.

Empire-line gowns of ice-blue brocade were worn by maid of honor Miss Ariel Sones and bridesmaid Miss Mavis White, the groom's sister. A trio of self-fabric roses, trimmed with pearls and nestled in tulle, formed their headpieces, and they carried semi-crescent bouquets of white feathered carnations and princess roses.

Martin Mosely was best man and ushering guests were David Young and Philip Troop.

Blue and white rosettes and bells topped the tiered wedding cake, decorated by Mrs. G. Oliver, which centred the bride's table at the reception following in The Inn. Lawrence Larsen, Merritt, proposed the toast to the bride.

The couple will make their home in Vancouver following a honeymoon trip to the East Kootenays. For travelling, the bride chose a turquoise printed silk sheath dress, topped with a white linen coat, and accented with white accessories. Her corsage was of red roses and white feathered carnations.

Honeymoon At Banff

The bride, the former Marilyn Frances Hamilton, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Hamilton 3611 Happy Valley Road, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. Sjostrom, 1180 Colville Road. Rev. G. Smith officiated at the ceremony, and Mr. Hamilton gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride's floor-length gown was of white lace and satin. The fitted bodice was styled with a square neckline and sleeves ending in lily points. A rhinestone and pearl tiara held her veil, and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink and white roses.

Maid of honor Miss Donna Chidlow wore a mauve-toned floor-length gown of brocade, styled with a fitted bodice. Bridesmaids, the Misses Lenora Hamilton and Heather Willing dressed alike in gowns of pale pink taffeta. Headpieces were rhinestone tiaras with matching net.

Flower girl little Darcy Miller was in a dress of mauve brocade. She wore the flowers en tone in her hair. All carried bouquets of yellow carnations.

At the reeeption following in Luxton Hall, the bride and groom cut a three-tier wedding cake which was decorated by Mrs. J. Middleton. Don Kerley proposed the toast to the bride.

Salt Spring Island Scene of Big Reunion

"The Ponderosa," home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Blais of Salt Spring Island, was the scene of an unexpectedly large family party when six sisters and their brother met for an unplanned reunion, the first since they'd left their parents' home.

Mrs. Blais' sister, Mrs. J. Paquette, and her husband arrived from Rosetown, Sask., to spend two weeks. Just before the end of their visit, another sister, Mrs. Charles Olmstead, with her husband and children arrived from Deslisle, Sask., to spend a week on the island.

At the same time, Mrs. Blais' brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Armand Hudon of Calgary, decided to pay an overnight visit.

Another sister, Mrs. K. Dods, who also lives on the island, phoned two more sisters, Mrs. George Toms and Mrs. Charles Maurre, who hurried over from Victoria with their families

Also joining the family group were the Blais' son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Blais of Victoria; her nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Denis Stag of Saskatoon, and Mr. Blais' nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Girard of Quebec City. On a honeymoon trip across Canada, the Girards were taken by surprise when they reached the island to find so many members of the family present to welcome them.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Some Exercise Helps Bring Legs Into Better Alignment

Lowman

The shape of the legs depends on several factors. First there is the bony structure, which we can't do much about, but muscles and fat also play a telling role.

Bowlegs are the bane of many a woman's figure. You can't change the shape of the bones, but there are exercises which help bring the legs into better alignment if the condition is not too extreme. Here is one of the simplest ones which you can practice at intervals all day long and nobody will even know you are exercising.

Whenever you are standing pull your legs together and try to make them touch all the way down. Hold this inward pull for as long as comfortable whenever you can. I know of one woman who greatly decreased her tendency to bowlegs with just this one exercise.

Here is another for you to work with. Sit on the floor with your legs straightened out in front of you, resting on the floor. Lean back on your hands. Keep the legs stiff and rotate feet and legs outward as you raise your hips from the floor. Your body should be in a straight line from your shoulders to your toes. Hold for a few moments and then return legs and hips to the floor. Repeat eight times the first day and work up to 15 or 20 times daily.

Then, too, if your legs are very thin or the muscles of the legs are poorly developed the curve of the leg bones is more noticeable. Sometimes a build-up of the muscles will help mask the curved bones.

Some women worry about bony knees. A gain in weight is the only way I know to improve this condition because you surely can't make the bones in the knees less prominent with exercise. When the knees are too fat, some exercise and vigorous kneading of the fatty deposits will help.

A leg which has too little shape can be greatly improved with exercise, and a gain in weight if the individual is underweight. If there is a space between the upper legs, exercise can be an aid. Exercise is also important if you wish to avoid inner thigh flabbiness.

If you would like to have my leaflet which gives you corrective exercises for the most usual leg defects, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Unexpected Crashes Are Heard No More

By PENNY SAVER

The latest sound in the Saver household is a high-pitched "whirrrrr" that sounds like a sewing machine when you are threading a bobbin. The sound is not mechanical. It is the squeal of one of our two newest pets. Both are kittens, and the smallest one emits this shocking noise when it's in a playful mood. Whenever I hear that noise, I rush about to see if I have left anything breakable within the kitten's reach. For the first few days, that noise preceded a splintering crash.

Fortunately, the only items he managed to break were ashtrays. When the household supply was reduced to two I decided it was time to do something rash. Instead of taking my vengeance out on the kitten, which pet authorities claim doesn't do any good anyway, I ransacked one store for a monstrous supply of unbreakable ashtrays.

Made of wood, the two designs that I found depict two of Victoria's distinguishing sights. One is of the Parliament Buildings, and the other is a model of the lamp standards. They're painted in brilliant colors, and sell for 98 cents each.

Eye-catching serving dishes that our kitten can't possibly break are made of hand-carved red cedar. These are done by a local artist and are bound to rate "ohs" and "ahs" from all your guests.

A succession of dishes in the maple leaf design range up to $5.50 individually. Another shape is the oblong, which sell for $2 the small size, $2.95 for the medium, and $4.50 for the large dish.

Lovely ornaments are carved by the same skilled man. Exquisite Canadian geese come in two sizes, priced at $4.95 and $5.95.

A line of wooden jewelry, carved from burls of juniper and myrtle, sell in this shop. These are highly polished and made into round, square and odd-shaped button-like ornaments. These are attached to mounts to make cufflinks, which will be a conversation piece among any man's jewelry accessories for $1.50 the pair. In the line of women's jewelry, bracelets made of five or more burls are priced at $2.95. Matching earrings sell for $1.75.

SEW SIMPLE

Dear Eunice:

So many of the new patterns have gathers around the entire waistline instead of darts. The last one I have doesn't even have a side seam and yet the dress is a sheath-style dress. I am just plain not thin enough for even this amount of gathering. Is there anything I can do to make the dress less bulky at the waist?

Mrs. C. B.

Dear Mrs. C. B.:

You can always re-mark your pattern (especially the skirt back) and put the back darts in your skirt. Then you can add a shaped dart at the side tapering it from about one inch at the waistline to nothing seven inches below the waist. This would be the same shape you would have if there were a side seam. Try keeping the ease in the skirt front; it shouldn't be too much work and will look very new.

TODAY'S RECIPE

One head iceberg lettuce; 2 tablespoons prepared mustard; 1 teaspoon lemon juice; ¼ cup brown sugar (packed); 1 tablespoon cornstarch; ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon onion powder; 1 can (8¾ oz.) pineapple tidbits; 4 hot dogs, thinly sliced; 2 hard-cooked eggs, coarsely chopped; 4 hot-dog buns, split and toasted.

When you get home from the store, core, rinse and drain the lettuce; chill in plastic bag. Cut head lengthwise into halves; place cut sides down on board and shred enough to measure 2 cups. Chill remaining lettuce in plastic bag for salads another time.

Combine mustard, lemon juice, sugar, cornstarch, salt, onion powder and pineapple, including syrup, in saucepan; cook, stirring, over medium heat until mixture comes to boil and is thickened.

DEAR ABBY

More to Marriage Than Just Love

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I am money-minded when I probably should have only "love" on my mind, but I have a question to ask. I am engaged to be married in December, and my fiance and I have never talked about money. I know he has a good job, but I don't know how much he makes. I don't even know if he carries any insurance other than what he has on his car.

I work, and intend to work a while after I'm married, but I don't know if I should plan on supporting myself or not. Should we have a joint chequing account? Would it be wrong of me to bring up these things before we are married?

DECEMBER BRIDE.

DEAR BRIDE: It would be wrong not to! Every couple should work out a budget together before marriage and decide how much to spend on rent, entertainment, insurance, clothing and even daily allowances. And don't forget to anticipate vacations, illnesses and accidents. (All kinds!)

DEAR ABBY: I have always heard that a seven months baby would not have any eyebrows or fingernails.

Well, our dear little neighbor girl was married barely seven months and she had this beautiful child with long fingernails and plenty of eyebrows. Everybody in town is talking, and the girl's mother really thinks it is a seven months baby.

This girl finished college and had a lovely white wedding. Please put your answer in the paper.

WANTS TO KNOW.

DEAR WANTS: You are off base a country mile and several months. Seven months babies do have fingernails and eyebrows. And now, what's your problem, lady?

DEAR ABBY: You disappointed me when you didn't give three cheers for the terrible-tempered Angelo. (His wife wrote that after trying to get his home telephone for two solid hours, he found it busy, so Angelo drove home, to find his teen-age daughter still talking, so he tore the phone out by the roots!)

If she had been my daughter, I'd probably have done the same thing, in addition to taking away her telephone privileges for two months.

His wife said Angelo saw his son's bicycle in the driveway, so he just drove over it to teach him a lesson. (You can be sure the boy had been told more than once not to leave his bicycle in the driveway.)

What we need is more Angelos and fewer Casper Milquetoasts who let their kids get away with murder. I would like to give Angelo my congratulations. His children will grow up learning to respect the rights of others and knowing if they don't take care of their things they don't deserve to have them.

Bootlegging Raid Felt Like 'Quake

When Ernest Preston heard a noise in his house June 3, he thought it was an earthquake and went upstairs to check for falling plaster.

One of his friends playing cribbage in the dining room said in central court Tuesday he thought it was just the slamming of a car door.

"The banging we made at those doors could be heard several blocks away," city detective Walter Calwell said in describing how he and detective Angus Stewart forced their way past three doors in a bootlegging raid on the house at 844 View Street.

UNDER STAIRWAY

The police squad found bottles of liquor in an upstairs cupboard, in the kitchen, the dining room, a store room and under the stairway, a total of 14 bottles, as well as 1½ dozen beer.

When Detective Calwell sprinted to an upstairs bedroom, he said he found Mr. Preston at a cupboard door holding two paper bags containing bottles of liquor.

Downstairs in a drawer was over $300 in small bills.

"I've been fairly lucky in stocks this year," the 83-year-old former fireman and railwayman told the court. Asked about his income, he said he had been getting the old-age pension for 14 years.

'POOL SYSTEM'

There was no question of selling the liquor, he said. It was a pool system where his friends threw 50 cents in the pot for each drink.

All he got out of the arrangement was a free bottle of rum about every three days, "a present," for acting as custodian of the funds. The money in the drawer was for paying his municipal taxes.

The defendant had tried to give a plausible explanation for the situation the police found "and he has completely failed," said Magistrate Ostler.

The explanation about the money in the drawer was "completely implausible," he said and detailed several contradictory points in defence evidence.

Preston was fined $100 for keeping liquor for sale. His trial for keeping a common betting house is scheduled for today.

Conservation 'Expands Selfishness'

Greater Victoria's regional parks program sets a shining example for the rest of B.C. to follow, the deputy minister of recreation and conservation said Tuesday night.

Dr. David Turner told a banquet meeting of 250 delegates to the Parks and Recreation Association of Canada's annual conference: "The recreational potential of the southern tip of Vancouver Island has been fully secured.

"For half-a-mill they have been able to acquire, endow and perpetuate for ever recreation areas for our youngsters and our youngsters' youngsters.

"All this because for a number of years some very people have been concerned discerning and far-sighted with safeguarding our most precious resource for all our people for all the years to come," he said.

SHINING EXAMPLE

"This is a shining example for all the province to follow of cooperation in recreational matters at all levels of government in a concerted drive for the green spaces we need and the blue waters around us."

The deputy minister defined conservation as: "Neither more nor less than the expansion of the individual selfishness.

"As conservationists we become selfish for each other, for our neighbors and for our descendants," he said.

The banquet was sponsored by the provincial government and the British Columbia Centennial Committee.

REACHING FOR THE SKY, stagecoach driver Art Perry submits to masked gunmen from the Chemainus Chamber of Commerce. The Barkerville-to-Victoria Centennial stagecoach was seized and led into Chemainus Tuesday. The town, an original stagecoach stop, had not been included in the itinerary of the stagecoach. It continued on to Duncan later in the day and is due to arrive in Victoria Saturday.—(Don Dingwall Photo.)

'Best Holdup Yet' Says Coach Rider

By DON DINGWALL

CHEMAINUS — The Wild West came back in living color here Tuesday when the centennial stagecoach was held up by masked gunmen.

Hundreds watched highwaymen Pete Thorpe-Doubble, his son Tommy, 14, and Charles LeFleur, 83, stick up the stagecoach a mile north of Chemainus on the Trans-Canada Highway.

Shotgun rider Art Perry was hustled off the stagecoach and tied up and mounted on a horse to ride into town.

The stagecoach, passengers and bullion was led triumphantly into Chemainus.

No one smiled more than Art Perry.

He said: "It was the best holdup we've encountered yet."

The one disappointment for Chemainus was that its holdup stunt had been copied by other centres.

Stafford Andrews, Chamber president, said an error was made omitting Chemainus from the official list of calling points.

Two guests aboard the stage in Chemainus were Mrs. Pat Costello, a great-granddaughter of Steve Tingley, a driver of the famous Yale-Barkerville Barnard Express, and August Jack, 100 years old.

The stagecoach continued its 640-mile trip by reaching Duncan Tuesday afternoon.

INDIANS PROTEST POOR HOUSING

Community service officer Tony Karch said it was the biggest protest meeting ever staged by Cowichan Indians.

Mr. Joe said the federal government has allocated $112 million for housing improvement on Canadian reserves in the next five years.

Of this, Cowichan band is only getting two new houses.

"They'll never catch up with the need at that rate," said Mr. Karch.

CAN'T BORROW

A committee comprising Abraham Joe, Arvid Charlie and Ruby Peter recommended a protest march on the Indian regional affairs office in Vancouver.

Sub Explosion Deaths Probed

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (Reuters) — The British submarine Rorqual has been ordered to Durban, South Africa, for an investigation of an engine-room explosion which killed two men Tuesday off the coast of Mozambique, a Royal Navy spokesman here said today.

The Rorqual had not been seriously damaged and will proceed to Durban under her own power, he said.

$200,000 FOR WATER PROJECT

LADYSMITH — Council was informed Tuesday it could cost $200,000 to improve the city's joint water supply system with Saltair.

Consulting engineers have told council it will likely have to add Heart Lake to the existing watershed system based on Stocking Lake.

Government financial assistance is expected for the project.

The engineers also reported to council signs of erosion at the Stocking Lake dam and spillway.

They also reported a leak above the dam, but said in neither case is the situation serious yet.

Ald. Robert Stillin, chairman of the waterworks committee, said temporary repair work will start today.

Victoria Group Bucks Tailings

HOPHEAD KICKS HABIT WITH CASTOFF HABIT

City police have recovered 28 vials of drugs, a hypodermic syringe and two needles from castoff clothing.

The drugs, which include a humber of narcotics, were found among clothes given to Goodwill Enterprises for the Handicapped. The agency has no idea where the drugs came from.

Detective-Inspector William Andrews said the drugs were very old, possibly remnants from some doctor's estate.

'City MLAs Fail People's Trust'

Victoria MLAs no longer represent the people who elect them, Liberal candidate John Portous told a campaign meeting Tuesday night.

Speaking at George Jay School, Mr. Porteous said the Socreds have failed to speak up on education, hospital and chronic care crises, and the government's shortcomings.

"Extravagant promises made on the eve of an election are not good enough," the Liberal said.

He said the homeowner is carrying too great a share of the education load in B.C.

Education is a shareable responsibility and should come from general revenue, Mr. Porteous said.

Money for education is needed at all levels, he said.

Furthermore, a vital school construction referendum failed to pass last year. He said a hospital referendum also failed.

There is critical shortage of hospital beds, chronic care facilities are inadequate and costly.

Mr. Porteous said hospitals are a shareable responsibility and that government's share must be greater through tax reform.

Mr. Bennett called this election and he is making an all-out drive to silence all opposition, even within his own party," the candidate said.

He charged expenditure of "hundreds of dollars" being made to silence Oak Bay Liberal Alan Macfarlane.

"Mr. Macfarlane has been an effective member of the opposition and his voice has rung out loud and clear in the house on behalf of his constituents," he said.

Mr. Porteous called the $500 grant toward home purchases by 19-30-year-olds "pure bait."

"Adequate grants to education would ensure that we have no unskilled 19-year-olds on the labor market, no one on welfare because he is automated out of his job and cannot retrain, no one missing a technical education because he cannot afford board and room plus fees in Burnaby (B.C. Vocational Institute)."

Educational tools for young people will eliminate the need of handouts, the candidate said.

Liberals in the legislature have established a bridgehead, brought a new look to politics by looking ahead.

"It is up to the people of Victoria and the surrounding municipalities to strengthen it and at the same time ensure responsible government now.

"Mr. Bennett is undoubtedly a leader . . . what happens when the one-man show is over? The positions of the rest of his ministers are shaky," Mr. Porteous said.

'Dead' Man Alive, Well

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP) — Lionel Blais, 38, who was not at his own funeral Aug. 20 is alive and well in Vernon, B.C., says his brother Dorie, of Kirkland Lake.

Blais was supposed to have died in a Vancouver hospital Aug. 14. A body was shipped to his family. When they opened the casket they found an older man, later identified as Leo Blais, 55, of no fixed address.

Apparently Leo and Lionel had been patients at the hospital July 20 although Dorie Blais said Lionel was there in 1965 and Leo in 1966.

Youths Shoot Negro in Car

BENTON HARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Lt.-Gov. William Milliken has been asked to send national guardsmen into Benton Harbor after the wounding of a Negro youth that climaxed two straight nights of racial violence.

Mayor Wilbert Smith made the request today as he declared a state of emergency.

Police said shots fired by two white youths in an auto wounded a Negro Tuesday night after police had driven a rock-throwing march of about 300 Negroes back to its starting point.

Police said the victim was in serious condition in hospital.

During the march, 14 persons were arrested for loitering. One Negro, who led the march for a short time, said the demonstration was to focus attention on what he called a lack of recreational facilities.

Mayor Robert Sabonjain, saying people should not be allowed to use public housing as an arsenal, ordered the eviction.

Sabonjain talked to 32 Negro leaders during the day, and a nightime rally heard Rev. H. J. Cook say, "I believe we have made a step towards a workable means by which we can solve the problems." He said the problems include segregation in housing and schools and job discrimination.

Sabonjain's action came after police arrested 56 curfew violators Monday night and confiscated automatic pistols, revolvers, axe handles, rubber hoses, knives and hammers. There were no incidents Tuesday night.

In Los Angeles, a fight between Negro youths and whites disrupted junior Olympic games attended by 10,000 teen-agers Tuesday.

Fourteen young whites and three adults were treated in hospital for injuries. Officers booked three juveniles on suspicion of assault with a weapon, burglary and robbery.

Elsewhere, Cicero, Ill., city officials Tuesday decided to approve an open-housing demonstration set for Sunday while renewing a request for national guard protection.

Governor Otto Kerner was to be asked today to call Illinois guard units to patrol the march of 1,000 demonstrators.

Drama Critic Named

NEW YORK (AP) — Walter Kerr was named drama critic of the New York Times Tuesday, the same post he held for 15 years with the defunct Herald Tribune. He replaces Stanley Kauffman.

OWNERS RUN TIGHT SHIP

Private Isle Casual Visits Forbidden

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Two days ago I visited a flyers' Utopia!

The opportunity came when Morris Kersey suggested I might like to take a trip in his plane. I jumped at the chance. So, on Monday morning we took off from the Butler-Holroyd Airfield at Keating for the San Juan Islands.

Forbes

Ten minutes later we came down on a flying strip at Friday Harbor to check in with the United States customs. Then we went on to Blakely Island, where I was introduced to Ola Johnson and taken on a tour of what must be one of the most unique fly-in areas in this part of the world.

Eleven years ago there was only the woods, two lakes, a "mountain" with a 1,000-foot elevation and a weather-beaten cabin in an old orchard. Today there is a runway and parking strip, a restaurant and small motel, a marina and store and a number of attractive homes.

Back in the early 1950's the Johnsons lived in Portland where Floyd, a well-known United States flyer, ran an aviation club, taught flying and sold private airplanes.

As his clientele grew, so the thought developed in his mind that there was need for a property that members of the club and other aviation enthusiasts, could use all year around as a recreational fly-in area.

This dream became a reality when he decided to take a six-month option on Blakely Island.

To make the down payment and get some cash for working capital he sold everything he owned, including a beautiful new home in Portland. Then he started making his plans to create a paradise for private flyers and yachtsmen.

In those first years, the Johnsons "camped" in the weather-beaten cabin and worked 18 hours a day, seven days a week.

There was surveying to arrange, roads to lay out, trees to bulldoze, an airstrip to create and pipes to be laid to bring water from the larger of the two lakes.

Ola stayed on the island to supervise and show property to boatmen and fliers while Floyd flew back and forth to Portland, continuing to sell airplanes in order to make money to complete the purchase and at the same time to search out prospective buyers.

★ ★ ★

It wasn't long until the first lots were sold and the first homes built.

Since then electricity has been added by a submarine cable from the United States mainland, a telephone system installed and a mile of fire sprinklers.

There is also a fire engine on the island. Old, but in good shape. It's in charge of a retired tugboat captain, Martin Guchee, and every homeowner belongs to the fire brigade.

Four years ago, with their Utopia well established, Floyd and Ola Johnson formed the Blakely Island Maintenance Commission with a board of governors elected from among property owners.

This commission is now the watchdog of the island and through it the all-year-round "paradise" for yachtsmen and fliers will be maintained.

Strict ground rules ensure privacy for the island property owners. You can't chug across there or fly in and picnic on the beach, ramble through the woods or pitch a tent under the trees. It's not permitted.

Visitors must be accompanied by an owner or owners at all times. Beach fires are prohibited except at designated spots. Motor boats and water skiing are not allowed on the lakes, fishing is primarily for homeowners and firearms are taboo except on a designated range.

All wildlife is protected and deer roam the woods and the back gardens at will.

As Ola Johnson told me, they run "a tight ship" over there with every homeowner co-operating to prevent undesirables moving in.

On Friday I'm going to tell you a little more about this amazing island.

Children Held At Oakalla Jail

A minimum number of children are held in Oakalla jail pending alterations at Haney correctional institute, says the B.C. attorney-general's department.

The statement was made Tuesday in answer to a charge by New Democratic Party candidate in Esquimalt, John Bartanus, who spoke at a Colwood meeting Monday night.

Mr. Bartanus said between 100 and 125 children aged 12-16 were being held in the adult prison, and that perverted older inmates draw lots for them.

A check made Tuesday by the department showed there are six youngsters being held at Oakalla, aged 14-16—a normal situation.

Four are under sentence for adult crimes and two, including a murder suspect, are awaiting trial.

Children 14 or over may be sent to Oakalla, but only on indictable offences for which they have been raised from juvenile to adult court with approval of a magistrate.

The attorney-general's department spokesman said such cases are "rarely" sent to Oakalla, and they are segregated.

An effort is being made to have all persons under 16 housed at Haney rather than Oakalla, but structural changes at Haney are not yet completed, the spokesman said.

$1 Million Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress Shirley MacLaine Tuesday filed a $1,000,000 breach-of-contract suit against 20th Century-Fox Film Corp. In the suit, Miss MacLaine said she was to receive $800,000 for appearing in a movie called Bloomer Girl. But before production started, she said, the studio told her she would not be needed.

Quakers to Defy U.S. Ban on 'Enemy' Aid

TORONTO (CP) — A Canadian Quaker official say a U.S. ban on New York Quaker aid to North and South Viet Nam will not halt a 300-year old Quaker practice of giving aid to the suffering.

Murray Thomson, peace education secretary for the Canadian Friends Service Committee, said Monday night New York Quakers will not be stopped in their efforts to send medical and other aid to all suffering parties in North and South Viet Nam.

He said in an interview that the U.S. treasury department has blocked the flow of cheques and supplies from Quakers in New York to the Canadian Friends Services Committee in Toronto.

Part of the supplies were intended for the North Vietnamese Red Cross and the National Liberation Front Viet Cong Red Cross.

Early in April New York Quakers were barred from sending direct mail to Communist-controlled countries. A treasury department spokesman said it was standard procedure to stop U.S. citizens from aiding the enemy.

Mr. Thomson said the prohibition came after the New York group had declared openly that supplies and funds for Viet Nam would be sent through Canadian channels.

Diplomat Killed

STUTTGART, West Germany (Reuters)—A Yugoslav consular official was fatally wounded Tuesday night when a man fired eight pistol shots at him in a Stuttgart bar. Sava Milovanovic, 41, chief of the Stuttgart branch of the Yugoslav General Consulate in Munich, died on his way to a hospital.

10,000 Arrested

JAKARTA (AP) — Ten thousand more persons have been arrested in a new drive against underground Communists in Central Java, the commander of an infantry brigade in Surakarta reported Tuesday.

Criminal Code Sex Proposals Immoral — Pentecostal Church

WINNIPEG (CP) — Delegates to the general conference of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada Tuesday registered strong opposition to proposed changes in the Criminal Code which would "give legal sanction to sexual relations outside of marriage."

An approved resolution said that "while we recognize individual convictions in these matters (the use of contraceptives) we oppose amendments (now before the standing committee of the House of Comons) on the grounds that the proposed amendments will tend to increase immorality among the youth of our nation, with resultant increases in social disorders."

DELEGATION

The motion instructed the general executive to appoint a delegation to appear before the health and welfare committee of parliament as soon as possible to state the Pentecostal position.

The motion was moved by Rev. R. A. Bombay of Belleville, Ont.

A resolution asking that the Bible and "a God-centred philosophy of education be retained in tax-supported schools received unanimous approval, with instructions to send a copy to all provincial ministers of education.

A greatly increased involvement by Pentecostal churches in social and welfare work was indicated in a report to closing sessions by Rev. Graydon Richards of Toronto, President of the Pentecostal Benevolent Association.

Mr. Richards said that since 1960, Shepherd Lodge in suburban Toronto with accommodations for 146 persons, and the Bethel Home for Girls, with facilities for 38 unmarried mothers, have been acquired.

Other new Pentecostal welfare projects include a new $900,000 senior citizens home in Kamloops, B.C., and a proposed $2,000,000 senior citizens home in Montreal.

Jailed Nine Months For Leaving Scene

POWELL RIVER (CP)—Herbert Paul Wyllie, 35, of Texada Island, Tuesday was sentenced to nine months in jail after pleading guilty to a charge of leaving the scene of a fatal accident. He was arrested after the body of Christine Johnson, 17, was found at the side of the road near her home Aug. 5.

Color Cadets Crimson In Courtesy Kerfuffle

By GORDON RITCHIE

An officer enters the wardroom.

Seventeen American sea cadets spring to their feet and stand rigidly erect.

Forty-two faces slowly flush with embarrassment.

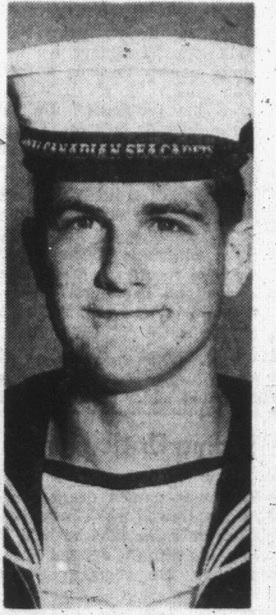
Even military courtesies change as you cross the border, Victoria sea cadet Robert Paterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Paterson, 2849 Gorge View Drive, discovered last week.

The 17-year-old youth was one of a select group of 25 cadets chosen from the ranks of cadets all across the country to attend a two-week training program-Caribbean cruise aboard three U.S. Navy warships.



PATERSON
. . . goodwill ambassador

'CHANGE FOR WORSE'

"At the time of the American Revolution they gave up the system of military courtesy the British Navy had perfected over many years," he explains. "It was a distinct change for the worse."

The Caribbean cruise didn't quite come off—one ship blew a main bearing and so didn't show up, another had a crack up, and the third had to undergo refitting. The 25 Canadian cadets and their American counterparts had to settle for a stay aboard the U.S. Navy attack carrier Shangri-La, the ship being refitted.

"We didn't get the cruise but we got a lot more practical training which was what most of us wanted anyway," Cadet Paterson says.

As ambassadors of goodwill the Canadian cadets did themselves proud.

They were showered with praise for their marching, their appearance, and their discipline. No complaints were registered during their 12-day stay.

"We showed them that they were not the only country that was proud of its history even if we didn't have as many ships or planes," Cadet Robert says.

The two groups got along very well.

"We had a few squabbles," Robert remembers, "because most of the Canadians were about two years older than the Americans and when you're a teen-ager two years makes an awful lot of difference."

But all in all the experiment was a success. So successful in fact that both navies are already talking of expanding the program.

"I just hope later groups have as much fun and learn as much as we did," Cadet Robert Paterson says.

B.C. Woman Dies

REGINA (CP) — Mrs. Jessie Robertson, 42, of Coquitlam, died Tuesday in a Regina hospital from injuries suffered in a motor accident Aug. 21.

Two of Mrs. Robertson's children, Irwin, nine, and Tamara, nine months, died in the accident, which involved two cars about 30 miles west of Swift Current.

Bennett Selling Out B.C. Claims Liberal

Premier Bennett is a "huckster" who is selling out British Columbia, Liberal James Campbell charged Tuesday night.

He said the Social Credit government cannot refrain from taking the "material and immediate advantage.

"If primary resources are the backbone of our economy, what do we do after we've sold our backbone?"

Mr. Campbell, a Saturna Island farmer, told the sparse audience in the first open meeting of his campaign, that as an MLA he would urge the development of secondary industry over the exportation of raw resources.

Mr. Campbell said the premier, "who never puts down a nickel where there isn't a vote," has failed to give a fair deal to underprivileged, disturbed and retarded children.

He called the government's treatment of these young people "gruesome."

Criticizing education policies, Mr. Campbell accused Premier Bennett of making "technically legalized falsehoods" in outlining his achievements in that field.

"While the premier claims the province pays one-half the cost of basic education costs, he doesn't explain that no school can exist on his estimates of that "basic cost."

The Liberal candidate said he would work for a "more positive and enlightened approach to primary education."

A trustee on the Gulf Islands School Board for 10 years, he said he wants a teacher-pupil ratio of one to 20 in primary schools. The present ratio in the province is about one to 33.

"For children," said Mr. Campbell, "these early years are the years of formation."

Accusing the Social Credit government of financial maladministration, he said chances for extra revenue are being overlooked.

"It's obvious there are customers for a liquor store in Saanich," he said in answer to a member of the audience who pointed out a 4,000-signature petition asking for a liquor outlet had been taken to the legislature.

"The provincial government makes $40 million a year from liquor sales. And the criterion for another outlet should be the likelihood of its economic success."

FERRIES

He said the B.C. Ferry System could be writing off its costs by using some of its equipment at night.

"If the CPR can afford to establish a night truck service to Sidney then there must be business for our ferries at night," he said.

Mr. Campbell said full bargaining rights should be given masters and mates on the ferries.

"These men should have the same bargaining rights they had under the Black Ball ferry system. These rights were taken away when the B.C. government took over Black Ball."

Mr. Campbell, who charged that "this election was called not to provide service but to secure power," suggested improvements in the actual business of the legislature.

"The legislature must have a Hansard," he said, adding that a record of legislative business would inhibit "the performances" on the floor.

"I would also urge the adoption of some of the rules of the House of Commons," he said.

He said there should be a proper question period and "legislation by exhaustion" should be stopped.

Three Students Charged After Marijuana Found

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three students from Western Washington State University in Bellingham appeared in magistrate's court Tuesday charged with possession of marijuana.

Arthur Tandy Smith, 24, Noel Victor Bourasaw, 22, and Scott Warren Finlay, 24, were charged Monday after police found two small packets of the drug in their car.

Smith, who pleaded guilty, told Magistrate D. D. Jones the marijuana was bought for $5 in Vancouver's Chinatown shortly after the trio arrived here from Bellingham Sunday.

He was remanded to Sept. 7 for a pre-sentence report and charges against Boursaw and Finlay were stayed by the crown after they pleaded not guilty.

Arnaz Arrested After Firing Shots at Pair in Parked Car

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Actor-producer Desi Arnaz was arrested Tuesday night on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, sheriff's deputies reported.

Arnaz, 49, divorced from actress Lucille Ball in 1960, fired two shots at a 20-year-old man who was parked with a friend near the Arnaz residence in suburban Del Mar, sheriff's Sgt. Max Justice reported.

Justice said Arnaz approached the parked car, containing John Bovee of Rancho Santa Fe, Calif., and Stephen Beardsley, 18, of Del Mar, and told them:

"I've got a .38 and I'll shoot your tires and car."

Then, said Justice, the star of the old I Love Lucy television series fired one shot past Bovee and another at his feet. Both shots went into the ground and struck no one, Justice reported.

Arnaz was released on bail.

Sheriff's Lieut. Andrew Capp said: "Arnaz apparently thought they were on his property and he wanted to scare them off."

Capp said the car was on public property.

BRIDGE LESSON

By Oswald and James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Association

Jim says: "Here is a simple but very instructive hand. North's double of two hearts was for takeout. He had excellent support for either spades or clubs and did not see any reason to give up merely because his partner had been unable to bid over East's heart overcall."

Opening lead—♥2

Oswald: The interesting feature of the bidding is South's jump to three spades. He reasons that North has shown willingness to play at two spades even if South holds four little spades. Hence, South promotes his spade suit to jumping strength."

Jim: "Without South's jump it is doubtful whether North would be able to find another bid. With it North has no worries about going on to game."

"Oswald: "The first point in the play is that West should open a trump. He can see that North is going to be short in hearts and South short in diamonds and should try to reduce the number of tricks that could be won by a cross-ruff."

Jim: "If West happened to open a trump, South's bidding would not have been successful. The defence would get a chance to lead a second trump some time or other and South would be held to seven trump tricks and two diamonds."

Oswald: "West did open the deuce of hearts. East won with the king and shifted to a trump but the shift came too late to keep South from making his contract."

Jim: "South had an easy way to throw the game away. Had he played the six of spades on the trump lead it would have been just too bad for him. However, South was careful to play a high spade in order to hold the trick in his hand. Then he ruffed a heart in dummy, cashed the two high diamonds and cross-ruffed the rest of the way to his ten tricks"

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Another milestone in Canadian television will be reached tomorrow when stations from coast-to-coast go to color

Stephen

There have been a few basic questions asked about color in the past couple of months and CBC-TV has gone out of its way to assure prospective color viewers that, aside from color set cost, watching color will be as easy as rolling of a log.

One of the questions asked most often is: will I be able to receive color programs on my present black and white receiver? Definitely yes, but the picture will, of course, be in black and white. The present system of color broadcasting was developed especially so that it would be completely compatible (receivable) with existing sets.

Do viewers need outside antennas to receive best color? In most cases, yes. An outside antenna is necessary to get a good picture. When the electronic 'information' arrives at the set, it does so in a certain sequence; if it gets out of phase—and it probably will without an antenna—a poor picture results.

Phenomena such as 'snow' or 'ghosts' seem to be more disturbing psychologically in color than in black-and-white. Directivity of the antenna is of prime importance, the antenna must be aligned to reject reflected and unwanted signals and to select only the desired signal

Victorians, of course, have the signal problem licked through Cablevision. The system provides a good, strong signal which in turn delivers a color-strong picture to the home set.

What about the position of the TV set in the room?

In general, the set should be aligned by the installer or serviceman in the room location where it is to be used, and not moved after line-up. Direct lighting should not fall on the screen; brightness on color sets is not as high as on black-and-white, and the room should be kept more dimly lit, though not in total darkness.

Both CBC and CTV stations plan to carry about 30 hours of color programming in prime-time a week. Channel 6 viewers will have the best part of the tint bargain since the local station will not only carry the 30 hour CBC schedule but also selective programming from Channel 8 and CTV to give it close to 50 hours of prime-time color each week.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Randy Phillips, age 10, of Dallas, Tex., for his question:

What are comets made of?

A big comet appears in our skies only once in a great while. When it comes, we know about it, for it is one of the showiest of all heavenly spectacles. What's more, it is on display for weeks or months. But as heavenly objects go, the dazzling show-off is a mere midget.

For a long time astronomers knew only about the comets that now and then swing in U-turns close around the sun. There are scores of them large enough to create razzle-dazzle spectacles in our skies. Recent research suggests that out beyond Pluto there are more than 100 billion comets of assorted sizes. They orbit the sun and technically belong to our solar system — but since they never swoop among the planets to visit the sun, they never appear in our skies.

The average comet is a bulky object weighing about one-tenth as much as an equal volume of water. Its golden tail is made of dusty, gaseous particles blown backward by the pressure of solar winds. It appears only when the visiting comet approaches close to the sun. Most of the time, the comet is a colorless, tailless chunk of materials chugging through the cold, dark reaches of space.

A sizable comet may be anywhere from a mile to 50 miles wide, and unlike most heavenly bodies it need not be globe-shaped. Its bulky lightweight materials are thought to be mostly ices of frozen water, frozen methane and other solidified gases such as ammonia and carbon dioxide. These elements are common on large, cold outer planets.

Comet Becomes Gaseous

The bulky mixture may resemble a chunk of hard, dirty snow. This is because specks of dusty debris are frozen inside the ices. Some experts suspect that a comet is made up of many stones and pebbles more or less frozen together in a solid framework of ices. The mixture is porous and somewhat transparent. When a comet appears in our skies, distant stars can be seen through its icy head.

The nucleus of frozen fragments is called the coma of the comet. As it approaches the sun, part of the icy coma becomes gaseous and is driven backward in a dazzling trail that may fan out halfway over the sky. There also are fragments of fine dust in the tail, but the trailing material is much thinner than air. On May 18, 1910, the tail of Halley's famous comet spanned across the sky. The earth passed right through its filmy material and hardly anyone noticed it.

The comets were perhaps created with the solar system and we now think that vast swarms of them orbit endlessly halfway between the sun and its nearest star. A few have long, narrow orbits that bring them close to the sun. These visitors lead risky lives, for comets are fragile objects and the sun tends to break them apart. Certain visiting comets have been known to shatter and return later in two or more fragments.

* * *

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book Globe to Cindy McNeill, age 10, of Florence, S.C. for her question:

Why does the earth go around the sun?

The earth is pulled toward the center of the solar system by the gravity of the sun. It would fall right into the blazing sun if there were nothing to stop it. Luckily for us, there is something to stop this disaster. It does not happen because the earth revolves endlessly in an orbit around the sun.

It orbits at about 18.5 miles a second. This fantastic speed pulls us away from the sun. It does not stop the sun's pulling gravity, but it makes the earth fall around in a curved path—instead of straight down. The earth goes around the sun to keep from falling into it—and our orbiting speed is just enough to balance the pulling gravity of the sun.

Minister Trying Again To Win Approval

OTTAWA (CP) — The government recently made another proposal to the United States in an attempt to win its approval for baselines to define this country's 12-mile fishing limit, a spokesman for Fisheries Minister Robichaud said Tuesday.

He said that to date Canada has received no reply from the U.S. but that Mr. Robichaud has decided that "positive action" will be taken on the question "at an early date."

Legislation passed in the last Parliament establishing a 12-mile fishing limit has not yet been proclaimed pending negotiations with countries which have fished for years within the new limit.

YOUR HEALTH

Vaccine Needed Against Measles

By WALTER C. ALVAREZ

In an article Dr. L. Z. Cooper of the New York University School of Medicine describes the serious injuries that commonly occur to the embryo just beginning to grow in the mother's womb when in the first month or two of pregnancy she gets an attack of German measles.

A severe epidemic of German measles swept across the United States in the late winter and early spring of 1964 producing congenital defects in perhaps 20,000 infants and causing fetal deaths in similar but unknown numbers.

Alvarez

Dr. Cooper lists the commoner defects found in 275 of the affected infants. Every other one had congenital heart disease and an equal number suffered a hearing loss — sometimes severe; 4 in 10 had some disease of the eyes; 1 in 5 had retarded mental development, mild or severe; 1 in 3 was born with a tendency to bleed under the skin; and about 1 in 8 quickly died.

Obviously what is much needed for the solution of this very serious problem of pregnant women is the development of a vaccine that will eliminate German measles from our entire population. Also it could quickly protect a woman who has never had German measles when she finds herself pregnant.

A vaccine has been made and it works. Its only disadvantage is that the very mild infection produced in a vaccinated person can be passed on to other persons. This is not desirable and so the vaccine is being perfected. Dr. Cooper hopes that the perfect vaccine will be ready before the next big epidemic of "rubella" (German measles) comes along.

Gov't Opposes 'Free' Members

The Social Credit government is trying to shatter all effective opposition in the legislature, inside and outside its ranks, Alan Macfarlane, Liberal candidate for Oak Bay, said Tuesday night.

Speaking at a Gordon Head meeting, he said the real danger in the Sept. 12 election is a larger government majority.

"This is what the government is after," he said. "It does not want members who will speak freely—inside or outside the party."

He said the Social Credit party has dropped five of its members as candidates because they disagreed with certain government policies.

They are Stan Carnell, South Peace River; Jacob Huhn, North Peace River; Arvid Lundell, Revelstoke; Alex Matthew, Vancouver Centre; Don Smith, Victoria.

"They tried to drop John Tisdalle because he has been outspoken on some issues affecting his constituency," he claimed. "But they failed."

Mr. Macfarlane said it is a fallacy to believe voters can get more for their constituency by electing a government candidate.

LITTLE SUPPORT

"This is being passed around," he said. "But for six years I have spoken for things which would benefit this area—highways, grants for the university better health services, vocational school—but got no or little support from the five Social Credit members in this district.

"But I'll give John Tisdalle credit. He was the only Social Credit member who supported my request for a new Patricia Bay Highway to cope with our growing traffic problems."

"In my case, I have complete freedom to say what I want. The only way to have an effective government is to have members who put pressure on the government."

He deplored the government's policy of not permitting the standing committees to work.

Standing committees, he said, provide liaison between the government and the people.

They were appointed by the government to scrutinize draft legislation and to make recommendations to the houuse.

"But ever since Bennett came into power, the committees have not been permitted to do their jobs."

"Then who makes the decision—who prepares the legislation?" someone asked from the floor.

"The decisions are made by a small group," the candidate replied. "The degree of arrogance over there is almost overbearing."

FARE CUT

Mr. Macfarlane favored a ferry fare reduction.

"I agree the present rates work hardships on many people with family ties in Vancouver or who are obliged to go there because of business. I would say the rates should be reduced to $5 for a car and driver."

"He is the director of several Crown agencies," he replied, "and he has admitted that he is fund-raiser for the Social Credit party.

"No man, no matter how innocent he may be, should be a director of a Crown agency and at the same time be so closely associated with the government.

"I don't care if Mr. Gunderson is fund-raiser for the party. But he shouldn't hold two jobs. It's not in the public interest."

In answer to a question, he said he favored the establishment of a liquor store in Saanich.

The Liberal platform, he said, supports the right of citizens to sue the government, a legal-aid plan, divorce reforms permitting divorce on grounds of insanity and desertion for three years.

"We also believe the school tax should be taken off property and farm lands."

WHAT IF THEY JUMP OFF BOND WAGON?

The province would be crippled if everyone tried to cash parity bonds at once, Esquimalt Liberal candidate David Elrix said Tuesday night.

"Heaven forbid a rush of people to cash them in all at once—bonds that have been unconditionally guaranteed as to principal and interest by the province of B.C.," he said.

Canadians Share $242,000

He told reporters he would leave on a world trip as soon as the hotel had found a replacement. He said he also would send some of his winnings to his parents.

Seek Say In Naming Of Judges

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Canadian Bar Association decided by a slim majority Tuesday to seek a say in appointment of judges.

In a 98 to 73 vote, delegates to the annual meeting decided to urge the minister of justice to seek the association's advice about proposed judicial appointments. This would be done through a proposed CBA national committee.

F. G. Muldoon of Winnipeg said advice from the CBA would not remove judicial appointments from the political arena.

Delegates also passed a resolution which recommends creation of a new criminal offence based on the amount of alcohol in a driver's blood stream.

WANT COMPULSORY TEST

The resolution—criticized by some lawyers as infringing on basic principles of justice—recommends legislation making it unlawful for a person to drive if his blood-alcohol level has reached .08 per cent. Alcohol levels would be determined by compulsory analysis of breath only.

And the association endorsed the idea of safeguarded legal abortion.

Under the plan, the medical profession would make the decision when pregnancy involved life or health of a mother or when there was substantial risk a child might be born with grave mental or physical defects.

Provincial legislatures would be asked to set up "termination boards" to rule on cases where the unwanted pregnancy resulted from rape or a related sexual offence.

FLYING COPTERS CRASH KILLING FIVE PEOPLE

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Five persons were killed Tuesday when two traffic-monitoring helicopters collided in flight over Dodger Stadium and crashed to earth near the hilltop ballpark.

Police said the two helicopters belonged to the police department and radio station KMPC, owned by cowboy star Gene Autrey, whose California Angels played in Dodger Stadium until their move to Anaheim this season.

A spokesman for KMPC confirmed that its helicopter had three persons aboard. The station's airwatch is a traffic monitoring service which helps motorists avoid freeway traffic jams during rush hours.

Joe Hall, a Los Angeles resident who witnessed the crash, said: "It didn't look like they saw each other and then they collided."

GOD HELP US DISTILLER'S ANSWER

VANCOUVER (CP) — An election campaign call for liquor sales to be turned over to private enterprise was labelled as unrealistic Tuesday by an industry executive and the B.C. Alcoholism Foundation.

One distillery company manager reacted to the Progressive Conservative party call by saying, "If it was ever taken out of the hands of the government God help us."

And E. D. McRae, executive director of the foundation, said loss of revenue under private sale would have to be made up through other taxation.

Oswald Case Cited

Australian Youth Draws Life Term

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) The fate of Lee Harvey Oswald was cited as an influence in the case of an Australian youth sentenced here Tuesday to life imprisonment for attempting to kill Arthur Calwell, leader of the opposition Labor party.

Peter Raymond Kocan, 19, was arrested moments after he shot at Calwell through the windshield of a car with a .22-calibre rifle June 21. Calwell's face was cut by glass splinters.

Psychiatrist Gale Rowe told the court today Kocan had a fantasy of ending his life in notorious circumstances similar to the death of Oswald, the assassin of President Kennedy, who was killed by Jack Ruby.

He said the youth always thought of death and suicide was never far from him.

Chief Justice Sir Leslie Herron of New South Wales told Kocan before passing sentence he was satisfied that the defendant was influenced by the publicity surrounding Kennedy's assassination.

Sask. Gets VW Plant?

REGINA (CP)—Saskatchewan appears to have the inside track on a prairie provinces distribution centre planned by the giant German Volkswagen car manufacturing firm, Premier Ross Thatcher said Monday.

Alan Macfarlane

This Is Where I Stand

Most things worth doing can be done if one has the will and the desire to do them. This is particularly true when you have the money to do them.

Our government boasts about the amount it collects in taxes each year. This year, after spending forty million dollars to pay off the alleged self liquidating debt of the Ferry Authority, and contributing twenty million dollars towards the debt of the P.G.E., the government still had a surplus of your tax money amounting to over seventy million dollars.

For the best part of the 14 years this government has been in power, it has promised a full chronic care program.

In this year 1966, people are still paying up to $450. a month for nursing home care. The life savings of a family can be wiped out because of a lingering illness of one of its members. Why should anyone suffer the indignity of going on welfare to get the help they need and deserve. The government could build or buy enough nursing home accommodation in this province to care for the chronically ill for less than the forty million dollars used to pay off the ferry debt.

We owe an obligation to our elderly citizens to provide adequate nursing home and home nursing care at modest rates.

It can be done: It must be done: It will be done if the desire is there to do it.

PULP WORKERS APPROVE PACT

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Pulp workers at two mills here have approved a new two-year contract which includes a $200 cost-of-living bonus.

The contract gives a 40-cents an hour pay boost to the 500 members of Locals 612 and 603 of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers (CLC).

Employees at the Northwood plant voted 71.3 per cent to accept the new agreement while the Prince George pulp workers voted 71.8 per cent in favor of the contract.

The union won the $200 cost-of-living bonus after a B.C. Federation of Labor study showed it costs 9 to 10 per cent more for the average worker to live in Prince George.

5-Year Licences Granted Four U.S. Air Firms

OTTAWA (CP) — The Air Transport Board has approved restrictive licences for four United States charter air services to carry persons and goods to Canadian points.

The licences were granted to: Salem Aviation, Inc., of Salem, Oregon, to operate to points in Alberta and British Columbia; Rockford Air Charter of Rockford, Illinois, to points in Ontario and Manitoba; Chicago Charter, Inc., Chicago, Ill., to points in Ontario and Manitoba; Greylock Airways, Inc., Pittsfield, Mass., to points in Quebec and Ontario.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Prices Soaring On All Fronts

Prices rose from the start and the trend was followed on all other exchanges.

IN VANCOUVER prices improved before noon as the local market reflected the New York recovery.

Pine Point Mines led the upward trend, jumping more than $6 to $57. A company spokesman, however, said there is no news to account for the sudden gain.

He said that planning for mining and milling the Pyramid ore body in the Northwest Territories is going ahead.

Other mining stocks to climb included Brenda, up 35 cents to $7.60; Dynasty, which put on 30 cents to $8.50, and Western Mines, which gained 20 cents to $4.80.

Industrials were generally better with Cominco putting on $1 to $36.12.

Prices rose from the start. Profit taking interrupted the rise late in the morning. After this was digested the market made even greater strides.

Glamor stocks were favored as usual, but buying spread throughout the list of key stocks also. Blue chips rose from fractions to 1 or 2 points. Eastman Kodak added 2, Du Pont 3.

IBM rose 5, Beoton and Dickinson 4, Emery Air Freight 4, Pan American World Airways, Coca-Cola, Delta Airlines, Ling-Temco-Vought and Jersey Standard about 3.

Among Canadian issues traded, International Nickel rose ⅞, McIntyre Porcupine ½ and Alcan and Distillers Seagrams ⅝ apiece. Dome Mines fell ½.

IN TORONTO the industrial index, an indicator of how key stocks move, climbed 1.12 to 146.44. Chrysler gained 2½ to 42 in pacing the list higher. International Minerals added 2 to 59, General Motors 1¾ at 78¼ and Du Pont 1 at 40.

Banks made solid gains with Montreal up 1½ to 55½, Toronto-Dominion 1¼ to 57¼ and Nova Scotia and Royal 1 each to 64½ and 69.

Denison jumped 1¼ to 55 in base metals and Scurry Rainbow 1⅛ to 21⅞ in western oils.

IN MONTREAL Royal Bank and Denison were one point ahead at 69 and 54½ respectively. Rio Algom gained ⅞ to 22⅞ and Alcan ½ to 30¼. Other half-point winners were Cominco, at 35⅞, Molson A, at 16, Shell, at 19⅞ and Trans-Canada Pipe Line, at 27½.

Dominion Foundries and Steel of Canada were each ¼ better at 21¼ and 22 in the senior steels section.

There were no significant price changes on the Canadian Exchange.

IN LONDON the stock market had its best day for some time. Buyers were still cautious and selective but a demand for leading equities, in which the institutions were again participating, carried the market as a whole higher.

Gains ranged to two shillings. Engineering shares were prominent. Motors and aircrafts went ahead and electricals and radios were generally firm.

Bowaters was prominent in paper shares with a rise of 1s 9d to 49s 6d. Stores and textiles made a good showing and building shares went ahead. Hudson's Bay was among the many other leaders to make headway.

Insurance and bank shares were firm including Canadian banks which reflected the rally in trans-Atlantic markets Tuesday.

Wage Increases Climbing Above Production Hikes

By DENNIS ORCHARD

It now may have reached the point where workers and executives are contributing less, dollar for dollar, to productivity than they did at the start of the current boom in 1961.

While DBS does not compile its own index of unit labor costs, a compilation of available DBS data tells the story.

1. A rapid growth in productivity during 1962 and 1963, lowering the index from 100 to 95.6 by February, 1964.

2. From early 1964, a boom in labor income which has increased markedly the ratio of wages and salaries to output; the index rose to 98.2 in the first six months of 1965, to 99 in the second half of 1965, and hit 99.9 in the first three months of this year.

GROWS FASTER

Economists here believe the acceleration will be even greater as new contracts won in the last four or five months show up in fresh labor-income figures.

It is a hard rule of economics that labor costs will be inflationary if they rise faster than productivity. In this kind of an index, minute increases represent acute pressures because wage bills make up 70 or 75 per cent of all production costs.

Causes and effects of the inflationary pressures will be certain fodder for more sharp debate among politicians this fall.

It seems equally certain that parliamentary debate will treat the subject in a much different vein than the Economic Council of Canada, which reports soon on a major study of wages, prices and employment.

FIRST SUCH ATTEMPT

It will be the first thorough attempt at the job, assessing such delicate subjects as the relationship of full employment to inflation, and the prospects of reducing the effect on Canada of U.S. economic conditions.

These are only two of the areas that do not admit easily of political candor.

The council also will survey anti-inflationary measures employed by European countries.

DEAR ABBY . . .

More to Marriage Than Just Love

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I am money-minded when I probably should have only "love" on my mind, but I have a question to ask. I am engaged to be married in December, and my fiance and I have never talked about money. I know he has a good job, but I don't know how much he makes. I don't even know if he carries any insurance other than what he has on his car.

I work, and intend to work a while after I'm married, but I don't know if I should plan on supporting myself or not. Should we have a joint chequing account? Would it be wrong of me to bring up these things before we are married?

DECEMBER BRIDE.

DEAR BRIDE: It would be wrong not to! Every couple should work out a budget together before marriage and decide how much to spend on rent, entertainment, insurance, clothing and even daily allowances. And don't forget to anticipate vacations, illnesses and accidents. (All kinds!)

DEAR ABBY: I have always heard that a seven months baby would not have any eyebrows or fingernails.

Well, our dear little neighbor girl was married barely seven months and she had this beautiful child with long fingernails and plenty of eyebrows. Everybody in town is talking, and the girl's mother really thinks it is a seven months baby.

This girl finished college and had a lovely white wedding. Please put your answer in the paper.

WANTS TO KNOW.

DEAR WANTS: You are off base a country mile and several months. Seven months babies do have fingernails and eyebrows. And now, what's your problem, lady?

DEAR ABBY: You disappointed me when you didn't give three cheers for the terrible-tempered Angelo. (His wife wrote that after trying to get his home telephone for two solid hours, he found it busy, so Angelo drove home, to find his teen-age daughter still talking, so he tore the phone out by the roots!)

If she had been my daughter, I'd probably have done the same thing, in addition to taking away her telephone privileges for two months.

His wife said Angelo saw his son's bicycle in the driveway, so he just drove over it to teach him a lesson. (You can be sure the boy had been told more than once not to leave his bicycle in the driveway.)

What we need is more Angelos and fewer Casper Milquetoasts who let their kids get away with murder. I would like to give Angelo my congratulations. His children will grow up learning to respect the rights of others and knowing if they don't take care of their things they don't deserve to have them.

'POLICY ERROR'

Hellyer Plan Faces New Challenge

Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, 1951-55 army chief, and Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes, a wartime divisional commander and post-war Central Command and Western Command head, say policy is pointed in the wrong direction by ignoring the possibility of having to mobilize for a major war.

In a joint letter and memorandum made public today, they launched a new drive to rally support against Defence Minister Hellyer's controversial plan for wrapping up the three armed services into one. They are among the first army men of high rank to take up the cudgels against the scheme that has caused an outbreak of early retirements among high navy officers.

Gen. Simonds, 63, commanded the 2nd Canadian Corps and later the 1st Canadian Army in Europe during the Second World War. He retired in 1955 after his term as chief of staff. Gen. Vokes, 62, who retired in 1959, was a divisional commander in Italy and northwest Europe. Both were professional soldiers.

Their joint letter and memorandum outlining "considered military opinion" goes to about 75 prominent Canadians across the country, including a number of officers retired from the armed forces. They urge "grave consideration and protracted debate" by the Commons, and the recipients are asked to take up the issue with members of Parliament.

COULD BE RIDICULOUS

Top-to-bottom unification of the forces, they say, "smells of nothing but change for the sake of change" and could turn out to be "ridiculous."

The two generals gave partial approval of the "integration" now in process as a step towards unification. They applaud as long overdue the integrated National Defence Headquarters under a single chief.

However, they have reservations about the establishment of six "integrated functional commands" among the forces. Misgivings were based on lack of a titular head for each of the three services and lack of assurance that the system will measure up to the strain of a general mobilization.

Both the functional command system and the unifying program, the generals say, stem from a policy that should be corrected before it is too late—a matter that should be "of foremost concern to all Canadians." They suggest that current Canadian policy is too concerned with peacekeeping tasks to have the forces in shape for mobilization in event of a big war.

MUST PREPARE

"The aim of governmental military policy in peacetime," they say, "must be to prepare for the worst eventuality—the outbreak of a major war in which Canada may become involved—no matter how remote this eventuality may seem.

"The employment of our standing military forces on peace-enforcement tasks is a contingency which is secondary to the above aim. . . .

"If senior Canadian professional sailors, soldiers and airmen have grave misgivings about accomplished or proposed changes in the structure of the Canadian armed forces, the government and the people of Canada should think very long and carefully before overriding their misgivings.

"It is very easy for a gov-

Railway Leaders Critical

OTTAWA (CP) — The Pearson government came under fire from both railway president and union leaders Tuesday night over its legislation aimed at stopping the general rail strike.

CNR President Donald Gordon, Canada's highest-paid public servant at $75,000 a year, complained the government was forcing the railways to grant an eight-per-cent wage increase without compensating the companies.

CPR President Ian Sinclair made the same objection in an interview on the CBC television program Newsmagazine.

Two railway union leaders interviewed on the same program criticized the legislation because it provides for compulsory arbitration if negotiations fail and because the interim wage boost is too low.

Health Minister MacEachen said the minority Liberal government will stand by its bill in the face of stiff opposition in the Commons by Conservative and New Democratic parties.

He said no amendments would be introduced by the government during the second-reading stage — approval in principle.

He stressed the words "second reading," suggesting that the government might change certain clauses in the legislation in later stages of debate.

At a press conference later, both railway presidents made it clear that they had asked Mr. Pearson for federal money to cover the increased 1966 wage costs written into the strike bill. These would amount to $18,000,000 for the CPR and $30,000,000 for the CNR.

"The prime minister made no comment on this request," Mr. Gordon said.

Mr. Sinclair said the subsidy provided by the proposed railway legislation, starting at $110,000,000 in 1968 and sliding to zero by 1975, covers only "items of the past."

Both presidents argued there is nothing in the railway bill that would give the carriers any revenue increase in 1966. Thus the federal treasury should properly pay for the wage costs imposed on the railways for this year.

Mr. Sinclair said the sub- railway legislation does not even assure the reailways of added revenues in future years. All it would do is provide an opportunity for them to rationalize their plant and services to meet modern competitive situations.

Mr. Gordon rejected a suggestion that further mediation and negotiation, proposed in the bill, would be useless in face of the railway attitude.

Knowledge of the government's legislative plan would give a "new slant" to further negotiations, he said.

"Our labor friends may also begin to realize the facts of life."

Mr. Sinclair said the railways may make a wage offer conditional upon passage of the new railway legislation which has just been introduced in the Commons and will not be debated until the strike-ending bill has been cleared.

Mr. MacEachen stressed that the eight-per-cent wage boost in the bill would be an interim one only.

The conciliation boards had recommended an increase of 18 per cent over two years and it was "a realistic probability" that the unions would obtain this increase in later negotiations, he said.

Williams Smith, president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, said he was puzzled by the minister's statement. The legislation provided only for an eight-per-cent increase and guaranteed nothing more.

Both rail presidents complained bitterly to reporters about what they said was "misrepresentation" of the government's strike-ending bill. Mr. Gordon said statements being made by some quarters were "irresponsible, if not deliberately lying." But he decined to identify the people he was referring to.

Mr. Sinclair said suggestion that railway workers will not obey a back-to-work law are "fantastic." It was also fantastic to suggest that the terms of any back-to-work legislation would be referred to a vote of union members before it was acted on.

SOLITARY VIGIL is being maintained by picket Mrs. Anne Royle, wife of a Nanaimo welder, outside labor department office in Vancouver. She wants Labour Relations Board to call a representation vote at Harmac pulp mill so workers can choose between Canadian and international unions. Despite sign, there are 1,000, not 2,000 workers at Harmac. Board is expected to rule shortly on the issue. (CP Wirephoto.)

Strike Spreads

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — Work stopped at Rhokahana copper mine today, bringing to five the number of mines hit by a strike of African workers across Zambia's copperbelt.

More than 22,000 miners are reported involved in a wildcat walkout in support of demands for an immediate payment of accumulated savings from a pension fund operated by the country's two mining companies, the Roan Selection Trust and Anglo-American Corporation.

Kerry Way Wins

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP)—Kerry Way won the $122,540 Hambletonian Stakes today in straight heats, trotting the first mile 1:58 4-5 and the second in 1:59 3-5. Polaris was second in each heat by three-quarters of a length each time.

WINNIPEG (CP) — An overnight thunderstorm with hail and winds gusting to 51 miles an hour dumped more than two inches of rain on the city, snarling traffic and flooding some streets.

Present Bill 'Unacceptable'

OTTAWA (CP)—The government bill to end the railway strike survived its first test in the Commons today by a vote of 138 to 110.

A Conservative amendment that would have killed the legislation in its present form was defeated by a coalition of 122 Liberals, 8 Creditistes, 5 Social Credit MPs and the 3 Quebec Independents.

The motion introduced Tuesday by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker was supported by 90 Conservatives and 20 New Democrats.

Earlier today, leaders of striking railway unions delivered a blunt warning to Prime Minister Pearson that railway workers are not likely to return to work unless wage terms in the strike-ending legislation now before Parliament are improved.

A letter from them was delivered to Mr. Pearson's office shortly before the Commons sitting opened.

It appealed for amendments "which would make this legislation acceptable and avoid putting the railway workers of Canada in a position in which they are likely to ignore parliamentary action."

There were no specific suggestions what the amendments should contain.

The letter did not say what attitude the leaders themselves would take towards a clause in the bill which requires them to call off the strike immediately upon passage of the legislation.

The letter was drafted after a secret meeting in a downtown hotel attended by 80 strike leaders called to Ottawa from various parts of the country.

WANTS CHANGE

Paul Raymond, representing 25,000 Federated shopcraft union members, said the union leaders walked out on Labor Minister Nicholson today after telling him they feel unanimously it is useless to talk further unless the government is prepared to change its attitude.

He said Mr. Nicholson was advised that the union members find the government's settlement proposals completely unacceptable.

He was asked whether the shop crafts would accept an 18-per-cent increase.

"As for the government's recommended settlement of an interim eight-per-cent increase, he said:

"I don't believe our people will go back to work on those conditions."

Mr. Raymond said the government wants to impose a settlement on the railway employees but "they don't have the guts to tell the men to go back to work; they expect us the union leaders, to tell them."

The government proposed and MPs agreed that the Commons sit continuously until the bill designed to end the railway strike is passed.

Normally, the Commons adjourns at 6 p.m. until 2:30 p.m. Thursday.

After a Conservative caucus today Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said railway workers would refuse to return to work unless the government backs down and amends the bill.

He said the men would refuse to accept the word of anyone in parliament for anything not written in black and white.

Grits Fighting Tory Efforts To Scrap Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberal government Tuesday night fought back efforts to scrap its controversial bill to end the national rail strike.

In a biting speech in the Commons, Health Minister MacEachen said the opposition was "totally irresponsible" in trying to misrepresent government efforts to end the strike.

If there was any reluctance on the part of the 118,000 strikers to return to work once the bill was passed, it would be due in part to Opposition Leader Diefenbaker's claim they would get only a six-per-cent pay increase.

Mr. MacEachen said it was absolutely unrealistic to suggest the final wage settlement would be anything less than the 18 per cent recommended in conciliation reports.

The former labor minister also denied that the bill does nothing to implement the report by Mr. Justice Samuel Freedman of Winnipeg on automation in the railway industry.

This key objection on the part of union leaders — echoed by Conservative and NDP spokesmen—was a feature of a Diefenbaker amendment, which may be voted upon today, to kill the bill. The amendment said the bill's neglect of fringe benefits makes it inadequate.

BILL UNWORKABLE

Mr. Diefenbaker said it was clear the government bill was unworkable and might be defied by the strikers. It had to be changed to avoid disrespect of Parliament.

Mr. MacEachen stressed throughout his speech that the government bill before the House was aimed at getting the rail workers back on the job, with an interim wage boost, and leaving the final ironing-out of the settlement to negotiations between the parties.

Mr. MacEachen over-rode interjections by Mr. Diefenbaker, Mr. Douglas and NDP deputy leader David Lewis in a hard-hitting speech.

When he repeated time and again that Mr. Diefenbaker ordered railway workers back to work in 1960 empty-handed, Liberal back-benchers applauded and called the Conservatives "the zero gang."

He also needled the NDP about party member Frank Howard's efforts last spring to have compulsory arbitration used to settle the longshoremen's strike.

"This bill is just about as good as any bill produced by the opposition and to describe it otherwise is hypocrisy," Mr.

Exhausted Nuns Faint; Reach Safety

HONG KONG (Reuters)—Two of eight Roman Catholic nuns expelled from China fainted while crossing into Hong Kong today as about 700 Chinese Red Guards shouted and raised clenched fists at them.

One of the nuns who fainted was Sister Winifred Duff, a 76-year-old Canadian who was mother superior of the Peking convent taken over by youthful Red Guards last week.

The Red Guards on the Chinese side shouted as a 58-year-old nun from Cork, Ireland, Mary O'Sullivan, was wheeled across the border on a baggage trolley.

The two nuns were taken to a hospital where a spokesman said they were suffering from general fatigue and would be kept in hospital for several days.

The other six were taken to a convent.

"All of them are healthy," a nun at the convent said, "but they're all very, very tired and they would like to rest."

The nuns who all looked drawn and depressed, said they had been under armed guard during the entire three-day train journey from Peking to Canton and had not slept for eight days.

The eight members of the Franciscan Order of Mary had taught at the Sacred Heart Academy in Peking since before the Communists took over mainland China in 1949. Last Thursday violently anti-Western Red Guards invaded the school, hoisted the red flag over it, plastered the walls with demands that "foreign devils" get out of China and forced some of the nuns to kneel in the gutter while they reviled them.

Purportedly acting on the teen-aged Red Guards' demands, the Communist government closed the school and expelled the nuns.

The Curtains Had Rods!

It was curtains first thing this morning for a Bank of Montreal branch in Saanich.

Cook and Quadra branch manager Don McNab looked in his bank's window shortly before 9 a.m. and saw his employees lined up against a wall.

"I rushed to a phone and called the police," he said.

subject to a fine of not more than $150 a day for every day the strike continues.

The penalties are spelled out in the Investigation, Conciliation and Settlement of Industrial Disputes, already on the statute books, a spokesman in Labor Ministe J. R. Nicholson's office said today.

While there are no penalties set out in the bill now before the house, the labor department spokesman explained that its wording brought the Industrial Relations and Disputes Act into effect so far as penalties are concerned.

Plant shutdowns and layoffs involving at least 5,700 men in Ontario and the Maritimes were announced Tuesday, and more are imminent.

However, Prince Edward Island's main ferry link with the mainland was restored with quiet order this morning, ending five days of uncertainty over whether striking workers would resume operation of the CNR vessels which ply between Borden, P.E.I., and Cape Tormentine, N.B.

QUESNEL—NDP leader Robert Strachan, giving his first election speech deep in the heart of Social Credit country, told a 200-strong audience here Tuesday night that the time had come to end the reign of a government whose main skill lay in how to manipulate the masses.

"These people in government with their public relations officers and their drum-beaters show that old skill we know so well — they know how to manipulate the masses.

Speaking in support of Anglican minister the Rev. Hartley Dent of 100-Mile House, Mr. Strachan urged the people of the Cariboo to "once and for all" throw out the Social Credit government.

"This election was not called by the government in power, but by big business in the east.

"The premier has in so many words told us this himself. He has said that the people in the east needed him to get a new mandate from the people before they would invest more money in this province.

"Anytime big business wants a particular government in office you can be sure they have their gimlet eye on our natural resources.

"You cannot serve big business in eastern Canada or the eastern United States and also serve the people of British Columbia."

Mr. Strachan said that the present government had often accused the NDP of being against the Peace River power development and the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

"We were never against the Peace River power development," he said. "We did oppose and still oppose the Wenner-Gren program for the Peace, we will always oppose the giving away of our natural resources to foreign interests.

"He says we opposed the PGE, but that is a political falsehood.

Give People Honest Accounting

"The PGE, and Mr. Bennett admits this, is costing us money. All we ask is how much money, it is costing us and Mr. Bennett is afraid to tell us."

At least a dozen high-ranking members of the Social Credit party were present to hear Mr. Strachan's angriest attack on the government to date.

They sat quietly through his hour-long address and had no questions to ask in the following question period.

Mr. Strachan's sharpest attack was reserved for minister of agriculture, Frank Richter.

"There is nothing B.C. needs more than a new minister of agriculture," he said.

"The present minister is completely incompetent," he said, to a burst of applause from the audience.

"Because of the government's jerrymandering of the ridings we have a situation down south in the Okanagan where Mrs. Lois Haggen is challenging this man for his seat in the legislature.

"The forecast is that Mrs. Haggen does not stand a chance against Mr. Richter in his home riding.

"But she is a fighter and I say that like Mary Poppins she will be back in the Legislature not riding on an umbrella but riding on a whirlwind of votes.

"She has cut this man down to size before and she will cut him down to size this time, as the NDP will cut Mr. Bennett down to size when the votes are tallied on Sept. 12.

"The Social Credit government has to realize, and the people of this province have to realize, that the wealth of British Columbia does not belong to Sir William Andrew Cecil Bennett.

End Trend Towards Welfare State

Speaking on his party's policy, should the Socialists be elected, Mr. Strachan said that he would end the present trend towards the welfare state.

"We do not believe in the welfare state," he said. "It is a sign of failure, but if we want to get rid of the welfare state and the sickening system of handouts, then we must get rid of the government that perpetuates the welfare state.

"We are sick to death of this philosophy propounded by Social Credit and big business that there is a scarcity of consumer goods and good things for the people.

"Why should the people of this province by unable to buy a new suit, a new hi-fi, a new range or a new refrigerator?

Mr. Strachan said that contrary to popular government opinion, big business in B.C. was rarely required to risk any capital when it came to exploration and discovery.

"The government offers them fantastic benefits if they will just locate here," he said.

"Big business in this country is gutless, it will not move until it has a market sewed up, until its profits are guaranteed.

"Fifty years ago the people who were opening up this province may have taken risks but not today."

On education, Mr. Strachan warned that 34 per cent of the present population of Canada was under the age of 15 years.

"It is not too difficult to see what will happen five years from now when these young people are ready to move on to a higher education whether it be at university or at a vocational school.

"They will have nowhere to go because this government is completely sterile when it comes to planning for the future of the growing generation.

"It can however afford $600,000 for Chief Little Big Mouth to float around the country in a Lear jet."

Today Mr. Strachan leaves Quesnel for a whistle-stop car trip to Merritt where he is scheduled to speak this evening. En route he will speak at Williams Lake and 100-Mile House.

Churchmen Run Show In Cariboo

QUESNEL — The New Democratic Party is firing high-church guns in the Cariboo in an endeavor to unseat Social Credit incumbent William Speare, deputy speaker of the Legislature.

The NDP candidate is the Rev. Hartley Dent whose church is at 100-Mile House.

Mr. Bush was the former minister to the Anglican Church at Grand Prairie, Alta.

He was banished from his parish last November after unsuccessfully seeking a seat in the federal government.

Asked how he was earning a living these days Mr. Bush said: "I am now devoting my life to the party and will continue to do so."

'Make B.C. Even Greater'

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — People are becoming increasingly disenchanted with politics and are more cynical than ever about political parties, B.C. Liberal leader Ray Perrault told a service club Tuesday night.

Mr. Perrault said the lack of interest was due to the high state of prosperity and lack of issues in the current election campaign.

"This nation, as well as B.C., needs a revival of interest. The cynics everywhere are spreading disillusionment and they are gaining some headway. I think their doctrines are poisonous."

Mr. Perrault said while political parties in B.C. may disagree on policies they are united in their love for the province and he urged the parties to co-operate more in making B.C. "an even greater province than it is."

ernment to impose its will on its senior serving officers by retiring them out-of-hand if they disagree with a policy which, because of their training and experience, they know to be dangerous to the future military welfare of their country.

"Current military obligations in peacetime must never be permitted to obscure the long-range aim by tailoring military organization to fit what is only an incidental requirement," the former commanders add.

NEED IGNORED?

Of outright unification, they say that those who espouse it "have either ignored or completely downgraded the need for a high morale in military men in peace and in war."

Dealing with both integration and unification, the generals say there are many reasons why both might prove to be a dangerous military experiment. Other military powers were not doing it. As Canada had no premium on military know-how, the unorthodoxy was "most astonishing."

However, the generals concede that integration should be given a fair trial since it now is in force. It must be seen whether it would stand up under mobilization tests. But unification was something else.

"What purpose is to be served by throwing our three services into a common pot, with a common uniform and a common rank structure?" they ask. "Nothing can possibly be gained by producing a military hybrid who is a jack of-all-trades and a master of none. . . .

Man Sent to Jail For Stealing Cigarette Packs

A Victoria man today was sentenced to 30 days in jail for stealing two packs of cigarettes.

Eirven Spill, 34, no fixed address, pleaded guilty to theft from Jimmy Little's, 2017 Quadra, on Aug. 30.

A Victoria police constable told court he found Spill "sitting in some trees and smoking," in Central Park after he was called to the scene by the storeowner.

Spill had had a previous conviction for robbery.

. . . GRITS FIGHT TO KEEP BILL

MacEachen said to Liberal cheers.

Mr. Diefenbaker had stopped the 1960 strike before it started and ordered the men back to work empty-handed. Now he wanted the Liberal government to fix wage rates for a two-year agreement and legislate a total settlement.

"How can he square this amendment with his own conduct as prime minister?" Mr. MacEachen asked.

As labor leaders listened in the galleries, Mr. Diefenbaker asked what the latest government offer to the unions was.

"I can answer that question at once. No offer has been made."

Labor Minister Nicholson also denied that any other offer had been made to the unions.

Mr. MacEachen denied that the bill makes no allowance for settlement of the key job security issues described in the Freedman report last year after an inquiry on CNR crew run-throughs.

He said the principal Freedman proposal is that the ideal solution is to allow the parties involved in collective bargaining to cope with the problem.

ALL IN LINE

If this failed, an arbitrator could be appointed. All this was in line with the government bill, which provided for collective bargaining followed by arbitration if no progress was made.

Both Creditiste and Social Credit spokesmen promised support for the Liberal strike-ending legislation.

There appeared little chance the bill would be defeated on a vote. However, Social Credit Leader Thompson's suggestion that it could be amended during clause-by-clause study appeared possible.

NDP Leader Douglas said his party would support the Conservative motion.

The NDP tried to move an amendment, ruled out of order, that criticized the bill for imposing compulsory arbitration and proposed an administrator to supervise the railways during collective bargaining.

Free University? Never—Chant

B.C. will never reach "the socialistic ideal" of providing free university educations for all, Works Minister W. N. Chant told a student delegation at an election meeting Tuesday night.

But education, which ranks first with 60 per cent of the provincial budget going to it and other social services, will receive even more assistance in the future, he said.

Mr. Chant and Waldo Skillings, MLA in the last legislature, parried questions across the floor with five University of Victoria students at a Victoria Social Credit election meeting at Tillicum School.

A student's desire for higher education as well as his parents' ability to pay for one are factors in whether he receives one, Mr. Chant told them.

NO CURE-ALL

"A minister doesn't make commitments on future spending," replied Mr. Chant.

Mr. Skillings told the students they were "ill advised to use such pressure tactics" on the government, but added "I think you've convinced me" and promised his support.

"We're not against you, we're for you," Mr. Chant said. "But you're only one segment of the population.

"In budgeting for the expenses of the province, you can't think of just one facet or two facets, but of all the people."

BROUGHT LIFE

He commended them for bringing "life and spirit" to the meeting.

But at one point when students' questions came thick and fast, they were told by Mr. Skillings to "hire a hall of your own, boys."

Earlier in the meeting Mr. Chant stated B.C.'s economy will develop "until not only will it equal Ontario and Quebec, but in dollar value we will exceed Ontario and Quebec in industrial production.

"This is no idle dream."

He slammed what he called the Liberal policy of "Saturday night rich, Monday morning broke.

"We can't manufacture money out of thin air, but we have done away with" the province's previous net debt, he said.

SURPRISES

He named as two highlights on the Social Credit government's record so far, the B.C. Electric takeover and the Peace River power project, and added that in all government matters "I would rather give surprises than promises."

Mr. Skillings said this is "not a gimmick election but one of the most important in the entire history of B.C."

Reason for the election, he said, was the redistribution bill, which "as soon as it became a fact," made the election a necessity so B.C. could be more fairly represented.

Kearns, president of Canadair Ltd., announced Tuesday his company has received a contract in excess of $5,000,000 to build cargo doors for what will be the world's largest airplane, the C-5A being built by the U.S. Lockheed-Georgia Co. ## MARKET SUMMARIES

Prices Soaring On All Fronts

Prices rose from the start and the trend was followed on all other exchanges.

IN VANCOUVER prices improved before noon as the local market reflected the New York recovery.

Pine Point Mines led the upward trend, jumping more than $6 to $57. A company spokesman, however, said there is no news to account for the sudden gain.

He said that planning for mining and milling the Pyramid ore body in the Northwest Territories is going ahead.

Other mining stocks to climb included Brenda, up 35 cents to $7.60; Dynasty, which put on 30 cents to $8.50, and Western Mines, which gained 20 cents to $4.80.

Industrials were generally better with Cominco putting on $1 to $36.12.

Prices rose from the start. Profit taking interrupted the rise late in the morning. After this was digested the market made even greater strides.

Glamor stocks were favored as usual, but buying spread throughout the list of key stocks also. Blue chips rose from fractions to 1 or 2 points. Eastman Kodak added 2, Du Pont 3.

IBM rose 5, Becton and Dickinson 4, Emery Air Freight 4, Pan American World Airways, Coca-Cola, Delta Airlinees, Ling-Temco-Vought and Jersey Standard about 3.

Among Canadian issues traded, International Nickel rose ⅞, McIntyre Porcupine ½ and Alcan and Distillers Seagrams ⅜ apiece. Dome Mines fell ½.

IN TORONTO the industrial index, an indicator of how key stocks move, climbed 1.12 to 146.44. Chrysler gained 2½ to 42 in pacing the list higher. International Minerals added 2 to 59, General Motors 1¾ at 78¼ and Du Pont 1 at 40.

Banks made solid gains with Montreal up 1½ to 55½, Toronto-Dominion 1¼ to 57¼ and Nova Scotia and Royal 1 each to 64½ and 69.

Denison jumped 1¼ to 55 in base metals and Scurry Rainbow 1⅛ to 21⅞ in western oils.

IN MONTREAL Royal Bank and Denison were one point ahead at 69 and 54½ respectively. Rio Algom gained ⅞ to 22¾ and Alcan ½ to 30¼. Other half-point winners were Cominco, at 35¾, Molson A, at 16, Shell, at 19¾ and Trans-Canada Pipe Line, at 27½.

Dominion Foundries and Steel of Canada were each ¼ better at 21¼ and 22 in the senior steels section.

Wage Increases Climbing Above Production Hikes

By DENNIS ORCHARD

It now may have reached the point where workers and executives are contributing less, dollar for dollar, to productivity than they did at the start of the current boom in 1961.

While DBS does not compile its own index of unit labor costs, a compilation of available DBS data tells the story.

1. A rapid growth in productivity during 1962 and 1963, lowering the index from 100 to 95.6 by February, 1964.

2. From early 1964, a boom in labor income which has increased markedly the ratio of wages and salaries to output; the index rose to 98.2 in the first six months of 1965, to 99 in the second half of 1965, and hit 99.9 in the first three months of this year.

GROWS FASTER

Economists here believe the acceleration will be even greater as new contracts won in the last four or five months show up in fresh labor-income figures.

It is a hard rule of economics that labor costs will be inflationary if they rise faster than productivity. In this kind of an index, minute increases represent acute pressures because wage bills make up 70 or 75 per cent of all production costs.

Causes and effects of the inflationary pressures will be certain fodder for more sharp debate among politicians this fall.

It seems equally certain that parliamentary debate will treat the subject in a much different vein than the Economic Council of Canada, which reports soon on a major study of wages, prices and employment.

FIRST SUCH ATTEMPT

It will be the first thorough attempt at the job, assessing such delicate subjects as the relationship of full employment to inflation, and the prospects of reducing the effect on Canada of U.S. economic conditions.

These are only two of the areas that do not admit easily of political candor.

The council also will survey anti-inflationary measures employed by European countries.

Prime Minister Pearson has indicated readiness to rely heavily on the report.
